"The Flame of the Yukon"

By MONTE M. KATTERJOHN Supervised by THOMAS H. INCE

A Tale of the Rush for Gold:

The drama and the tragedy of the rush for gold in Alaska is depicted in "The Flame of the Yukon," in which Dorothy Dalton is starring, which will be shown at the STAR THEATRE NEXT THURSDAY, FEB. 12.

The time of this Triangle Play is in the days of '98 when the gold-mad crowds sought to uncover the wealth of the Frozen North, when there was no law of God or man in the camps and where a man's quickness "on the draw" decided the question of whether he would live to get back to the States with his fortune.

Miss Dalton is "The Flame." One night she is told by Black Jack Hovey, the owner of the dance hall, to pluck a stranger, who seems to have his belt well filled with gold. In the process of plucking him she discovers the stranger is throwing a bluff and that it is sand instead of gold dust in his belt.

When a stampede is on for a new gold field "The Flame" stakes the stranger, telling him not to come back if he fails to strike pay dirt. After he leaves she decides to give up her manner of living and through the lonely arctic winter she waits for the return of the man who has won her love.

The stranger strikes it rich but on his return is told that "The Flame" is dead. His fortune is won by Black Jack and his crooked far game. "The Flame" returns to the dance hall and pays Black Jack back in his own coin, she wins back the fortune the stranger winning back the fortune the stranger. Then comes the big scene in the show when Dorothy Dalton gives up the man she loves to the woman she thinks has a better claim on him, only to find that in so doing she has made it easier for the stranger to declare his love for her.

"The Flame of the Yukon" was written by Monte M. Katterjohn, directed by Thomas H. Ince.

Trustee William C. Graefnitz of Lake township was in Morocco on business Friday. While the small-pox situation in Lake has improved considerably, Mr. Graefnitz deemed it advisable to have all the pupils vaccinated to keep the schools closed this week at least. It is not thought that there will be any further spread of the disease.

Dr. C. E. Triplett, who has practiced medicine in Morocco for nearly thirty years, has announced his retirement. This step is made necessary by the doctor's continued ill health, and while his many friends and patients will regret the same, none can deny him the privilege when it is absolutely necessary for his future welfare. For more than a week now Dr. Triplett has been confined to his home and his progress has been retarded considerably by the insistent calls for his services, and this fact has hastened his decision to retire.

Word was received here Tuesday afternoon stating that Elmer Brewer had passed away at Swink, Colo., where he had gone with his wife and son early in December for the benefit of his health. A message was received here Monday stating that an operation had been necessary and that his condition was critical. John Whaley, a brother of Mrs. Brewer, left that evening for Colorado. Another message was received Tuesday morning stating that Elmer was dying, and Harry McClatchey left for the west on the next train. However, he had not yet left Chicago when word of his death was received, and he returned home Wednesday. It is presumed that Mr. Whaley went on and will accompany Mrs. Brewer here with the remains. Elmer Brewer had spent most of his life in this community and had a large circle of friends here who deeply regret his untimely death.

J. D. Kessler, one of the most widely known and highly esteemed residents of Morocco, passed away at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. Death followed an illness of about two weeks' duration, during which every effort was made to stay the unrelenting hand of the Grim Reaper.
