"THE INDIAN'S SECRET."

Lincoln J. Carter has written a thrilling play based on the romantic life of the Indian—he has called it "The Indian's Secret or Trilled Into the Desert," and a better title never fitted the plot as this does.

Subtlety and secrecy are two of the Indian's chief characteristics and he is ever watchful and cautious in his actions at all times and places. Firmness and deliberation in his movements, he generally makes for his appointed goal or his trying. These points of Indian character are often lost sight of in the accepted belief that he is only capable of cruelty, barbarity and murder. The author has carefully drawn the picture of the red skin and shows him in his many sided nature.

The story is morally clean and from any exaggerated idea of the subject. Strong, powerful and consistent, it is a much needed relief from the rip rap and horse play we often see. The play is scheduled to be at Towle opera house for three nights and Saturday matinee commencing Thursday, Oct. 8.

"THE END OF THE TRAIL."

"The End of the Trail," a tale of the west, whose very title bespeaks the mysterious spell which holds the audience enthralled until the drop of the last curtain, is the latest play which Willis F. Jackson offers the public at the Towle opera house tonight and Wednesday matinee and night.

Now when western plays are so much in vogue, one grows critical and hard to please, but this play, graphically and picturesquely brings to us the breezy golden west as it was before civilization brought barbed wire fences to do away with the rough wholesome cowboys and her each man was a law unto himself and his code of honor as strict as our own eastern country. This delightful play cannot fail to please old and young alike. A superb cast will interpret the play and several good musical numbers are rendered by a male quartette.

RUMOR IS DENIED

Standard Oil Company Reported To Consider Rebuilding Its Plant.

(Special to THE TIMES.)

Whiting, Ind., Oct. 6.—A rumor which is credited in some sources is to the effect that the Standard Oil company at Whiting, Ind., contemplates the complete rehabilitation of its plant in the Indiana city.

It is understood that the Whiting plant because of its location at a great center of distribution is to be entirely rebuilt and that the modern plans for arranging the plant and modern methods of refining oil are to be introduced into the Whiting plant until it will be one of the ideal oil refining plants of the country.

The report was further that the Standard company contemplates the expenditure of $5,000,000 in Whiting. The plant at Whiting was built some 40 years ago and although it has been modernized from time to time it has never been completely rehabilitated.

The Chicago office was interviewed over the telephone about the matter and denied that there was any truth in the story. He wanted to know where the story originated and said there was nothing to it.

TURKEY ISSUES A NOTE

Will Declare War Against Bulgaria If Berlin Treaty Is Violated.

At a council of ministers held this morning a note was drafted and sent to all the powers informing them that Turkey looks to them to prevent any violation of the Berlin treaty. This is believed to be tantamount to a declaration that in case the supposed international conference fails to support Turkey, the Porte will declare war against Bulgaria.

THE ROUNDER SAYS

There is a baseball argument on all the time at Lochiel Simpson's barber shop. Some times the discussion reaches white heat and at other times it subsides to simply a ruddy glow, but there is always something doing.

George Schumaker is usually the cause bell and has the faculty for getting on the side of the argument which arouses the greatest storm of protest. When arguments become frayed on the edges and the fighting point is reached the only alternative is to back up one's judgment with a bet.

Only the other day George bet that Pittsburgh would defeat Chicago. The bet was the culmination of a bitter argument and great was the satisfaction of the winner thereof.

After it had been discovered that George had allowed his heart, rather than his head, to govern his ideas of the relative strength of the Cubs and the Pirates and, of course, had lost out, the winner of the bet prepared about the biggest gloat-feet that has ever been held in Hammond.

After securing a quantity of whiting he went into the barber shop and inscribed the following sign on the looking glass in front of the barber's chair:

"Tee Hee, Chicago 5, Pittsburgh 2 (in teeny weeny figures). Good-bye Kid. Arabella Cinch has come back home. St. Louis was pictured as being in the hole and it was all there for George's education."

When George came back he had several connections and the joke was on Schumaker for twenty-four long hours.

HIGH SCHOOL TIDINGS.

Elkhart beat Michigan City at football last Saturday by a score of 21 to 0. Michigan City and Hammond both seem to be up against it this year.

The comedy company held a meeting in the English room immediately after dismissal. The object of the meeting was to appoint a committee to arrange and decide on some play to be staged. The work of appointing the committee was left to President Hunter and Manager McElroy. The meeting then adjourned.

Principal McElroy had charge of the opening exercises and he spoke on the defeat of last Saturday and how the boys took it. His talk, although brief, was right to the point.

Did you get a chance to look at the writup in the South Bend News about the game Saturday. It was a fine writup (7-7). Take a glimpse if you get a chance.

Who's beating time with the march music. Its not the seniors nor the juniors, and the freshmen will have to grow a little before they will understand the art, so the blame is all on the soph's. They were requested to keep their feet under control.

Miss Elchorn can certainly furnish the march music. She played a march yesterday.

A second team has been organized by the coach and will be pitted against the varsity to practice them in the different points of the game. They have their own signals and are practicing hard. Last night was the first time they lined up against the regular team, but a practice game will be held each night this week and will be a great advantage from all viewpoints.

Professor Allee had the misfortune to lose his gold watch last night, but luckily it was found. Mr. Allee then wore one of his old familiar smiles.
