

ON THE STAGE

AT TOWLE-OPERA HOUSE.

"THE INDIAN'S SECRET."

"The Indian's Secret" is Lincoln J. Carter's new play dealing with the Indian and showing him in all his habits, mannerisms and customs. The author is a reputable authority on the American aborigine and showed conclusively in his "Flaming Arrow" that he was conversant with the Indian as much as J. Fenimore Cooper, who made "The Leather Stocking Tales" famous as an American classic. There is strength and tone to the piece that carries weight and the threatment of his people is sincere and truthful in portrayal.

THE LOST TRAIL.

Those who failed last season to witness "The Lost Trail," the successful comedy drama of western army life, will have the opportunity beginning next Sunday matinee, October 11, for four nights, at the Towle opera house. The play is one expressive of typical days in the west in other times, and it is presented by even a stronger company this year, headed by Franklin Woodruff, who will be seen as Bud Larrabee. There is a love story in "The Lost Trail" with an uncouth cowboy pitted against a smooth army officer, and an eastern girl picked as the prize.

Mr. Carter has taken unusual pains to collect a good cast, as it requires the right people in the proper parts to play the various roles. The beautiful scenic setting is in keeping with the high order of the play. The play is now at Towle opera house and the balance of the week, with Saturday matinee.

The cowboy has the advantage of being manly and honest; the army officer is handicapped by a polished villainy, while the girl has all the sweetness and charm requisite for a place in the best man's heart. The story of the west is told in the development of the love of Bud Larrabee, the cowboy, and it is one that has much of charm. Bud wins, of course, and takes the right trail in life as well as in love and happiness.

The scenery, costumes and lighting effects are elaborate, the company is a large one, and all in all "The Lost Trail" is a play that can be commended to the most critical.

'THE LITTLE ORGAN GRINDER' AT THE CALUMET THEATER

The latest and what promises to be the most highly successful musical drama of the season is B. E. Forrester's production of "The Little Organ Grinder," now playing at the Calumet theater, south Chicago, with a company of exceptional ability. The play is staged in a most elaborate manner and neither pains nor expense have been spared to make it one of the most pretentious that have yet been put upon the road.

The leading dramatic critics of the country who have seen the play have dealt with it most generously and predict it is one of the coming big successes of the season. Both the press and public have praised it lavishly, particularly on account of its being absolutely free from those sensational and harrowing scenes which at present do so much to render the modern drama objectionable.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE.

Greenville, S. C., Oct. 9. — Several scores of delegates representing colleges and schools of South Carolina were assembled at Furman university today for the opening of the Y. M. C. A. student conference, the sessions of which will continue until York, Professor D. W. Daniel of Clemson college, President Potot of Furman university, and Dr. H. F. Lafame of New York.

QUAKER CITY CELEBRATES.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9. — The climax of the "Founders' week" celebration in Philadelphia was reached today in the great historical pageant, the first of its kind to be presented in any city of the United States. Several scores of elaborate and costly floats and about 5,000 characters in costume were used to illustrate the history of Philadelphia from the time of the first Swedish and Dutch settlements to the present time.

TO WELCOME CARDINAL.

Baltimore, Oct. 9. — Elaborate preparations have been made for the public welcome to be given tomorrow to Cardinal Gibbons upon his return from abroad. At the station addresses will be made by Governor Crothers, Mayor Mahool and Attorney General Bonaparte. The cardinal will be escorted to his residence by a parade which is expected to embrace 10,000 or 15,000 men representing the Catholic parishes of Baltimore and Washington.

PLAYING FOR THE LABORER

Republicans and Democrats Making the Welkin Ring For 65,000 Union Voters in Indiana — Temperance Issue off the Boards.

WATSON CAN PROVE THAT HE WAS "RIGHT"

Gompers Will Crack the Whip Next Week. Marshall's Opponent Will Meet the Factory Workers Face to Face and Stand on Record.

Indianapolis, Oct. 9. — As the campaign progresses it is becoming more and more apparent that both parties are counting on making organized labor an issue in the closing days. The democrats will seek to line up unionists solidly against Congressman Watson and the republicans will seek with equal vigor to convince the workingmen that Watson is their friend.

Labor Issue Springs Up. The labor issue has sprung up prominently since the county local option law was enacted. Until then, temperance was the one big issue of the campaign. The special session brought a showdown, however, and now republicans seem to feel that they have the temperance and church people solidly while the democrats are inclined to believe that nothing further is to be gained by playing to the brewers and the liberal element. The lines are closely drawn on the temperance issue and both parties seem to feel that new fields may well be exploited.

65,000 Voters Unleashed. The union labor field with 65,000 voters furnishes an arena for great political combat. The democrats have the lead at the start but the republicans are not only hopeful but confident. They insist that unionists will stand for a square deal. The republicans think that the Federation of Labor has been dominated by a number of men more interested in the brewery and liquor business than in the cause of organized labor and that the better element of the unionists are disgusted with the domination.

Watson Will Speak to Factory Men. Beginning next Monday Congressman Watson will start a series of noon-day meetings at the big shops and factories of Indianapolis. He will meet the workmen face to face and tell them what he has done, what he thinks and what he will do. Similar factory meetings will be held at Evansville, Terre Haute, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Hammond, Gary, etc.

As Good As Other Congressmen. The republicans are declaring that Watson has done no more or less in congress in regard to labor legislation than the other republican candidates in congress from Indiana. They insist that the congressmen have stood together and that if Watson has been wrong, all have been wrong, and that if others have been right, Watson has been right. They point out that the only labor bill opposed by unionists which Watson voted for was the one abrogating the eight hour law on the isthmus of Panama and that he and other Indiana republicans voted for this at the advice of President Roosevelt and that when the bill became understood the American Federation of Labor thanked congress for enacting the law.

Democrats Say He Is "In Bad." Democrats insist, on the other hand, that Watson's record in congress on labor legislation is wholly bad, and Samuel Gompers and Ed Perkins, presidents, respectively, of the American and Indiana Federations of Labor, declare with all the vigor at their command that Watson has not been "right" from the unionists' viewpoint since he has been at Washington.

Gompers in Hammond Oct. 16. Gompers has already been in Indiana four days, beginning October 16, when he will make thirty speeches. Big night meetings will be held at Fort Wayne, Terre Haute, Evansville, Richmond, Hammond, Gary, Laporte, South Bend, Elkhart, Garrett, Huntington, Wabash, Peru, Logansport, Kokomo, Tipton, Greencastle, Brazil, and practically all the gas belt cities will hear the labor leader, who will tour the state in a special train. Perkins of the State Federation will accompany Gompers.

Recalls Cleveland Panic. M. M. Mulhall, who is here representing the republican national committee, says that branches of the Workingmen's Protective association have been established at Fort Wayne, South Bend, Hammond, Terre Haute and Evansville. The association is writing thousands of letters to workmen, reminding them of the Cleveland panic and warning them against contributing to a repetition of the perilous times during that period. Mulhall has an office adjoining the officers of the Employers' association and charge has been made that he represented the latter organization, which is hostile to organized labor. Mulhall denies this, however. It is also charged that Mulhall is in the employ of the National Manufacturers' association. His presence here was undiscovered for several days and during that time the big shops of the county were flooded with republican literature, endorsing the tariff, condemning Bryan and urging the election of Taft. A number of the letters received by the workmen were not known until Mulhall was found.

Threaten to Prosecute Mulhall. Democrats characterize the Mulhall action as coercion and threaten to prosecute him with part of the money that National Chairman Mack set aside as a fund with which to prosecute persons attempting to coerce workmen or to influence their votes.

Welkin Is Ringing. The Welkin is ringing loudly these days and orators of both parties are chasing up and down and across the state. Both parties are preparing to send in their greatest spellbinders. Both national committees regard Indiana as doubtful, and seem willing to do everything possible to "save" the state.

BLUE GOOSE FLIES HIGH.

Chicago, Oct. 9. — The Grand Nest of the Blue Goose, a fraternal organization with a membership confined to insurance men, held its second annual meeting today at the Auditorium, following the annual convention of the Fire Underwriters' Association of the Northwest. The annual reports presented at the meeting showed that the Blue Goose now has twenty-five state branches, with a total membership of 1,718. The Illinois pond is the largest, with 155 members, followed by the Wisconsin pond, with 124, and Texas and Minnesota, with 118 each.

LABOR NEWS

The Iron Molders' union of North America will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary next year.

The membership of the Cigar-makers' union in Porto Rico, which was organized not very long ago, is more than 1,000.

The Montana Federation of Labor will make an attempt to have the state law in regard to the liability of employers amended.

The federal high court at Sydney, New South Wales, has declared that the registration of a trade union label is unconstitutional.

The Trade Union congress of England passed a resolution asking parliament to enact a law under which the organizers of strike-breaking movements, as well as the men themselves, could be prosecuted.

MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 9. — The international missionary convention of the Churches of Christ (Disciples), one of the largest religious gatherings of the year in point of attendance, has opened in New Orleans for a session of six days. It was estimated at the convention headquarters this morning that fully 4,000 delegates had arrived in the city. Between 1,000 and 2,000 more nominated as the labor candidate for the board of control of Ottawa.

W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees, has been nominated for congress in Detroit, Mich., by the democrats.

St. Louis, Mo., has a man named John Samuel, who is 92 years of age, and are expected before the real business of the convention is taken up tomorrow. They come from every state and territory of the Union and include ministers, educators, merchants and men prominent in public life. Also in attendance are a number of noted missionaries recently returned from foreign fields.
