A. D. Babcock has secured two very valuable old swords from Charles Steward, the insurance man at Rensselaer. One of these swords is an old dueling sword used in the days of Andrew Jackson, the other a cutlass used in the navy and the date shows it was manufactured in 1742. These swords are rare specimens, on exhibition in the office window.

The marriage of Miss Della Wehmer and Edward Gray took place in St. John's church at Fairbury, Ill., at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday, Feb. 17, Rev. Father Aout officiating. Mrs. John Hansell fell Wednesday, breaking both bones of her left arm at the wrist.

Harold Bremer is home from Ann Arbor and will remain here until the flu in Ann Arbor has subsided, there being 1,500 cases there.

T. F. Holt of Cincinnati came Tuesday of last week to be with his brother Llewellyn in his last hours of sickness, and Mrs. Holt came last Thursday morning to attend the funeral, both returning to their home Sunday.

Mable May Kroft, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kroft, died last Sunday at the Kroft home of influenza. She was a student in the Winamac high school. A private funeral was held Wednesday of this week at the Cass township Evangelical church and burial made in the Evangelical graveyard.

Ed Dinger, who had lived in Medaryville for about 25 years, died last Friday morning, Feb. 13, of influenza. He was 66 years old. His funeral was held Sunday and the body taken to Loda, Ill., his former home, where it was buried on Tuesday of this week. Miss Letha Dinger, sister of Ed Dinger, and who has kept house for him, is quite sick with influenza at the home of Theo. Bremer.

Mrs. Charles Kahn died Tuesday evening of this week of influenza, which she contracted soon after the birth of their baby, born about two weeks ago. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon of this week. Mrs. Kahn was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tiede of near Denham and a sister of Mrs. Wm. Kahn. She leaves her husband and six children, all of whom have been sick with influenza, but are better at this writing.

Last Sunday evening the Hugo Manning home burned to the ground. The entire upstairs was on fire when the discovery was made and it was impossible to save any of the contents of the second floor, where the furniture belonging to Mrs. Emma Miller and Ralph Manning was stored. Practically everything on the lower floor was saved. It was only by the most strenuous efforts that the nearby buildings were saved. We understand Mr. Manning had $975 insurance on the house and its contents, that Mrs. Miller had $300 insurance, but that Ralph did not have insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Manning had been living temporarily at the Hugo Manning home, waiting to get possession of the farm owned by Nell Williams, east of town.

Law has been appointed guardian.

J. R. Hafstrom has applied for a patent on a tire pump that manufacturers and jobbers say beats anything on the market. Mr. Hafstrom is the inventor of the pump and proposes to have the same made and marketed on a large scale. He was in Chicago Wednesday conferring with the manufacturers and jobbers. Mr. Hafstrom's pump differs from all others in that it has a valve at the bottom which permits an easy inflow of air when the plunger is being raised, and which closes when the plunger reaches the top. It is said that it works much faster and easier than any other pump made.

Mrs. Mary Margaret Wright, widow of Joseph G. Wright, one of the pioneer women of Newton county, was called to her eternal rest last Friday forenoon.
