Kerosene Useful in Various Ways in Domestic Economy.

Kerosene oil is a great help to loosen dirt, used in various ways. It is good for cleaning an iron sink. If the children's hands are stuck up with balsam or wagon grease, try rubbing them with a rag wet in kerosene before applying soap and water. If they get wagon grease on their clothes, a little soap and kerosene will take it out. To clean dirty clothes, such as coarse towels, take a tablespoonful of kerosene and a small piece of soap. Boil these together with a quart of water till it makes an emulsion. Put this in your boiler with enough cold water to cover your clothes and let it come to a boil, stirring the clothes occasionally. This saves a lot of hard rubbing.—Suburban Life.

Cleaning Brass and Copper.

For cleaning brass pans use salt and vinegar, which should be rubbed in well. Then rub with finely powdered bath brick and water or any brass polish. Thoroughly rinse out with hot water and polish with a clean dry cloth or leather. For the copper pans take half a lemon. One that has the juice squeezed out will do. Dip in powdered bath brick and with it rub the outside of the pan. Do not use acid for the inside, but clean off all marks with powdered bath brick and soap. Rinse well with hot water, then dry and polish.

Working Buttonholes.

When working a buttonhole in a heavy cloth or one that pulls and frays, it saves much trouble to work the hole by basting thread, then stitching close to this on the machine, putting in two rows just the length of the buttonhole to be. Cut with a sharp penknife between these lines and work closely in the ordinary way over the machine stitching. This buttonhole will keep its shape and remain intact as long as the cloth holds together.

Salted Almonds.

Salted almonds prepared at home always seem better than those purchased, perhaps because they are usually fresher. One only needs to blanch them and to each half pint add one tablespoonful of melted butter and one teaspoonful of fine salt. Stir well and then spread the nuts in a shallow cake tin, baking in a rather cool oven until the almonds become brown. This will take about twenty minutes.

Household Hints.

Remove vaseline stains by washing in warm water and soap; rinse and apply chlorinated soda to the stain.

To keep brass or copper bright for some time after cleaning rub it over with beaten white of egg.

To prevent cane or bamboo from yellowing when washed use warm salt water; rub with soft cloths until dry.

Stains on Mattresses.

Stains on mattresses may be removed by making a paste of fuller's earth and water to which ammonia in the proportion of one teaspoonful to half a pint has been added.

Lay this over the stains, rub slightly in with the fingers and leave till it is dry. A second application may be necessary if the stain has not been removed.

Cement For China.

A good cement for mending broken china: Dissolve a little gum arabic in a little warm water so that it is rather thick; put enough plaster of paris into this to make a thick paste. Cement broken pieces of china together, and in half an hour they cannot be broken in the same place. Hot water seems to make it more firm.

Washing White Stockings.

Good laundresses when washing white stockings, whether of silk or thread, add a few drops of oxalic acid to the water. The reason of this is that the acid has the effect of removing stains caused by the boots and shoes, which are only "set" when washed with ordinary soap and water.

Stains on Leather.

Stains from leather are removed by the use of paraffin. It likewise gives a brilliant polish. To remove sugar and syrup stains wash the stained part with warm water without soap, then rub with ammonia diluted with warm water. If not washable, use diluted alcohol.

To Boom California.

To offset the lingering effects of the San Francisco earthquake a movement which has been shaping for the past four months has at last taken definite form in the Development Society of California. Its avowed purpose is to expend from half a million to a million dollars in legitimate advertising of California's unrivaled resources and attractions throughout the middle west and the eastern states.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Origin of the Expression "Happy Hunting Grounds."

You often hear or see the expression "happy hunting grounds," and it may be that some of our readers do not know how it originated or what it means. It is the name given to the Indian's heaven, which his imagination paints as a prairie well stocked with buffalo and other game, with no one to molest him or make him afraid. From this belief arose the custom of killing the Indian's pony at the burying ground, so that he may enjoy sport with it forever in the other world, for they also believe that the pony will accompany its dead master. That he may have his weapons ready when he gets there, they bury with him his rifle, his pistol, his bow and his quiver of arrows. Thus equipped he goes to the "happy hunting grounds," where he will enjoy endless sport.

Where Four States Meet.

The United States is the only country in the world that has a "four corners," that is to say, a place where four states meet. Look at your atlas and you will see Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona touching each other. At no other place on the globe do four states, territories or provinces unite to form such a junction.

The Barber's Pole.

How many of you can tell why a barber has a red and white striped pole as a sign? In the olden time barbers were also surgeons in a small way, particularly in the operation of bleeding. To assist the operation it was necessary for the patient to grasp a staff, and the barber always kept one ready, as well as strips of cloth for bandaging the patient's arm. When the staff was not in use the bandage was tied to it so that they might be together when wanted, and the barber usually hung them at his door as a sign. In the course of time, however, a painted pole took the place at the door of the one used in the operation, and thus came the sign.

They're a Majority.

He—I understand two of your sisters have joined the great majority.

She—Yes. One of them married a man named Jones and the other a man named Brown.—Evening Mail.

Wellman's "Cold Feet."

In those ancient days Walter Wellman, even then a hunter after the north pole, was one of the most assiduous of the players that assembled every night in the poker room of the Press club. Mr. Wellman was ever a cautious player, and it was the irritated and annoyed Colonel Sterrett who spread continuously the rumor that Mr. Wellman was a man who could be easily induced to quit the game when his stack of chips had grown to respectable proportions. Colonel Sterrett declared that he had made a list of the excuses offered by Mr. Wellman for breaking away from the game while still a winner and that Mr. Wellman had never repeated himself.

It was while Mr. Wellman was preparing for one of his dashes for the pole that he met Colonel Sterrett in Shoemaker's and insisted on telling at great length of the preparations he had made for resisting the arctic cold. Quite a little crowd gathered and listened attentively. Then Colonel Sterrett spoke.

"Walter, you have told us with great circumstantiality of the method to be adopted by you to prevent your face being frozen," said Colonel Sterrett. "That is the last thing that concerns us. What we want to know, Walter, is how in thunder are you going to keep your feet warm?"—New York Telegram.
