Day's Grist in South Chicago

Fined for Drunkenness

An aged man, who gave his name as James Brennan, and who has been arrested by the South Chicago police several times during the last two months for vagrancy and drunkenness, was picked up by the East Side police last night in a vacant lot, where he was asleep. Brennan was brought up before acting Judge Wells in the South Chicago municipal court yesterday and fined $10 and costs and was told that he would be sent to a place where he would have a chance at least to wash his face and hands.

HE GOT BACK.

Scotland Yard Detective Is Bounced, and That Leads to a Story.

Cecil Page, a Scotland Yard detective, was bounced in New York out of a large sum of money. Discussing the trick that had been played on him, Mr. Page said the other day:

"I'd get back at those chaps if I had the time. A Scotland Yard detective is a dangerous individual to bounce. If my engagements at home were not pressing, I would stay here till I landed those audacious rascals in prison."

"You mustn't play tricks on Scotland Yard, you know," said Mr. Page, more complacently. "Scotland Yard, if you try it, gets back at you every time. It is like the story of the watch."

There was a London music hall manager, Shoemith by name, who was very fond of his joke, especially after dinner, when he had a bottle of champagne inside him.

"Well, one night after dinner Shoemith entered an Oxford street jeweler's and said to the clerk:

"My man, what are those things there—those round, flat things, white on the one side and yellow on the other?"

"Why, sir, they are watches; hunting case watches, huffy, the clerk answered."

"And what are they for?" says Shoemith.

"To indicate the time," says the clerk.

"Fancy!" says Shoemith. "Do you know, I've heard of them. And how much do they cost?"

"From five to fifty pounds, sir."

"Are there printed directions for making them go?"

"Oh, no," said the clerk. "To make them go is very simple. You merely wind them once a day with a key."

"And when do you wind them—in the evening or in the morning?"

"You must wind yours, sir, in the morning," the clerk answered, gently and patiently.

"Why in the morning?"

"Because in the evening you are drunk, Mr. Shoemith, and would break it."

INDIANA WILL HUM LATER ON

State to Be Invaded By All Big Republican Guns Imaginable.

ROOSEVELT MAY COME TOO

It Is Expected That the National Leaders Will Be Brought Into the State.

The republicans are not going to be outdone when it comes to speechmaking in Indiana during the campaign. They have already had Taft at Brook and Hughes at Indianapolis, South Bend and other places along the route, and now comes the news that Taft is coming back for a tour of Indiana some time during the month of October. The exact dates of his swing through Indiana have not been learned by Will H. Hays, chairman of the republican speakers' bureau, but they will probably be made public within a few days.

Not only that, but President Roosevelt will come to Indiana if he takes the stump. That he will make a speaking tour is not much doubted, though no official announcement of his intention has been made. The demand for Taft and Roosevelt in the various counties of the state is big enough to keep both on the jump in Indiana for a month if it were possible to obtain their services for that length of time. Roosevelt is expected to be in Indiana only one day. It is practically certain that both Roosevelt and Taft will speak in Indianapolis.

Sherman, Garfield and Hanly. James S. Sherman, republican candidate for vice president, will also spend more time in Indiana than was first expected. He is dated for a speech at Evansville next Saturday night and will speak Monday afternoon at Muncie and Monday night at Elkhart.

C. Harris will speak with Sherman at Elkhart and Congressman Samuel W. McCall, of Massachusetts, will be with him at Muncie.

James R. Garfield, secretary of the interior, will speak at Richmond, Oct. 1; Peru, Oct. 2, and Hammond, Oct. 3. Governor Hanly has agreed to go into the campaign and has placed himself at the disposal of the state committee for the entire remaining time of the campaign.

Fairbanks, Beveridge, Griffiths. Vice President Fairbanks will speak at Lebanon next Monday and will probably make other speeches in Indiana later on. From Lebanon he will go into other states under the direction of the national committee. Senator Beveridge is not dated for any Indiana speeches except the one tonight at Terre Haute, but he will return in a few weeks and is expected to speak at other points in the state. John L. Griffiths will enter the campaign on Oct. 14, and he will devote his entire time from then until election day in speechmaking in this state.

In addition to all this array of talent there are Congressman Watson, candidate for governor, and scores of other Indiana statesmen who are making the rounds, speaking in scores of places each day. Altogether, the indications are that the republican era of spell-binding will be a hummer.

COLLECTOR FOR A BREWERY. So His Wife and Children Didn't Mind His Visiting Saloons.

The man had hardly emerged from the dingy saloon on the corner, when the well-dressed lady stepped up and accosted him.

"My poor fellow," said she, "do you spend much of your time in such vile places as that?"

He stood and eyed her critically. "I'm in and out of 'em all day long," he then returned, a little sullenly.

"God help you! Just think of the precious hours wasted in such dives of the devil! Do you spend much money in saloons?"

"Yes; over $10 a day."

"Merciful heaven! Are you married?"

"Got a wife and five children."

"And yet, while your wife and children are home crying, doubtless, for food and clothing, you are going from saloon to saloon like a sot!"

"They ain't cryin' for food nor nothin'!" retorted the man, huffily, "and I ain't no sot 'cause I don't drink!"

"What! You don't?"

"And what's more, my wife and children're tickled to have me goin' into these places all day!"

"What do you mean?"

"And besides, by goin' from saloon to saloon spendin' money I'm doin' my duty to them, myself, and my employers, ma'am!"

"What is your business?"

"I'm collector for a brewery!"

Among the Fats. Benjamin Franklin, ablest philosopher of them all, was much inclined to increase of girth in his later years, yet he could not be called obese. He was constantly giving advice on the subject of regimen and throwing in, as chronos, Baconian wisdom. Yet he was not a lover of bacon, and seldom ate ham.—New York Press.

dered them by the Strobel corporation and soon after the banquet left for an extensive examination of the huge bridges over the canal west of the Lake Shore station.

The two bridges are now almost completed and were subjected to rigid tests by the engineers. Notes were taken of the dimensions and stresses and the acceptance of the Strobel company's work, which has lasted for over a year, is sure to follow within a few days.
