LITTLE BRIGHTER IN DETROIT.

Fans Now Give the Tigers a Fighting Chance to Win the Flag.

Detroit, Oct. 12.—Detroit is feeling much better tonight. The tiger's decisive victory in today's battle has served to inspire the fans with new hope and many believe that the local team has a fighting chance to land the world's title.

Before the result of the victory had been flashed to Detroit the fans were in the dumps. The sale of reserved seat tickets this morning for tomorrow's game was very light. When it became known that the tigers had taken a fall out of the chesty men of Chicago the demand for tickets increased to such an extent that few of them will be left by tomorrow morning. There was more enthusiasm today than Detroiters have shown or have been able to show in any of the previous world's championship engagements. The crowds around the score boards were larger and to say that the fans went wild when the tigers made their rally in the sixth is to put it mildly.

Bettors who Sunday night offered almost any odds on the tigers to win the title, have fared down considerably, though there still is money in sight at 2 to 1 on Chicago. It is felt here that everything depends upon tomorrow's game. Should the tigers take this one local fans will figure them as having an even chance for the victory. Their defeat, however, will generally be considered to end all hope.

2 FOOTBALL PLAYERS LAID OUT.

THOMPSON GOES WEST TONIGHT TO BOX UNHOLZ.

Welch Calls Off Frisco Bouth and Boer Is Substituted.

Johnny Thompson, with his manager, Larnie Lichstein, leaves tonight for California to fight Rudy Unholtz in San Francisco Oct. 30. The bout originally was with Freddie Welsh, but the Briton called it off. The match with Unholtz was closed yesterday. The men will fight twenty rounds before C. J. Lecar's club, weighing in at 133 pounds at 3 o'clock.

IOWA EXPECTS CLEAN SWEEP.

Team is Hoping For Straight Run of Victories This Season.

Iowa City, Iowa, October 12.—To win every game on the schedule is the hope of the Iowa student body since the immense score of 92 to 0, piled up Saturday against the Coe eleven on Iowa field. One of the biggest obstacles is Missouri, the team which Iowa plays at Columbia next Saturday.

Overconfidence, the germ which has brought many a defeat, is the element to be destroyed by the hawkie coaches this week. Already the players have been given to understand that they face a hard proposition in meeting the Missouri team.

PLACE PREPARES FOR MICHIGAN

Notre Dame Coach Drills His Eleven for a Grueling Battle.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 12.—The Michigan-variety game, to be played at Ann Arbor next Saturday, is the chief topic of conversation at Notre Dame at the present time. Coach Place started a speedy line practice for the contest this afternoon. "Dike" Scanlon, captain of the basketball team and catcher on the local variety nine last year, appeared in uniform for the first time. McDonald made a touchdown for the varsity from the ten-yard line. Later the varsity took the ball from the center of the field to the second's two-yard line in three consecutive plays.

FOOTBALL BY ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Football by electric was introduced yesterday at Marshall field to boom Coach Stagg's final week of preparation for next Saturday's Chicago-Illinois game. The maroon coach brought out the first batch of the new plays he intends to use against the downstate eleven, and it took him until long past sundown to drill the mysterious 1908 thrillers into his squad.

The Illini are to be handed a large assortment of the brand new creations Stagg has worked out this summer and fall, and the Midway team will get an additional assortment every practice day this week, Stagg announced. The ghost hall will be used daily until the maroons have a bulging repertory of glittering open plays to use against the Urbana team in case of a surprise.

SOX GET ONE OF "CAL'S" MEN.

Comiskey Signs Up John Beall, Right Fielder, for 1909.

John "Fred" Beall, Jimmy Callahan's right fielder on the Logan Squares, has been signed by the white sox for the 1909 campaign, the announcement being made at a banquet given "Cal" by the members of his team. Beall has hit .400 for Callahan this year against some of the best pitching in the semi-pro circuit, and his ability to hit all kinds of pitchers induced Comiskey to give him a trial next year.

The banquet Saturday was entirely a surprise to Callahan, and he was presented with a pair of diamond cuff buttons by the members of his club. Each member of Callahan's team was presented with a handsome solid silver baseball trophy by Oscar Mathiesen at the dinner.

MORE COACHES FOR THE ILLINI.

Cook and McKinley on Hand for the Maroon Game.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 12.—Jimmy Cook of the Indianapolis baseball team and Harvey McKinley of Moline, old Illinois players, joined the coaches on Illinois field today and assisted in the work of preparing the eleven for the Chicago game. Every varsity player reported, despite the hard Marquette game Saturday, and this served to lift the depression which resulted as a matter of course from the tie score with the collegians.

As was expected, Watson was punished for his loose playing on Saturday by being relegated to the second set of backs, Ritchey taking his place at left half back. Bremer remained at full back, but must deliver the goods, else "Dr." Wright will replace him.

PURPLE ARE AT A LOSS TO FILL IN AT CENTER.

Injury to Hamilton Leaves Keystone Position Vacant for Two or More Weeks.

With Hamilton, the center, out of the game for two weeks or more the coaches of the Northwestern university football team yesterday were trying to find a suitable man for the place from some other position where he could best be spared and who could fill the hole in the keystone position. Hamilton had his clavicle bone thrown out in the game with the alumni Saturday and it not only compels the coaches to put another man in the center of the line of captain.

CAPT. NORTON'S GREAT SPEECH

the seas, and ended with the introduction of the toastmaster, J. J. Kelley. Mr. Kelley was in his best vein and surprised those who had never heard him with the excellent manner in which he did justice to his position. Mr. Kelley proved himself to be the finest type of an oratorical spellbinder, and often bubbled over with good old Irish wit.

The first man to be introduced was William H. Fitzgerald, who gave the address of welcome. He was followed by T. E. Knotts, who related events in the pioneer days of Gary. John A. Brennan, who gave a brief history of the Jansen council, Captain H. S. Norton, who spoke on the subject of Gary, C. H. Mahoney, who discoursed on his favorite topic, "The Ladies," Joseph Gillis, who talked on "Knights of Columbus," and Representative John J. Poulton of Illinois, who gave a masterly address on "Columbus, the Discoverer."

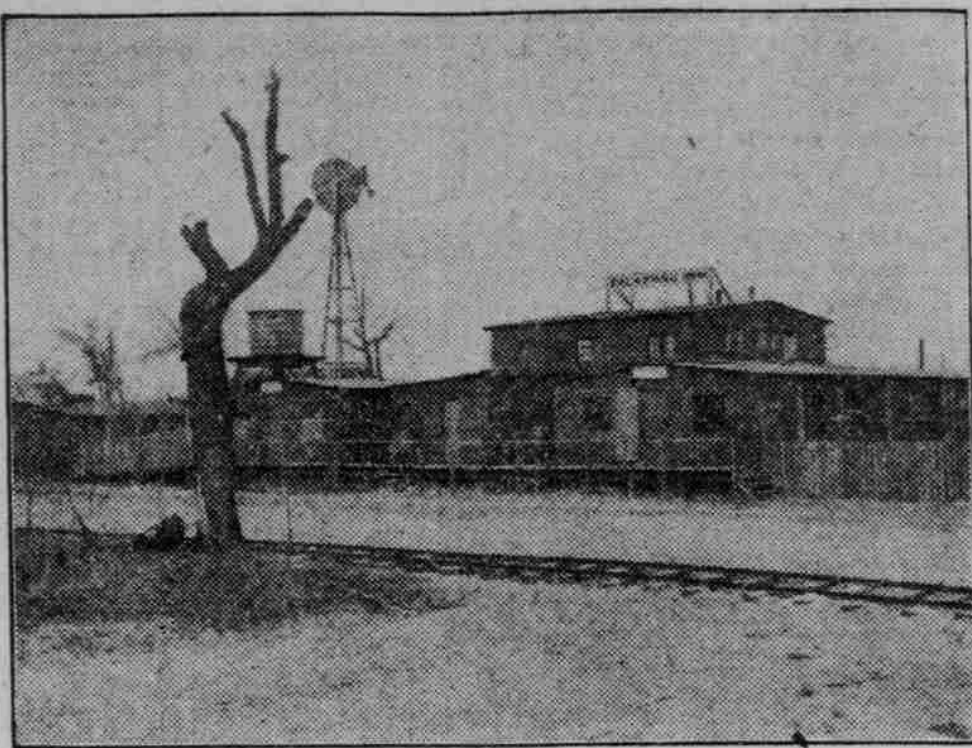

Was a Great Address.

Probably the greatest address of the evening was that delivered by Captain Norton, who spoke on a subject dear to the hearts of every one present, "Gary." Captain Norton, who is recognized as a splendid after-dinner talker, was in his finest vein and rounds of applause greeted his efforts last night. His memorable speech on Gary was in part as follows:

"Indolently written on the pages of American history is that of the church. From the time of the discovery of this continent by the patron of this society, on down through the centuries to the assassination of that martyr, Prosser of Denver, who died preaching loyalty to the flag and against anarchy and treason, men of your faith by the thousands have responded to our common country's call in every crisis, and gone forth to battle and to die.

"We speak of the Puritan fathers never too often, but some of us are prone to forget Marquette and Joliet,

THE FALKENAU CAMP

The Fort Dearborn of Gary, the First Building Erected There, and Now Ordered Torn Down by the Gary Land Company.

LaSalle, Lafayette and John Carroll of Carrollton. Who would dare tear out the pages of the story of that British were bombarding old Fort Henry, Francis Keys wrote those undying words: "Oh, say can you see by the dawn's early light," and the answer, as the day dawned, from the throats of a thousand cavaliers. "The flag is still there." Is there a man or woman here tonight whose pulse has not quickened, whose blood has not coursed more swiftly at the story of Sheridan's ride and when we hum that air "Marching Through Georgia," we remember with a thrill old Tecumseh and his march to the sea.

"The German of St. Louis saved Missouri to the Union. From my own native state, in answer to the call of Father Abraham, came Mulligan's famous Irish brigade, and when that son of the old sod, at the battle of Rock mountain, was being carried from the field, a dying man, he said, 'Lay me down and save the flag.'

But what has all this to do with our city? Just this—we may have massed in the country, the finest business thoroughfare in Indiana; model homes; factories belching forth clouds of smoke by day and pillars of fire by night from a thousand stacks yet we will not have the ideal American town; but couple with all this a community of law-abiding, temperate men, a Christian citizenship—then, indeed, can we proclaim from the house-tops to all the world—Behold!

"A corporation has created this town—it has, through subsidiary companies, provided the first facilities for the future city in the way of water supply, gas, electric lights, sewers and streets. Everything in its power has been done with a view of making Gary a desirable place of residence. It is building a great mill where thousands of our countrymen will find employment; it invites men to co-operate in a substantial way in the up-building of Gary. It has done all of these things, yet it has not desired to dictate, has no inclination to 'run the town.' It is an American institution and recognizes the fact that you, as Americans, will rule here; good or bad, yours will be the government.

"I wonder tonight what some of my ancestors would say if they could hear this talk. I am about to confess to a Catholic priest, I owe him that much. We were pioneers together in this town; there has grown up a friendship between us which I pray may last as long as either of us shall live. I have learned to regard him as I do few men. The Almighty, in his direction of affairs down here, was surely present in the little old office with His grace and myself, when the bishop told me he would appoint Father Jansen to this parish.

"Your reverence, it was with a selfish, ulterior motive I first talked 'shop' to you. When I came to Gary I found 5,000 people living here. Provision had been made for business houses and homes, but not for churches; for the physical but not the spiritual. In the beginning some men were satisfied with conditions, but few women. They demanded something better, and realizing that we could not go much further without women, that this would be a lonesome Eden without Eve, in looking about for a force to make things better, I met you; I worked you; I sold you some twenty lots and did not charge you anything extra for ease. I really believe, sir, that I made you think we were doing you a favor when we turned over a house for those saintly sisters who are giving their lives to the Master's cause. For all this I pray for absolution.

"To the members of this order I wish to say that if you live up to the tenets of the society you will be a power for good in Gary. There are some salient truths which I wish not only you but every man who has come here to make this town his home, might take unto himself. I know that the moral standard is as high as it is in any place in the land, but a new community always attracts the derelicts and failures of older towns and we have drawn our share of these unfortunates, of black-malers of confidence men, fake bankers, and there are some walking the streets here, borrowing from young girls, pulling off fake raffles, who certainly will never be of the best things on earth until they are laid away in mother earth. We have our share of gamblers and kickers who do nothing themselves for the community and knock those who do. If any of you are guilty, cut it out. Don't sit around and damn your town. A town is just as good as the people who damn it. A town is seldom the result of virgin, natural conditions. Where we stand tonight, two short years ago was a dreary, sandy waste, a trackless desert. Today it is the wonder of the world.

"There is no natural reason why this should be at any time the steel center of the world. There is no coal here, no ore, yet, notwithstanding the muck-rakers and the revilers, it is destined to be.

"I have heard men say that this is but an overgrown village and I at once knew that, before coming here, they wore whiskers and their pants tucked inside their boots. Of course, if the town is not sporty enough for you, you can move; that isn't the town's fault. Some are getting too sporty and will have to move anyway. It isn't the sports who will make the town, it is that splendid army of grimy, oily stalwarts, armed with dinner buckets, marching down this broad street tonight, and which, I trust, will continue to march, ever increasing in number, so long as this town shall stand.

"You men of Jansen council, organized not for profit, not with stocks and bonds, not for the control of prices and supply, but with a conscience and a code of ethics for the restraint of your members in the protection of yourselves and the public—if you are loyal knights, true to your order and your church, for if you are true to both you will be true to your country and our young city—there is work for you to do. Be builders-up, not pullers-down; stand for the right; condemn wrong; both good or bad, stand for Gary always."

After the banquet the guests went to the dance hall in the Savage building, where they enjoyed themselves for several hours afterward. Among the out-of-town guests Hammond had probably the largest number present. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fitzgerald, Dr. and Mrs. William D. Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Simon and Fred Carter.
