WOE FOR CRUMPACKER.

Imports Men to Run Gary P. O.—Our F. B. Meyer Is Let Out.

Ex-Postmaster Frank B. Meyer of Rensselaer, who for the past two or three years has been assistant postmaster at Gary, both under Tom Knotts and Mr. Knotts' successor, with others has been "let out" and a gentleman from Elwood takes his place. The Gary Evening Post of Friday contains the following lengthy article of the changes made:

"Frank B. Meyer was to-day relieved of his position of assistant postmaster in the Gary postoffice by W. F. Kidwell of Elwood, Indiana, who has been appointed to the position filled by Mr. Meyer under the administration of Postmaster John W. Call.

"The substitution of an outside man for a citizen of Gary as assistant postmaster created a good deal of comment to-day among citizens to the effect that Congressman Crumpacker must have a poor opinion of the ability of Lake county citizens, when he goes outside of the county to make a postoffice appointment.

"Mr. Kidwell has been connected with the postoffice at Elwood for many years and is said to be excellently well qualified for the position to which he has been assigned. It is reported that he will bring with him to Gary two or three trained clerks who will be given places in the local office.

"Some weeks ago the postoffice authorities at Washington sent two inspectors to Gary who made a thorough investigation of the workings of the local office, as announced exclusively in The Evening Post at that time. It is reported upon good authority that their report recommended the dismissal of four persons connected with the office—Postmaster Call, Assistant Postmaster Meyer and two clerks in the office whose work has not been found satisfactory. As soon as Congressman Crumpacker learned of the nature of the report he foresaw a political storm and proceeded to exert his "pull" with the postoffice department, with such effect that Meyer alone suffers decapitation.

"There is a general feeling that Meyer is being made a scapegoat in the Gary postoffice matter, and that Crumpacker in his desperate effort to save himself from criticism, and from the enmity of the G. A. R. element in the Tenth district which would follow the dismissal of Postmaster Call, who is a veteran of the civil war, may discover that he has not entirely ridden himself of a burden which may prove to be a heavy one before the present campaign is over.

"At any rate, Postmaster Call will be retained through the influence of Crumpacker, despite the recommendation for a sweeping change in the official staff following complaints of Gary citizens for several months, and which resulted in a rigid government investigation last January.

"About two weeks ago Postmaster John W. Call, accompanied by his son, Harry V. Call, went to Washington, carrying with them the books of the Gary postoffice. It was current gossip at that time that the government investigation had revealed a shortage in the office accounts aggregating several hundred dollars, but it is presumed that the postmaster made a satisfactory explanation of the seeming discrepancies, which are alleged to have been the result of incompetent bookkeeping on the part of certain subordinates.

"Postmaster Call is well along in years and it is alleged he is physically unable to give that attention to office details which the growing magnitude of the Gary office warrants.

"During the last year many complaints have been registered at Washington by citizens of Gary, alleging carelessness and inefficiency

Even WE can do no more than that.

But if you think some of making a shift, we would be glad to give you the best service of which we are capable.

Often and often we have turned now-and-again customers into steady patrons.

And we lose a surprising few of the really particular grocery buyers, who once become our customers.

in handling the mails at this place and four different investigations have been made, it is said, each resulting in a recommendation for a change in the official staff of the local office.

"Assistant Postmaster Kidwell took charge of the postoffice this morning and contemplates making many radical changes and improvements in the method of handling mail at this place."

PEN SKETCHES OF NOTABLE PEOPLE

Emil Seidel, Milwaukee's Socialist Mayor.

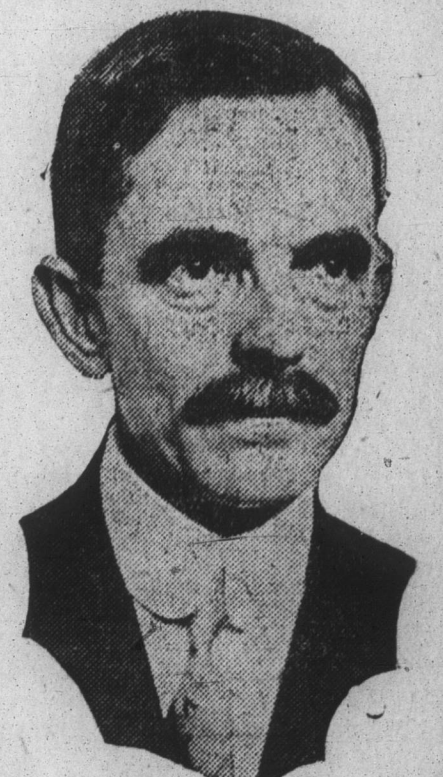

Emil Seidel, the newly elected mayor of Milwaukee, is a business man of good standing in the community and has been prominent in the political affairs of the city for some years. In 1908 he was the Socialist nominee for the mayoralty, but was defeated. He has served several terms as alderman and after his defeat for mayor was chosen alderman at large to fill a vacancy caused by death.

Physically Mayor Seidel is a little man, not much over five feet in height and of slight build. His forehead is high, his nose prominent, and his mouth shows firmness and strength. He is a native of Pennsylvania and forty-five years old; but, while still an infant, his parents took him to Minnesota. Later his family moved to Milwaukee, and here the future mayor grew up. His education, except what he has given himself, was acquired in the public schools. At the age of thirteen he started to learn furniture carving, but later became a patternmaker. At the time of his election he was secretary and treasurer of the Milwaukee Pattern and Manufacturing company. Because of failing health he went to Germany in 1886, remaining abroad six years. On his return in 1892 he joined the Social Democratic party, in which he has since been active.

Congressman Havens of New York. James S. Havens of Rochester, who has just been elected to congress from the Thirty-second New York district, is the second Democrat to succeed a Republican in the lower house since the Sixty-first congress convened. He will occupy the seat made vacant by the death of James B. Perkins, Republican. Mr. Havens defeated George W. Aldridge, Republican leader of the district and a power in his party in the Empire State for more than twenty years.

The new congressman is a native of the state he represents and is fifty-one years old. He was graduated from Yale with high honors in 1884, studied law in Rochester and has practiced his profession since 1887. For more than five years he was the partner of the late Representative Perkins, whom he succeeds. Mr. Havens stumped the country for Cleveland in 1888, was an ardent supporter of Roswell P. Flower for governor in 1891 and again for Cleveland for president in 1892. Since that year Mr. Havens has held aloof from the politics of his party, refusing to support William J. Bryan in his campaigns for the presidency or William R. Hearst for governor. Yet in Mr. Havens' recent campaign for congress against Mr. Aldridge, John D. Lynn, one of Bryan's most notable adherents in former years, and Mr. Hearst supported Mr. Havens most enthusiastically.

Queen Maud's Vision.

It is told of Queen Maud of Norway that she has kept for years a crystal sphere with which she occasionally indulges in the harmless pastime of crystal-gazing. Long before she ever dreamed of being a king's consort, it is said, she saw herself in the crystal being crowned, and, regarding the vision as nonsense, she gave up her occult investigations for two years.
