SIXTY ARRESTS IN OCTOBER.

Police Busy Compiling Monthly Statistics—September Record.

Desk Secretary Charles See, at the local police station, is busy compiling October statistics, and finds that sixty arrests have been made in the past month. He continued the work today of ascertaining how the prisoners were disposed of. The month of September furnishes a fair criterion.

In September the total arrests made numbered fifty-six. Of these twenty-eight were turned loose after spending a night in the cells. Most of them were strangers in town who had become drunk and in case of conviction would not have had the money to pay their fines and would have been sent to the county jail for eleven days.

Eleven paid their fines. Nine were fined and sent to jail. Three were dismissed in the city court. Three were sent to the reform school. Two were let out on bonds, and one was sent to the insane asylum.

MAY BE NATURALIZED AND VOTE.

There seems to be a mistaken idea in regard to the effect of the new naturalization law, but a study of the same will reveal the following facts: Any alien who has resided in this state one year can at any time before election take out his first papers and vote, provided he can write his name. He does not need to be able to read English when taking out his first papers. Further, he does not need to be able to write his name in English, but may write in any language that he may see fit. In fact, the main difference between the old and the new law in regard to the first papers is that the alien must be able to write his name. The many questions which are asked him ought in no way to be confusing, and will not be difficult to answer. The deputy clerk of the United States court will issue first papers upon all times between now and election, and every alien who cares to vote on November 5 ought to take his first papers without delay.

ERIE GETS ANOTHER SIDE-TRACK.

The board of public works was in session this morning and granted the Chicago & Erie railroad company a right-of-way for a side-track over Russell and Fayette streets for the benefit of Mrs. Carrie Dibbs and William Althorn, who have coal sheds there. Resolutions ordering primary assessment for the local sewers in West Plummer avenue and Hoffman street, were adopted.

A contract was awarded to John Yarak of West Hammond, to build a six-foot sidewalk on the south side of Fayette street, from Calumet avenue to Oakley avenue.

ANOTHER BIG SHIP.

The keel for another 600-foot boat to be built for the United States Steel corporation was laid at the plant of the Chicago Ship Building company, South Chicago, on Monday, and the construction of this boat will necessitate the employment of a large force of men.

The material for two other boats is now on hand, and is being prepared for the laying of the keels. It is possible that the keel for one of these boats will be laid in a few days, and that the other will not be laid until after the first of the year.

In addition to this it is almost a certainty that the local yards will be called upon to build one or more of the big boats which have recently been contracted for. It is highly probable that about three of these boats will be constructed at the East Side yards.

The yards have recently undergone repairs and alterations which will much better fit them for a long run, and everything is now in the best of condition for the building of the monster freighters.

The next launching will not take place until some time in December, and all the boats which are to be built here are ready for use with the opening of the navigation season next year or shortly thereafter. The indications are that the ship yards will this winter employ the largest force in its history, and work more steadily than ever.

Notwithstanding the fact that the scrubs rather ripped up the varsity yesterday, Yost prepared to keep the men absolutely free from injury to go into Saturday's game against Vanderbilt, and did not scrimmage them today. But secret formation practice was held and all the new plays in Yost's repertoire were rehearsed.

If Michigan should happen to get a safe lead at the start of Saturday's game none of the new trick plays will be dug up, unless the Wolverines are forced to do so, and it is not likely that anybody on the outside will see the finest "maneuvers" until the Pennsylvania-Michigan game, Nov. 17.

J. L. McGinnis has in little "Joe" Notter a formidable aspirant to the popularity which Walter Miller has for two years enjoyed. Notter won three races, was second in another and third in another, out of a total of five mounts.

The best work he has ever shown was on Frank Brown's Loring in the Packer stake, when he never ceased to persevere in his pursuit of Barbary Belle, E. R. Thomas' filly, which everybody conceded was already "in."

WILLIAM H. GOSTLIN, Postmaster.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

AT THE GARRICK.

De Wolf Hopper with Marguerite Clark and all the old favorites will go to the Garrick theater for two weeks beginning Sunday, Oct. 28, in the great comic opera success, "Happyland," and a sumptuous revival of the great success, "Wang."

Happyland can be considered a classic in the matter of thorough entertainment.

The story, particularly plausible for a comic opera, is immensely amusing, and being devoid of all slap stick and bombastic incongruities, sets a standard in the matter of later days opera. The late Frederick Rankin, certainly erected a theatrical monument for himself when he wrote it.

The story is a mythical land of Elysia where everyone is so happy that its king is bored to death, and is on the lookout for trouble. He finds it; for at the opening of the play the king of Altruria (which is the adjacent principality) demands for his daughter the hand of the king of Elysia's heir.

As this interesting party happens to be a girl, who meets, promptly falls in love with the crown prince of Fortunia (another nearby kingdom) many complications naturally ensue which give the king of Elysia all the excitement that he seeks. Rankin's scenes are never reminiscent, his songs permit much in the way of personal accomplishment and his ensembles tell a story in an unusual fashion.

DeKoven, his collaborator, who wrote "Robin Hood," also aimed high, with the result that melodies are captivating and interesting. The production is beautiful in the extreme and absolutely perfect in the matter of detail, they are feasts for the eye. The large company comes in for its share of the general result and admiration, for it is not a case of simply "Girls," "Girls," "Girls," but a large aggregation of choral artists, who seem to consider their work of as much importance and who labor as hard and faithfully as does the star.

Taken all together "Happyland" is one jingling ripple of genuine enjoyment and the announcement that on the forthcoming visit last season this company, which practically remains intact, will again portray their respective assignments, is welcome news indeed.

During the latter part of the engagement a gorgeous revival of that perennial success, "Wang," will be given. "Wang" has probably outlived a large majority of the latter day operas, and rightly too, for it permits of legitimate buffoonery, in which Mr. Hopper excels. Then again, it is not a one part play, for others besides the star have almost attractive parts.

CAPACITY HOUSES WERE THE RULE last week, from the opening to the close of the presentation of Arthur Henry Jones' famous play, "The Dancing Girl." It was a strong production, dealing with the deepest emotion of the woman heart, the thwarted ambition, the appeal to the artistic life too strong to be resisted, even though it meant the renouncing of home ties and filial responsibility. Miss Jane Oaker, as Drusilla Ives, the dancing girl, entered so into the spirit of the part that the atmosphere came over the footlights in waves. It is one of the notable things about the productions at this theater, however, that the company is so carefully selected and work so thoroughly in accord, that the whole performance is a perfect unit. In the play presented this week the action moves onward to one of the most stirring climaxes which have thrilled Chicago audiences in many a day. This is where the father of Drusilla, who has previously believed that his daughter was still a good girl, discovers the truth and curses her in the midst of a crowded ballroom.

Next week an ever-popular favorite is to be put on, and the advance sale of seats has already forecasted what may be expected during the whole run of the performance. The production is to be the powerful heart-interest drama, "The Banker's Daughter," one of the strongest plays ever produced from the mind and pen of Bronson Howard. The story of a marriage of convenience, a separation and ultimate reconciliation through the efforts of a little child, affords a series of situations which hold the audience enthralled, while the daughter's love for her father, and a child's power over her parents, affords psychological and heart-interest to the full.

CONFIDENCE REWARDED.

Here is a case where unwavering confidence in the belief that upright dealing, actual merit and modest claims fulfilled, would win against all other methods, has been rewarded.

For a long time there has been a tremendous flood of free cures, fad cures and miraculous discoveries exploited with wonderful promises.

Through it all, the Quaker Herb Company has (as is the Quaker custom) been saying little but doing much. That the actual results given by the use of Quaker Herb Remedies would outweigh all mere fantastic claims, they never doubted.

Their confidence has been amply rewarded by the established demand for Quaker Herb Remedies, and the sincere gratitude expressed by the thousands who used them.

J. L. Boyd, with Herring & Denton, Charlotte, N. C., says of Quaker Herb Extract:

"For years I suffered torture from stomach disorders. At times the pains in my stomach were almost unbearable. My food would not digest, and what I ate, my stomach to swell and I bloated. I suffered with constipation, and my kidneys were very irregular. I was bilious, and every morning my tongue was heavily coated and my breath foul. I was told to try Quaker Herb Extract as a last resort, and I did so. After using it only a short while, I began to change for the better. Each day I grew stronger, now all stomach pains have left me, my kidneys are regular, my appetite is perfect, and I am rapidly gaining in flesh and health. I

Every Living Man Is Covetous

By JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.

COVETING is too common in this day. There is not a man who does not covet SOMETHING that his neighbor has. And how rife is the spirit of envy. The country boy comes to the city wearing clothes that are considered very good apparel in his village, but when he sees the clothes of the city man he must have those instead of what he wears, AND HE GETS THEM by one way or another. There is only one phase of covetousness that we may rightly possess—that is, the coveting of the spirit of brotherliness and the good traits of our neighbor. To secure these things does not take away from the man whose virtues we covet. HIS STORE IS NOT DEPLETED.

The
