STILL THE ROBBERIES KEEP UP THERE

Indiana Harbor Store Is Entered and $75 Taken From Register.

ROBBERY IN THE AFTERNOON

Police Authorities Are Astounded at Boldness of Midnight Marauders.

[Special to The Times] Indiana Harbor, Ind., Oct. 20.—Another robbery, even more daring in its culmination than any that have heretofore confronted the local police department, was committed on Sunday afternoon when the store of Steenberger brothers, on Pennsylvania avenue, was entered and $75 in cash taken from the register.

The robbery was evidently committed between the hours of three and five o'clock on Sunday afternoon, when the streets were well filled with pedestrians. Entrance to the building was effected by crawling through a small window leading into the ice box. This was then opened from the inside, and with stealthy steps, the marauders pried open the drawer of the cash register. The money, which was mostly in bills of small denomination, was soon appropriated by the alert burglar and he quickly made his escape.

Notify the Police.

The proprietors of the store usually sleep in the kitchen in the rear of the store on Sunday afternoon, but at the time specified were in East Chicago, visiting at the home of friends. They noticed the ruffled condition of the store as soon as they returned and immediately began an investigation and inventory of their losses. The police were notified, and despite their efforts, were unable to locate any absolutely definite clue to the identity of the burglar. No other items were taken from the store, and it is believed by Chief of Police Higgins that the theft was merely one of the series that is now terrifying the natives of this city.

Hardly a night or afternoon passes that one or more houses are not entered and losses of money and valuables reported to the police. Residents of the Harbor are alarmed and declare that they will petition the council to place several additional men on the force temporarily, hoping by this means to frighten the offenders into their proper senses, thus eliminating the danger of robbery and assault that is now uppermost in the minds of every Indiana Harbor housekeeper.

MARSHALL SPEAKS AT INDIANA HARBOR

Five Hundred Persons Listen to Candidate's Speech at Harbor.

DEMOCRATS GIVE WELCOME

Says He Was Once Arrested and Threatened With Fine and Is in Favor of Jury Trial.

[Special to The Times] Indiana Harbor, Ind., Oct. 20.—Five hundred persons listened to the arguments, interspersed with dry humor, advanced by the Hon. Thomas Marshall, the democratic candidate for governor, at Cohen's Auditorium last evening.

Of this number at least 200 were republicans, drawn to the meeting by the desire to see the opponent of the republican candidate and to listen to his argumentative advances.

Mr. Marshall did not arrive at the Indiana Harbor meeting until shortly after 9 o'clock, being delayed at the Hammond meeting. While the democrats gave him a rousing welcome, it was of brief duration, and Mr. Marshall was given an opportunity to launch at once into the text of his discourse.

With many terse, snappy anecdotes and evidences of humor, Mr. Marshall attempted to enthrall the good-will of his audience. He declared himself a candidate on the democratic platform, and paying the expenses of his election from his own pocket, without assistance from trust or corporation.

Is Roudly Applauded.

His followers cheered vociferously whenever his statements bore any semblance of the invective, and the applause was fairly appreciable throughout the expounding of the democratic doctrines.

Mr. Marshall declared himself in favor of the trial by jury in injunction cases. "I ought to be," he said, "as I was arrested once and threatened with $100 fine and three months in jail."

The candidate ridiculed the distribution of wealth in America under republican protective tariff system, and declared that the distribution was unfair, being confined entirely to the moneyed class. At this juncture, some one in the rear of the hall called out, "How about Bryan's earnings for the past twelve years?" and Mr. Marshall decided to drop the subject.

He declared the democratic party to be the conservative party of the year, demanding the abolition of special privileges and the protection of vested and property rights of the American citizen.

Denies Brewery Affiliation.

His forty-five minute address was closed with a denial that the millionaire brewers had raised money for the prosecution of his campaign. "I am neither a brewery nor an anti-saloon candidate for governor of Indiana," he interpolated, "but am running entirely upon my platform as selected by the platform committee at the state convention." Mr. Marshall declared that he would enforce the law against the "high-toned buffet" with the same rigidity as against the "poor man's saloon," and, with his arms outstretched, made a fervent appeal for the support of his gathering.

He gathered the democratic party to be the conservative party of the year, demanding the abolition of special privileges and the protection of vested and property rights of the American citizen.
