The Deadly Sex.

Women has gained many victories for the emancipation of her sex during the last few years along with hard earned and well deserved triumphs she has annexed certain special privileges.

Not the least of these is the right to commit murder as established by many juries under all sorts of circumstances recently. Public prosecutors have come to regard as the bane of the existence the duty of placing a man on trial for the killing of a mere man, Chicago has several dozen cases of this kind and every one has ended in acquittal. Every state has had similar instances and it has been pretty well established that juries prefer the unsupported word of a woman to that of a man.

These would be the sweet days of satisfaction for the caveman's wife if she could only come back and see how her daughters are handling the predatory male.

Hon. Jacob L. O'Bannon, Democratic candidate for Congress was in Jasper, early Monday morning on his way to Ireland Portersville, Madison, and Boone township to see the voters. Mr. O'Bannon is confident of the nomination. Everything is coming his way.

Robert Brown the booze candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination and some C-light preacher was discussing Prohibition at Huntington Tuesday night. Prohibition is settled in the U. S. for a long time. Whiskey in Montana is only $8 per quart. It cost Congressman and Senator $12. While the ordinary mortal can buy good corn whiskey in Eastern Kentucky at $5 according to latest quotations, lots of booze for those who have the price. We saw a Jasper Manufacturer on the street last Sunday drunk as a lord.

Huntingburg Bank New Officers.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Huntington bank was held Apr. 15. The officers presented a statement of the largest amount of business in the history of the bank. The stockholder elected a board of directors consisting of Louis Katterhenry, William Heitman, William Rauscher, Hugo Robert, and J. V. Stinson. The vacancy caused by the death of Henry C. Landgrebe was filled by electing J. V. Stinson a member of the board. Louis Katterhenry was re-elected president and Hugo C. Rother cashier.

Farmer gets $5.58 out of a $75 Suit.

The Indiana farmer receives $5.58 for the wool that goes into a suit intended to clothe a man weighing 175 pounds, according to Claude Harper, University of Purdue sheep specialist.

The above mentioned suit will contain 3 1/4 yards of cloth. The average light medium weight wool suit weigh 14 ounces a yard making the entire weight of the suit 49 ounces. In the manufacture of all wool cloth it requires 1 1/4 pounds of scoured wool to produce a pounds of cloth. Therefore considering waste in manufacturing, it requires about 84 ounces of scoured wool for the average suit of clothes.

"If a suit is made of the very best grade of Indiana wool, which is now selling at 90 cents a pound a wool suit will cost $6.37," says Mr. Harper. The cost of shipping, commission and others expenses is at least 5 cents a pound and comes from the pocket of the producer. These suits retail at the way from 40 to $75 and even higher."

Quotations from American Patriots.

Suitable for Mottoes in Posts of the American Legion.

Patrick Henry said: "Give me liberty or give me death, with compensation for death and a bonus for liberty."

Nathan Hale said: "I only regret that I have but one life to give to my country, for had I nine lives to give, my widow would receive nine pensions."

Stephen Decatur said: "My country, may she ever be right! But right or wrong, my country, and my bonus."

Abraham Lincoln said: "The last full measure of devotion, at fifty dollars per month."

Brown's Record.

MR. EDITOR:—R. C. Brown, of Salem, Indiana, has scatted cards over this Congressional District, on which cards he says that he is seeking the Democratic nomination for Representative in Congress on a wet platform. He says that he is opposed to the Federal Regulatory Act, known as the Volstead Law, and that he is in favor of the repeal of the Federal Constitutional Prohibition Amendment.

He had also placed in the Jeffersonville Evening News and other daily papers, a statement asserting that he has been constantly opposed to prohibition and among other things says "I have never voted for prohibition and never will". I have made the statement after seeing Mr. Brown's cards and before seeing the statement in the papers, "That he had been dry". I have served in the Indiana Legislature but before making up my mind to answer Mr. Brown, I have investigated his record. Mr. Brown served in the Indiana Legislature as Representative from Washington County during the regular sessions of 1907 and 1909 and the special session of 1908. and his record is as follows:

1st. In 1907 he voted for what is known as the Liquor Regulation Act, which is more stringent and drastic in its terms and contains more authority of search and seizure than the Volstead Act. Why complain of the Federal Act when he voted for an Indiana Law more stringent and with more authority of search and seizure?

2nd. At a special session of the Indiana Legislature in 1908, he voted in favor of an amendment to the Constitution of Indiana, providing for State wide Prohibition. This proposed a amendment to the State Constitution of Indiana is identical in nature to our present Federal Constitutional Amendment. Mr. Brown voted for it and yet he never voted for prohibition. How could this be?

3rd. At the 1907 Legislature, Mr. Brown voted for what is known as the "Moore Remonstrance Law."

4th. At the special session of 1908 he voted for the "Matingly One Thousand Dollar License Law."

5th. In 1909 session of the Indiana Legislature, he voted for the One Thousand Dollar License Law in connection with the township Option Law.

At these session of the Legislature, Mr. Brown was known as a Hanley Democrat. How does he explain his present stand with the dry record that he has. It looks like he is simply trying to fool the voters.

VICE PRESIDENT LAUDS WORK OF THE SALVATION ARMY

STATESMAN PAYS TRIBUTE TO PERSONALITY OF EVANGELINE BOOTH.

"ARMY FILLS GREAT NEED"

Problem of the Age is to Arouse Brotherhood of Man, Says Mr. Marshall in Voluntary Appreciation of Army's Work.

A heartfelt appreciation of the Salvation Army and Commander Evangeline Booth was made by Vice-President Marshall in an informal address before a small group of people in Phoenix, Arizona, March 14. Friends of the Army preserved the address.

Accompanied by Mrs. Marshall, the vice president went to Arizona to grieve over the loss of the little foster son who had come to mean so much to them. Finding himself called upon to speak, the vice president chose the Salvation Army, to talk about, and gave as his reason the following statement:

"I said to myself while here I would say nothing on any public question, but when I was informed that there was to be a meeting for promoting the interests of the Salvation Army, I said I could not keep silent and be faithful to the memory of the little one we loved so well, if by any word of mine I could induce you gentlemen to be faithful to the little ones still on earth."

Continuing the vice president said:

"I have sat for seven years in the seats of the mighty, and I have met, perhaps, more of the great men of the earth than any American prior to this age has ever seen—scholars, statesmen, diplomats, patriots, orators, warriors—and yet of all the great ones that the opportunities of my office have enabled me to meet, the greatest man I have met was not a man, he was a woman, and her name is Evangeline Booth! I speak with no mere lip service, but as a genuine outpouring that have founded above all human passions of one who has tried, with a clear and deliberate judgment, to survey the world and tried to find out what the world needs."

Wise to Promote Happiness.

"I have not myself been opposed to any measure of legislation which good men have thought would contribute to the good of the people, but more and more, as the years go by and the nearer I get to that time when I must push aside the purple curtains for the twilight and go home, I hope, I am convinced that the wisdom of mankind is to promote the real happiness of the human race, and that there is but one supreme thing in every human life that will enable a man to reach what Thomas Jefferson said—that is, a supreme belief in an overruling and all-loving God."

"I am myself, as most of you know, an old-fashioned, blue-stocking Presbyterian, but I am a far better Presbyterian than I am a Christian, and there are a lot of others in the same boat. I glory in the traditions of my church. I have faith that it is a power for good in the world. I am not lessening the good-will and respect I bear for my own when I say to you that it is my deliberate judgment that there is not anything today in the world that is comparable to what the Salvation Army is doing for humankind. I never have doubted it since I first met and listened to Evangeline Booth. Of all the great orators in the world, she is the greatest."

"If, instead of being a Salvation lassie, she had been an actress, no woman would have graced the stage as she would have; if, instead of being a Salvation lassie, she had been a politician, it would not have been worth while for anyone else to run on the other ticket. It has been ten years now since I first met her and presided over one of her meetings."

MARNE MEMORIAL POSTER

JUST as the school children of France gave for their country's gift to the United States—the Statue of Liberty—so will American school children contribute "one cent and upward" for "America's Gift to France," a monumental statue by Frederick MacMonnies, the noted American sculptor. Mr. MacMonnies is contributing his services toward the monument which, it is estimated, will cost $250,000.

The poster shown herewith, is by Albert Sterner, noted American portrait painter. It typifies the tribute this country will pay to the French through the Marne monument. The poster will be displayed in cities, towns, and villages, and will designate many of the places where contributions may be made during the week of March 22—a free-will offering, in which numbers of contributors, rather than size of contributions, will be sought from school children and others.

Contributions are now being received at National Headquarters, 150 Nassau street, New York, by Charles H. Sabin, president of one of New York's largest trust companies, who is treasurer of the fund.

The memorial will be erected at and she pricked my conscience as a Presbyterian then, and she has been hitting it many a blow since.

Difference Between Horses and Men.

"I remember well what she said about the different way in which we treat men and treat horses—how if a horse falls down on the icy pavement, the street-car stops; one man—a second, a third and a fourth—pats the horse on the neck and says, 'Whoa, boy!' and no one asks the horse how he happened to fall down. But, in our treatment of our fellow man, she said, when he is down, before we ever attempt to help him up we inquire how he came to fall down and what was in him to make him fall. For the first time in all my religious life I understood what was meant by the Scriptures (I do not quote accurately): 'How can you love God whom you have not seen if you do not love your brother whom you have seen?' From that time I have watched, and whether I could by word of mouth or by contribution, I have helped this Salvation Army, for what the world really needs, and you know it and I know it, is not somebody who is underneath you pushing you up, or someone who is above you pulling you up, but it is somebody who is just beside you, walking with with you and keeping you up, and that is what the Salvation Army does for humankind."

"Brotherhood in America is something of a joke. In the city of Washington a lady's maid will not associate with a chamber-maid, and a chamber-maid will not associate with a scullery-maid. A chauffeur will not associate with a Government clerk, and a Government clerk will not associate with a clerk in a store. And what a clerk in a store will associate with I have never found out. We preach here about democracy and about God making all men equal, and we go on, each man arrogating to himself that he is just a little bit better than any other man."

"Now, The Salvation Army does not do that. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the lowest magdalene sitting by the wayside of life are treated just the same. The Salvation Army says, 'God made you all, and if you expect to have any standing in His sight you have got to get nearer together and closer together and have more confidence in each other.'

Asks Blessing on Salvation Army.

"I do not want you to think that I am disloyal to my own church, because I belong to one that you cannot quit. They can throw you out, and I do not want to be thrown out, and I do not mean that should lessen any zeal you have for your various denominations, but I do mean that this organization fills a great need in the world today. The problem is not one of labor or capital, or of poverty or riches, or of democracy or aristocracy. The problem of this age is to believe that men are mutually helpful to each other, and that men have mutual interests in each other. That is the problem of this age and toward the total solution of it all religious organizations of America will contribute, but I know of no organization which will stand back of men and humankind better than the Salvation Army. And for its success I pray God's blessing! It can find things out for you that you and I could not find out."

"There is a man out here at Scottsdale that I think more of than any man in America. Do you know why? I will tell you: Because when he goes by my little bungalow he throws up his head and yells: 'Hello, Tom!' I am not Vice-President of the United States to him; I am just a plain, old-fashioned, God-fearing American to that man. That is what I like about that fellow, and that is what I like about The Salvation Army. That is what, I hope, will permeate into the hearts of the churches and into the hearts of all our people."

Just Where and How Is the Money to be Spent?

A businesslike Answer to a businesslike Question

THIRTY denominations cooperating in the Interchurch World Movement have budgeted their needs. No business could have done it more scientifically.

They have united to prevent the possibility of duplication or waste. At least a million dollars will be saved by the fact that thirty individual campaigns are joined in one united effort.

Each denomination has arranged its budget under six main heads:

1 FOR THE CHURCH'S WORK AT HOME. A score of times some people under 25 years of age are entering American life without any religious training at all. Remembering the faith of Washington and Lincoln, do you think that America will continue to produce Washington and Lincoln if faith dies out of the hearts of its youth?

2 FOR HOSPITALS AND HOMES. Every year thousands of men and women seriously ill are turned away from Church hospitals because of lack of room. The children's homes are compelled to turn away more children than they can receive.

3 FOR HIGHER EDUCATION. Of the 450,000 American students in institutions of higher grade, one-half are in institutions founded and supported by the Churches. Many of these institutions have had no great endowment campaigns, but their needs are just as pressing as the needs of larger schools, and you have only to read their list of alumni and alumnae to measure the value of their contribution to America.

4 FOR RELIGIOUS TRAINING. At least 12,000,000 children and young people under 25 years of age are entering American life without any religious training at all. Remembering the faith of Washington and Lincoln, do you think that America will continue to produce Washington and Lincoln if faith dies out of the hearts of its youth?

5 FOR THE CHURCH'S WORK ABROAD. Influenza came first from the Orient thirty years ago; nearly all plagues are Oriental plagues. So long as China has only one physician to every 400,000 people the Orient will continue to be a menace. So long as one-third of the babies of India die before their second year our own babies are not safe. A Christian doctor or teacher sent abroad is working for America as truly as though he worked at home.

6 PREACHERS' SALARIES. The preacher is called the "forgotten man," and well he may be. Eight out of ten preachers are paid less than $20 a week!

Each denomination has its own detailed budget, and will administer its own funds. Your pastor has copies of the budget; examine them for yourself. In the week of April 25th-May 2nd you will be given your opportunity to help. You can do it with the full satisfaction of knowing that every dollar of your gift has its post assigned to it in advance.

Every dollar for better America and a better world. When your church calls on you give—and give with your heart as well as your pocket-book.

POLICE DOG IS REAL HERO

Breaks Leg While Herding Boys Out of Danger of Speeding Automobile.

New York.—Bum, the celebrated police dog of the Brownsville station, has been granted a sick leave, so that a broken hind leg, received in the performance of duty, may mend.

Bum was led into the station by Policeman Becker. He refused to allow his escort to carry him. He stood at attention while Becker made a report of the case and went with Becker to the policeman's home, where he will stay until the leg is better.

Bum was on duty with Policeman Becker in Pitkin avenue, near Bristol street. Some children in Bristol street screamed at the approach of an automobile and Bum dashed out. The children were not hit, but he was run over, and when he got up his left leg was dangling. A surgeon on a passing ambulance set the leg, and the neighborhood veterinary put it in splints. Bum is a French poodle with a long pedigree. He was acquired by the Brownsville station about three years ago. Along Pitkin avenue he tours with his favorites, who are Policemen Becker, Kanuch and Schneidermuller. He rides in passing automobiles, street cars and is always on the patrol wagon when it makes its rounds. He is indispensable in keeping crowds back at fires.

Pays Fine; Asks Divorce.

Cincinnati.—Before she filed suit for divorce from Frank H. Reppert, former legislator and magistrate, Mrs. Sallie Reppert of Silverton paid a fine for him. She also gave John J. Wenner, deputy sheriff, $5 to give Reppert with the divorce summons, and requested he be asked to "stay away" from her. She charges her husband used liquor to excess. Reppert was arrested recently for jumping a bond.

BISMARCK'S FRUITS.

The latest biographer of Bismarck, C. Grant Robertson, calls attention to the way in which the great German chancellor was responsible for his own destruction. It was Bismarck's aim to build, not a constitutional government, but an autocracy, says Kansas City Star. In himself he concentrated the whole power of the state. Then came the young William II to the throne, restless and ambitious. The two clashed. Had Bismarck been the parliament-made minister of a constitutional sovereign it would have been William who would have had to give way. For the chancellor had the confidence of the nation. But, as Mr. Robertson says, while a plebiscite would have retained him in office, the nation could not save him. He had made that impossible. As a result of his fall Bismarck denounced as "Byzantinism and caesar worship" this very irresponsible power which it had been his life work to build up. The same ironical fate might be traced in the further development of Bismarck's handiwork. The state which he founded on iron and blood came to ruin by attempting to expand his policy.

SPENDS HALF LIFE IN JAIL

Criminal With Long Record Declares Life of Crime Does Not Pay.

Omaha, Neb.—"Stretch" Bird, arrested in Omaha charged with implication in the robbery of a garage and theft of a dozen high-priced automobile tires, has had an eventful criminal career. He is forty years old and has spent more than one-half of his life in prison. "And it was worse than wasted," Bird said, "for all of the robberies I have committed yielded me less than $100 in money. It didn't pay to do wrong."
