MRS. O. P. KINSEY'S ADDRESS.
In her address to the opening session of the annual meeting of the State Federation of Clubs at the Clay-street in Indianapolis last night, Mrs. O. P. Kinsey, president of the federation, declared the interests of American women now center in "communities" rather than in the home. At one time, she said, woman's duties were purely domestic and that her chief topics of conversation were about "chickens, butter and eggs." More than four hundred members of the State Federation and the Indianapolis Federated Clubs attended the session.

Mrs. Kinsey declared the home to be the most important part of the life of the American woman, but she does not believe the woman is confined so closely to her domestic duties as she was once. This, she said, is due to a change of conditions in society, which instead of binding her to her home have gradually drawn her to a wider field of activity, until now the "crowning glory of the husband" finds her child joys and activities in the "community" and prefers to entertain her guests in clubs rather than in her own parlor. This change, Mrs. Kinsey believes, is a matter for rejoicing rather than a thing to be deplored.

First Car-Load of Corn Imported From the Argentine Republic.

John E. Fitzgerald says that the first car-load of corn from Argentine Republic was shipped into this country the other day and part of it was consigned to his plant.

The corn differs from the American maize in that there is no indentation in the top of the kernel. The kernel is also very hard and is rather smaller than that which is raised here.

He will try it out and see what its qualities are for use in his business in the distillery.

The company was never more prosperous and from the present outlook, when political conditions settled as far as the presidency is concerned, there seems to be no question that the prosperity will soon be as great as that of last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bellamy.
E. C. McGinnis.

IT IS A PRETTY PLAY.

The theory that the natural aspects of a country have an effect upon the character of its people has long been accepted as a truism. The stately peaks and rushing torrents of the mountains is reflected in the character of the men who inhabit such regions. They are sincere in their friendships, firm in their convictions, broad in view, lofty in their ideals, self-sacrificing, generous, yet just. To correctly portray these men it is necessary to supply a representation of their natural environment. For this reason Annie Mack Berlein has provided a scenic dress for Father Vaughan's play, "A Woman of the West," true to the minutest detail of the environs in which the author conceived his characters to have their being. It requires a carload of scenery to accomplish this. The production has been made with-out regard to cost and with an idea single to its correctness. At Towle Opera House, Thursday, Oct. 29.

The Prindville Transportation company of Chicago, filed notice that it has increased its capital stock from $100,000 to $175,000.

G. S. Rawlings and wife who have been visiting relatives and friends in Cincinnati, have returned home after a very pleasant visit.

The Types of Cats.
There are a number of classes of Persian cats, the division between them being purely arbitrary and based on the color of the fur. The most beautiful of all the Persians is the pure white. They are, however, very hard to keep clean, and a dirty white cat is certainly anything but an ornament about one's rooms. It is unfortunate that many white cats are deaf, so when one is making a purchase of a cat that color it is a wise precaution to test the hearing. Another failing which white cats have, in common with all light colored cats, is that their constitutions are not so vigorous as those of the dark haired cats—Suburban Life.
