Mrs. Hatch gave a 7 o'clock dinner and kitchen shower for a number of their friends. The home was very attractively decorated, suggestive of the autumn season with the tinted leaves. The chandeliers had garlands of leaves and the lights were shaded with the leaves so that a pretty glow was cast over the room. For the center piece a table with a large pumpkin was used, filled with early fall fruit. Following the dinner the bride was showered with many useful kitchen articles, the gifts of the following guests: Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Albert Smith, L. L. Bomberger, Charles R. Dyer, Ralph S. COMMENCING TOMORROW.
The Indian's Secret, Lincoln J. Carter's new play, comes to Towle opera house for three nights, commencing Thursday, Oct. 8. A good cast, beautiful scenery, a tribe of real Sioux warriors with painted faces and bedecked with Indian fringes; a strong, virile plot dealing with clever dialogue, exciting climaxes, intense action, strong love scenes, bright sparkling wit, real comedy—this is "The Indian's Secret." The author plays of the same moral worth and noble, lofty sentiments would find pleased audiences to welcome them.

A GREAT WESTERN PLAY.
In speaking of "The End of the Trail" that great western play which Willis E. Jackson offers to the patrons of Towle opera house tonight unless one witnesses the performance, it would be hard to realize the soul-stirring, heart-throbbing emotions which it arouses. We laugh at the delicious comedy and in the next breath find our eyes wet with the sadness we feel and our hearts are stirred by the delicate love scenes which are presented. Miss Ethel Valentine plays the part of Beldona, the girl who is a wonderful emotional actress and only her youth keeps her from being one of the foremost actresses of today. She has as her leading support Mr. Harry Preston Coffin, the eminent actor and also one of the best stock leading men of this country. His personality fits the part of Carlos, the half-breed, who has a prominent role in the play. Intense, calm, deliberate, serious—these characteristics of his are essential features in playing the role of the American aborigine.

LITERATURE COMMITTEE.
The literature committee of the Woman's club was entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Francis Kingsley and Mrs. V. S. Reiter at their home in Webb street. Mrs. Sawyer being chairman of the afternoon.

The subject for study was Norse Mythology, the first of a series to be taken up on Mythology. Following is the program given: Paper—Mythology and The Myths of Ireland—Mrs. Sawyer. Selection—"Norse" or "The World Sisters"—Read by Mrs. Crumpacker. Paper—Balder—Mrs. Booth. Selection—"The Twilight of the Gods"—Read by Mrs. Griffin. Poem—The Description of Thor—Read by Mrs. Smith.

ROMANCE CROPS OUT AT TOWLE'S

Secret Marriage Is Revealed When Old Shoes Are Thrown on Stage.

Romance of the genuine variety cropped out on the stage in Towle's opera house last evening when the manager of the "End of the Trail," which is showing there, found out that J. Neil McLeod, the man who plays the part of sheriff in this great play, had married Miss Florence Miller of Chicago, secretly.

McLeod is a great big man, with a heavy voice, who is just the man to play the part of a sheriff in the play, and those who see the gray-haired actor in the show this evening will not suspect that there was a woman in Chicago who melted his heart and won his affection.

Last evening, after two acts of the show had been played and McLeod as Briggs, was playing the part of the sheriff with all that was in him; he was surprised to see several old shoes come sailing on the stage and to feel a shower of rice on his head.

He looked up in surprise, only to see W. E. Jackson, the manager of the show, smiling on him from one of the boxes. McLeod did not know that the manager knew of his marriage and his confusion was so great that it came very near breaking up the show.

Joke on the Usurers.
The greatest joke was on the usurers. One of them saw the old shoes being thrown on the stage and he rushed to Manager Nye and informed him that some drunk was throwing things at the actors. When Mr. Nye found out what had happened he enjoyed the joke as much as Mr. Jackson.

This afternoon a reporter for THE TIMES went down to the dressing room to find out just what had happened. He found the actors making up for the Wednesday matinee.

In one of the dressing rooms McLeod was making up, and there beside him was his bride, Florence McLeod. With some of the actors running around in cowboy costumes and others dressed to represent other characters in the play, and with the actresses putting on the finishing touches just before the curtain was raised, it was indeed a strange place for a man to be spending his honeymoon. Mr. McLeod's wife is not an actress.

AFFIRMED BY COURT

Dave Hirsch Wins His Case Against Local Concern In Appellate Court.

Dave Hirsch, who formerly employed by the Model Clothing company, has just had a judgement for $1,685 in wages and about $200 in interest, against the company, affirmed by the Appellate court in Indianapolis, to which it had been appealed.

The case has been in the courts for a long time and was appealed from one court to another until the decision is now final. Dave Hirsch was employed by the Model Clothing company at a salary of $35 a week.

One of the arrangements he had with the company he took but $15 of his weekly wage and left $20 of it in the business. During the time Mr. Hirsch was employed by the company this $20 a week accumulated to $1,685 according to evidence brought out at the trial.

Then Mr. Hirsch and his employers had a falling out and they refused to pay what Mr. Hirsch claimed was his due. The matter was taken into the courts and the judgment in the Appellate court is the final outcome of the difficulty.

Attorneys Reiter, Bomberger and Gavitt represented Hirsch and Attorney Stinson and Knotts represented Rothschilds.

The examination is particularly intended to test the child's eyesight and hearing. It will require several weeks before the work is fully completed.

WILL MEET THURSDAY NIGHT.

Young Men's Republican Club to Arrange for Crown Point Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the Young Men's Republican club at the republican headquarters next Thursday evening to discuss the matter of organizing a crowd to go to Crown Point to the barbecue on Oct. 17.

It is understood that a special train is to be provided for the members of the club and this will leave this city some time after dinner. This train will have to be chartered and the members of the club will have to make arrangements to find out how many people will go.

The barbecue is expected to be one of the greatest political gatherings in the county during the campaign and it is expected that there will be 5,000 strangers in the county seat on that day.

WOMAN IS SAID TO BE INSANE.

schemes into a mild form of insanity. Mildred E. Frittinger is being held in the detention ward at the Clark hospital.

"The woman is absolutely harmless; she would not injure herself or others but must be kept in the detention ward to prevent her escape from the hospital. The 'mysterious' woman has a career and a past—as accumulating facts are rapidly disclosing.

"On Saturday afternoon she slipped out of the hospital and went to the home of a woman living not far away, but she was easily apprehended and was returned to the hospital by Sergeant Whiteman.

"Mrs. Frittinger first appeared in Elkhart about six weeks ago. Well dressed, attractive, cultured, she had no difficulty in obtaining board and lodging at a local hotel. She told people with whom she came in contact that she had claims of considerable amounts coming to her from various parties in neighboring towns.

It has developed that at that time she was attempting to make a settlement with a well known Ligonier man, Frank Woods, alleged to be held some of her pictures and letters. She is said to have demanded returns for a supposedly broken heart.

"Two or three Elkhart men who became acquainted with the attractive woman of mystery have also been rather uneasy of late.

"Church & Shaw, a local firm of attorneys, were acting for Mr. Woods in the attempt at a settlement. Considerable evidence goes to show that the woman had been acting as the tool of a clever gang, but that when she had become unbalanced mentally and too reckless in making claims her associates abandoned her without means of support.

"Apparently fearing that she would be asked for her board at the end of the week, Mrs. Frittinger left the hotel at the end of six days, but said she was going to Cochran on business and would return in the evening. About noon of that day she telephoned to the hotel, asking if any telegrams or letters had been received, evidently expecting word from out of town parties. The hotel management learned that the woman had gone on to Ligonier.

Fearing a Holdup.
Fearing some sort of a holdup game, the landlady, accompanied by an attorney, went to that place and found her at a hotel there. She spoke to them of her hotel bill before it was mentioned, saying that she would return to Elkhart in a few days and could then pay the bill or would pay at once if allowed to go to Kendallville and get money from the bank. The local hotel man accompanied her to Kendallville.

At that place she went to the Kelly House and asked the landlady to identify her at the bank so she could draw $25. While the two landladies were conferring about the matter, the woman left the hotel parlor by a side door and went to the Ryder House. Seeing that he was engaged in a wild goose chase after money that was not to be had, the hotel man returned to Elkhart and let the matter rest, taking no steps other than to tell Mrs. Frittinger he would have her arrested if she returned to Elkhart.

"A few days after this, about Sept. 5, she attempted to commit suicide at the Ryder hotel by taking some drug, but as soon as she began to be ill, she called for help, and she was never in much danger. As soon as she was able to be up again the township trustee paid her fare to Elkhart, and she returned here, but stopped this time at a hotel near the depot, and registered as Mrs. L. Martin, Chicago.

Pronounce Her Insane.
She was ill and confined to her bed much of the time. When he learned that the woman had no money the landlady called in Trustee Putterbach. Seeing that the woman was in need of medical assistance Mr. Putterbach called in Dr. Norrie, who within a few hours pronounced her insane, and asked the appointment of a commission. Dr. Fleming was appointed to serve with him on the commission, and after studying her case carefully for nearly a week, pronounced her insane, and papers asking her admittance to Longfellow were filed in Justice Allen's court.

In the meantime Mrs. Frittinger had come to an agreement with Messrs. Church and Shaw. They had already guaranteed her hotel bills, and now offered her $150, which she agreed to accept. When the money was offered to her, however, she raised her demands to $500, and when that was offered, she wanted $1,000, which brought the negotiations to an abrupt end.

Mr. Woods denies having had any intimate acquaintance with the woman which would make valid any claim whatever, but was willing to be "blackmailed" to any reasonable extent in order to get rid of her as quietly as possible. Mrs. Frittinger had been in Kendallville about the first part of August, and it was at this time that he formed a slight acquaintance with the woman.

Was Pretty Well Posted.
Mrs. Frittinger is about 28 years of age, is well dressed and attractive. She claims to have been educated as a teacher at Ada, O. Whether this is true or not, she proves to be an extremely well educated woman, better informed on matters of law and medicine than the average person. She is also very shrewd. She had been treated by three physicians in Elkhart and also by physicians in Kendallville.

The trend of her insanity is that she is highly respectable, which she emphasizes by repeating it, over and over to anyone who will listen, though she admits some dark pages in her history. She has a rather large sense of her own importance and claims that her people are well-to-do, and will see that she gets justice.

Says Mother Is in East Chicago.
She refuses to tell her name or to sign it to any paper, evidently fearing that by so doing she will sign away some rights or privileges which she has. It was a long time before she could be induced to tell anything about her people, but finally told that her father was dead, but that her mother was living. She gave her mother's name as Mrs. Anna Eckert, and stated that she lived in East Chicago. This much of her story has been substantiated. She also claims to have three brothers living near her former home, Mansfield, O., and two sisters, one at Columbus, O., and one near Mansfield.

Last winter she was in the St. Joseph's hospital at Fort Wayne for some months.

UNION TRACTION OFFICIAL VISITING LOCAL MANAGER.
Friends of Mr. Green Believe Visitor Is Trying to Induce Him to Leave Hammond for Other Fields.

Friends of H. C. Green, local manager of the Hammond, Whiting & East Chicago Street Car company, were just a little apprehensive today, least his friend, M. W. Surratt, superintendent of the Union Traction company at Tipton, who is visiting him, is trying to induce the local manager to leave Hammond.

Upon inquiry his friends were assured, however, that Mr. Surratt and his family are merely making a personal call in Hammond upon Mr. and Mrs. Green.

Mr. Green formerly worked with Mr. Surratt at Tipton and hence their friendly relation. The two street car men went over the South Chicago lines today.
