

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Buy Now While Deliveries Are Possible

Buy your Ford car now while deliveries are possible. There is only a limited, specific number of Ford cars allotted to this territory. You will be wise to buy one now while we can get cars to deliver. A signed order with us is your protection.

Even our small allotment of Ford cars is not shipped us until we have bonafide orders for them. This is because the demand for Ford cars all over the country is greater than the supply or production. So, don't depend on spring delivery.

Only so many Ford cars will be shipped in to this territory; only so many will be able to get Ford cars. If you would be forehanded and plan ahead, you will have us deliver you a Ford car as soon as possible. Then you will have it to use whenever you want it.

The Ford is an all year utility—in your home or business. Its serviceability, its ease of operation, its low cost of maintenance has made it such. It will serve you the year around. Spring and summer, autumn and winter, it is your servant; always ready to do your bidding.

WHERE RESPONSIBILITY RESTS

Whatever differences of opinion there may be as to the form in which the treaty of peace with Germany should be ratified, there is no question at all that the responsibility for affirmative, decisive action belongs to the United States senate.

The Republicans in that branch of congress are bound to the extent of their control to take the initiative and restore the treaty to the category of subjects upon which the senate is expected to act. They have at their command all the machinery of the senate, including the foreign relations committee, which they "packed" last spring to make sure that its report and determination with regard to the treaty should be in accord with the majority's plans and purposes.

In the hope of escaping their duty the Republican leaders in the senate are pretending now to hesitate lest the majority's mode of ratification may fail of executive approval. This attitude might win more credence if it were not that these same leaders a few months ago made it a matter of boast that they cared nothing for the president's views except to criticize and reject them.

The demand for the ratification of the treaty has not only not abated but has grown steadily more general and insistent. The acceptance of the treaty by the former associates of the United States in the war and the resumption of diplomatic and commercial relations between those nations and Germany has left this country the only power at war with her. There can be no return to normal conditions—political, economic or financial—in this country until peace has been re-established in form as well as in substance.

It is the function and the duty of the senate to bring about peace. It is the responsibility of the majority of the senate to undertake the task. Playing politics has been a costly game for every interest of the nation. It promises to be equally costly for the Republican majority which has thus far used its predominance in the senate not to promote but to jeopardize the honor and welfare of the United States.

Senator Poindexter has challenged General Wood to a debate in South Dakota. Having been among the noisiest of the opponents of the treaty in the senate, Mr. Poindexter ought to be in excellent form for long distance talking.

Chairman Hays of the Republican national committee announces that in the next campaign "strict standards of morals, equity and justice" will govern his party. Everyone will welcome this Republican novelty.

If the railroads made no better time than the Republican congress has made in legislating for them

Now that Germany has signed and accepted the treaty her example ought to persuade some of her former abettors in this country.

MINER FORCED TO GIVE UP WORK

Couldn't Raise Hand as High as His Head—Gains Twenty-Five Pounds.

"I was in such an awful condition from my twelve years of troubles that I had to quit work entirely, but now since I have taken Tanlac I have gone back to my work and never felt better in my whole life," was the unusual statement made by William A. Cruickshank of Bartonville, Ill., recently.

"You see, the dampness of the mine had given me the very worst kind of rheumatism," he continued, "that had been troubling me for about twelve years. My elbows hurt me so bad that I couldn't raise my arm as high as my head, and when I sat down to the table I could hardly lift a cup of coffee to my mouth, and my arms and elbows pained me so bad I had to keep them bandaged in all sorts of applications to try and get some relief so I could sleep a little at night. My legs also gave me a lot of trouble and at times I could hardly get about, they hurt me so bad. And this wasn't all, my stomach was all out of order and I was never able to eat anything and enjoy it for thinking about the pains and belching that would bother me for hours after every meal. I didn't have any appetite and fell off in weight terribly, and went about all the time with a dull heavy feeling about me.

"This was my condition when I gave up mining coal for it was a case of give up or die, and I guess I would have still been in this shape if it hadn't been for a friend who told me about Tanlac and got me to take it. Well, sir, I hadn't taken but a few doses before I could just feel the trouble leaving me and my appetite coming back. And now I haven't a trace of rheumatism in my whole body and I don't believe any man can look at me and tell that I ever had it in my life. I am eating anything set before me and digesting it without the least bit of trouble, and I never have that dull, heavy feeling any more. I sleep fine at night, have been back at work quite a while and am able to mine as much coal as ever in my life. When I started taking Tanlac I weighed about one hundred and eighteen pounds and now I tip the scales at one hundred and fifty-three, and have never felt better before."

Tanlac is sold in Rensselaer by Larsh & Hopkins, and in Remington by Frank L. Peck.—Adv.

COUNTY EDUCATIONAL NOTES

Oscar H. Williams will address the Newton township rural educational conference, to be held in the west court room at the court house Monday, Feb. 2. There are a number of speakers, including Chas. W. Postill, George A. Williams, John Rush and others.

Ernest Shultz is down with the grip. He is teaching the upper room at Gifford. The school closed there last Thursday in the lower room also. Miss Helen Kessinger is teaching the primary room there. Miss Edna Reed took sick last Tuesday and was unable to teach her school the remainder of this week. She is teaching at Independence in Barkley. Miss Margaret Marshall, principal at Demotte, underwent a minor operation at Indianapolis last week and was out of the schools there for a few days. She is back again. It is becoming a problem to keep the schools open. Teachers seem to have more sickness than usual.

The first teachers' examination of the year will be held at the high school auditorium today. There will be no examination in February. Teachers of experience are urged to license themselves at the state department. A state license is often very essential when opportunities present themselves in schools outside of Jasper county.

Two commissions were issued by the state board of education in the meeting at Indianapolis Jan. 16 last that affected the schools of Jasper county. One was to the Rensselaer city schools and the other to the Fair Oaks school. There are several schools in Jasper county whose school status has not been considered by the state board. Those are Remington, Demotte, Wheatfield and Tefft.
