THE SUPREME EFFORT OF KAISERISM

The following editorial from the Indianapolis Star sums up the military situation in France in a way as to encourage those who would make permanent defeat from what is no doubt only temporary reverses. That the situation is critical and demands the extreme utmost effort from every American as well as our allies, can not and need not be denied, but, as the Star says, there is no real cause for feeling deeply depressed. The editorial is as follows:

The German drive on the west front is developing great intensity and is netting the enemy some gains in prisoners, munitions and area, but it should not be taken too seriously in this country. There is no occasion for throwing up hands in despair and assuming that defeat is just ahead, for it is not. The enemy is making the supreme effort of the war. He is risking all on this one great attempt at forcing a military decision, and unless he gains that he will register a crushing defeat.

The people in central Europe have been buoyed up on stories of what would happen when Hindenburg was ready to strike on the keep business moving, of that there can be no doubt, and this very naturally presupposes something like normal habits of life. On the other hand, we must also save, to meet the many calls upon us. If there is a Solomon among us, it seems about time he should come to the judgment.

That message of sympathy from President Wilson to the people of Russia was not only the expression of the sentiment of the American people, but rather a master stroke of policy as well. Lenin and his kind have never represented the masses of the people of Russia, and it is not beyond the bounds of possibility that their teeming millions may yet develop a Moses who will lead them from German bondage to the light and liberty of the free peoples of the earth.

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS

When Billy Sunday finishes in Chicago he will go to France. Billy needs rest and quiet.

Boston is to have whale meat. It is hoped the whale won't crowd the humble bean off the platter.

We have permission to eat mutton. But how are we going to get the mutton unless we eat the dog that ate the sheep?

That fellow who married his mother-in-law in order to avoid the draft, evidently wasn't suffering from any want of courage.

Maryland voted for nation-wide prohibition but decided to keep her supply of booze on hand in a friendly effort to quench those Washington thirsts.

The profiteers seem to have rounded up all the food. Now let the government round-up the profiteers and we'll have the yeggs with the goods on them.

Since Uncle Sam has taken over the railroads he can sympathize with the fellow who buys a second-hand car. It's not in the original cost, it's in the upkeep.

Little Finland asked for a son of the Kaiser as her ruler, and the Kaiser sent his armies ahead to be sure of the right kind of a reception for the kid. The Kaiser is wise—the kid might get lost.

Dispatches state that in Petrograd there are pending 38,000 petitions for divorce. And we'll bet our last summer's hat they are mostly filed by the women. Mighty few women can love a coward.

All honor to Captain Archie Roosevelt! That honorable wound, received while bravely battling at the front, will go a long way toward reconciling the people here at home to any little peculiarities they may not like about the Colonel.

That Eastern fellow who was convicted of assault and fined for kissing his wife against her will, evidently never heard the old adage, "When a woman will, she will, you may depend on't; and when she won't, she won't, and there's an end on't."

Victor Berger, in his candidacy for United States senator, demands the recall of our troops from France. Couldn't somebody get Victor to do some electioneering over in Canada? Those Canadians have a mighty convincing way of answering arguments of that kind. Mrs. Lena Guilbert Ford, author of the immortal song, "Keep the Home Fires Burning," was killed in a German air raid on London. Mrs. Ford was an American, and never fear but Americans will keep the home fires burning, and our poet's song and her tragic fate will add fuel to the flames.

When Secretary of War Baker was under investigation, among the criticisms leveled at his administration was that he and the war were 3,000 miles apart. The Secretary answered every other criticism to the satisfaction of the country, and then went to France. He is now in close personal touch with the war, and it is hoped his critics are worked and will go to boosting. War is what is needed, anyway, not criticism.

PHILOSOPHY OF WALT MASON

The winter nearly killed me off; it gave me grip and whooping cough, the mumps, the measles and the itch, the rheumatiz and gout and sich. I'm thankful that I have survived—the circus season has arrived! Today the first show came to town; it took three men to hold me down. For always when the circus comes, the ancient blood within me hums. I never weary of its sights, its atmosphere and rare delights. I love the grand free street parade, I love the lukewarm lemonade, the gymnasts, india-rubber men, the crocodiles from distant fen, the lovely girls with diadems composed of sparkling plate glass gems. I love the tigers in their cage, moth eaten lions in a rage, the camels with their hilly backs,

IF ANY VOTER FAILS TO SO REGISTER HE CANNOT VOTE

the snakes, the warthogs and the yaks. I love the wild hyena's yell, I love the good old circus smell; there's nothing like that fine rich scent outside the canvas circus tent. The same old fragrance that I knew in youth, when all my skies were blue, and I played hookey that my eyes might see the tented paradise. And when I hear the circus growl, the mingled groan and roar and howl, the bark, the mutter and the whine, the same old thrill runs up my spine.
