Judge Bowers Occupied in Hearing Testimony Against Conductor Young's Assault.

Judge Bowers occupied today in hearing testimony in the case of the State against Frank Neff. The complaining witness is William Young, conductor on the street car that runs between Hammond and Chicago. Neff had a grudge against Young on account of having been put off his car some time before and is said to have laid in wait for the conductor on the occasion which resulted in the present action. A man named Billings boarded the car with Neff for the purpose of resisting any aid that might be offered the conductor with Neff's fight with him. The motorman, hearing the trouble started to Young's rescue and this offered Billings his opportunity to show loyalty for his friend. He knocked the motorman down and beat him to insensibility. Billings' trial will come up Monday.

NEW BILLS FILED.

Divorce proceedings have been instituted by Mrs. Bertha Szocs of Indiana Harbor against her husband Alexander Szocs. The couple were married in Bogos, Hungary, in August of 1902, and separated last May. Mrs. Szocs charges her husband with habitual drunkenness and excessive cruelty during his protracted sojourn. For two years, the bill alleges, this sort of thing has been going on. Since last April she claims he has failed to contribute towards her support and she was forced to work as a boarding house keeper to earn a livelihood.

James McCafferty has filed suit in the superior court against the B. & O. R. R. Co., for $2,000 for the death of his son who was killed last January in a collision between two trains.

FROZEN BODY FOUND.

Michigan City, Oct. 12.—The frozen body of an unidentified man was found on the beach about half a mile east of this city early this morning by Chas. Eaggleson, a member of the life saving crew, who was on one of his regular patrols. The body was in a fair state of preservation, it being the opinion of the Deputy Coroner Ledbetter and Captain Kent that the body had been in the water not more than ten days. The remains were ordered removed to the Earl morgue, where they were prepared for burial and where the inquest was held.—Michigan City News.

Mexico's Oil Fire.

A picturesque sight can be seen in the Gulf of Mexico. It is an oil fire covering an area of about ten square miles, which is supposed to be fed by an oil spring at the bottom of the gulf. How it originated is a mystery. The scene presented is grand and awe-inspiring, especially when viewed at night, the sea being brilliantly illuminated for many miles.

Survival of Old Custom.

A curious custom is still in force at Norwich, England, in virtue of which, on three days in the year, anyone can claim a substantial meal for nothing. The only qualification is that the applicant shall repeat aloud in St. Giles' church a prayer for the sovereign's health. Afterward they partake of a meal of broth, beef and bread, finished off with a liberal allowance of beer.

Going by Contraries.

At a marriage at Blackpool, the bride, with the consent of the bridegroom, omitted the undertaking to obey him. The experiment is certainly worth trying. Wives won't obey when they promise to. Perhaps they will when they don't promise to—though it may prove necessary to make them promise not to.—Punch.

Venomous Sea Snakes.

Sea snakes are very plentiful in the south Pacific. They are widely distributed, stray individuals having been secured on the coast of New Zealand. When swimming close to the surface they exactly resemble an ordinary snake, except that the head is always below water. At night they come ashore and lie among the rocks. They feed on fish and although their small double fangs appear harmless they are reported to be very venomous.

Origin of Oxygen.

Lord Kelvin once showed that all the oxygen in the atmosphere probably came from the action of sunlight on plants. When the earth was a globe of hot liquid it contained no vegetable fuel, and probably no free oxygen. But as it cooled off plants appeared on its surface and these began to evolve oxygen through the medium of the sunbeams. Upon the oxygen thus derived we depend for the maintenance of life by breathing.

Service the Real Coin.

"Service is the coin in which humanity's greatest debts are paid. Money does not pass current in the real world of service. It is false coin there."—William Allen White in the American Magazine.

Regimental Postcards.

In Italy each regiment has its own pictorial postcards, on which are the devices of the regiment, the list of battles in which it has taken part or one of the heroic episodes in which it has figured. These are sold at moderate prices to officers and soldiers, and their use in correspondence serves to spread the prestige of the regiment.

African Housewife's Trial.

Prices are high in South Africa and bills for laundry are frequently exorbitant. Persian, Kaffir and Cape women do this work after a fashion. "One usually pays £1 ($5) per month a head," says a woman correspondent, "and the woman who washes for you takes everything for that, but is apt to vanish for a month on end with your clothes!"
