THE TIMES will print all communications on subjects of general interest to the people, when such communications are signed by the writer, but will not accept any communications not signed, no matter what their merits. This precaution is taken to avoid misrepresentation.

THE TIMES is published in the best interest of the people, and its utterances always intended to promote the general welfare of the public at large.

SHOULD GO TO SCHOOL FOR WORK.

The editorial in a recent issue of this paper regarding the influence of women teachers upon boys has called forth some discussion. A number of interesting letters have been received carrying on the discussion as to whether a woman is a fit teacher for a boy when he has passed the elementary grades. One writer says "If the lady teacher succeeds in getting my boy to work at his studies and induces him to learn something I will be satisfied, but I believe it takes a man to pound education into a lad after he has reached the age of fifteen."

The writer evidently takes a teacher for a pile driver, but there is no doubt that a great many things in education of the present day are allowed to interfere with school work pure and simple.

No less a person than Horace Taft, a brother of the President-elect, aptly says:

"A boy should realize that when he goes to school he goes for work, and serious work, and certainly many things devised to amuse and interest him should be relegated to the hours of play. We need more Puritanism in our early education. A boy should bring, therefore, to the secondary school at the age of 13 or 14 a mind wonderfully trained, according to our present standard, in rote memory and habits of accuracy. * * * Above all he should bring a sense of duty and familiarity with hard work earned through six or eight years of practice. Our present method is to make school half-play for the first six or eight years, to require nothing that calls for hard work or develops a sterner side or develops the power of concentration or the willingness to undergo drudgery."

There is altogether too much to detract from learning these days. The high school boys these days spend their time aping the colleges, and crowding in as much of college custom and spirit into the high school as they possibly can, both in school and out. The opening exercises now are called "chapel," the girls "co-eds," the football team, "the varsity," the two or three chaps not big enough to make the team, "the scrubs" and so on ad nauseam.

LAKE COUNTY THE MAGNET.

That Lake county is destined to be absolutely the greatest county in the state of Indiana is plain to a great many people who do not live within the circumscribed borders of the county. Many of these people admit it rather grudgingly and reluctantly. For that they cannot be blamed, however. It is gratifying to note, however, that the fact is recognized. Four of White county's most noted lawyers—one of them a former judge on the circuit bench—have moved to Hammond to begin the practice of law in special cases. So convinced are they of the coming greatness of the Calumet region that they have come to cast their individual and collective lot in with Lake county. The removal of so many professional and business men to this locality is significant. It is ample proof of the importance of this part of the state. Statistics show that Lake county has grown twenty-four times more than the counties that touch it, within the last five years. Lake county will be the hub of the wheel before very long. Come here and locate.

THE FORESIGHT OF THE PACKERS.

The appearance of a syndicate of American packers in the Argentine Republic, seeking to get control of the meat business there, follows quickly after the appearance of Argentine beef in this country in menacing competition with the western product. Possibly the prospect of tariff revision and of the free admission of hides has something to do with the new movement. The packers' trust appears to be getting ready to discount the inevitable and to be able to make the best of the conditions which it can no longer prevent. It is a sure sign of the strength and power of a trust when it can display its adaptability to changing economic conditions.

GOOD NEWS FOR GARY.

The news that the Gary mills would start in active operation on the first of the approaching year is hailed with joy by the business men of Gary and all those in Lake county who are vitally interested in the growth of the "Magic City." The depression caused by the cessation of manufacturing industry over the United States for the past year, while influencing Gary indirectly, has not made so much difference to her, but the starting of the great wheels of industry in the Indiana Steel plant in January is of vital importance to Gary and those who are financially interested in the welfare and prosperity of the city. From this time on business and industry will grow with rapid strides and we will soon be able to look on a Gary that we all want to see.

A RATHER SURPRISING CONDITION.

It is announced that the two-cent letter rate to Great Britain, which has now been in force for nearly six weeks, has not increased the amount of foreign mail matter coming or going across the Atlantic. This is not altogether discouraging, however. It takes time to build up a flourishing business on a new basis. The increase is sure to come in course of time, however. If it does there will be a lot of distinguished officials of the two continents who are badly fooled.

"NO DRESS CLOTHES WANTED," was the warning attached to the invitations to a dinner of Boston journalists recently. Certainly not, we remember the description of a journalist given by Hon. John D. Long. It was: "When engaged in elevating public sentiment the journalist wears a shirt sleeve costume with a clay pipe, hat on the back of his head and feet on the table."

TOM TAGGART HAS drawn one card to four of a color, but with his sweet, inscrutable smile he of course refuses to let any one see the hand. When Tom plays it, however, you can lay odds that the senatorial pot will be his, either for himself or his friend.

AS A RULE THE prohibitionists all over the country are disappointed in the smallness of their vote. No one else is, however. Their vote would have been much larger in Indiana this time if it had not been for Thomas Marshall.

BOTH MR. TAFT and Mr. Bryan can sing the song "Maryland, My Maryland" without stretching the truth any.

KEEP STILL.

When trouble is brewing and you can't help it, do the only thing you can do, the only thing that may help, the thing that is appropriate and sensible—

Keep still.

When Slander gets on his legs and peddles his fool wares; when Gossip, meddlesome dame, goes on her rounds from door to door, all you can do, the best you can do, is to—

Keep still.

When your feelings are hurt, be slow to show your wounds. You are excited and have lost your poise. Wait, wait! You may say or do something you will be sorry for later on.

Keep still.

When harsh words come uppermost, put them down BOTTOMMOST and HOLD THEM there by the ponderous weight of deliberate silence. When anger tightens your muscles to strike, wait. Wait until you can speak calmly and when you can speak calmly you may not want to strike.

Keep still.

When wrong is done you, be slow to give back evil for evil, because he who wrongs you WRONGS HIMSELF THE MORE. He puts the warp of evil in the fabric of his soul, which is the same as if he should put poison in his blood. He will harm himself more than you.

Keep still.

When a mean correspondent stings you to the quick, you want to "give him as good as he sends"—and more. Wait. Write the letter if you must. Say the mean things. But DO NOT SEND THE LETTER. Put it away and wait a few days. When you are no longer agitated, read it again. You may not care to send it.

Keep still.

Silence is a mighty force. When rightly used it is one of the great powers. Silence distinguishes the forceful man. Speech is silver; silence is golden. He who under pressure holds his tongue in submission has mastered himself. He has learned a subtle secret of life—that TIME AND SILENCE WILL WORK WONDERS.

Keep still.

SILENCE WEIGHS TONS. The strength of it, the weight of it, has been known only to the few. The great men have been the silent men. Out of their silences they have grown their greatness. The strength of these men is as the silent towering of the mountain peaks—the strength of solitary grandeur.

Keep still.

THIS IS MY 47th BIRTHDAY.

Lemuel H. Murlin, the new president of DePauw university at Greencastle, Ind., was born in Mercer county, O., Nov. 16, 1861, and received his education at DePauw university. After his graduation in 1891 he spent three years in special study at Clark college, the University of Pennsylvania and at several universities in Europe. For two years he was pastor of a Methodist Episcopal church at Baldwin, Kan. Dr. Murlin has attained wide prominence as a church worker as well as an educator. In 1901 he was sent to London as one of the delegates from America to the Methodist Ecumenical Conference.

RANDOM THINGS AND FLINGS

The story of the great Gary mills' progress, as told in these columns last Saturday, was one of absorbing interest to thousands of people over Lake county.

SMALL CONTRIBUTIONS ARE NOT THANKFULLY RECEIVED IN MOST FAMILIES WHEN THEY HAPPEN TO BE BABIES.

An Iowa woman who claims to have had a vision of Heaven, says she saw pianos there. If she had heard them practicing she might have thought it was the other place.

THE QUALITY OF EATING DEPENDS ON A MAN'S SELF. MANY AN ORANGE TASTES LIKE A LEMON IN THE MORNING TO A MAN WITH A DARK BROWN TASTE IN HIS MOUTH.

According to the census department, there are 70,000,000 hogs in America. This is not counting some of the people who ride on the Sixty-third street.

UP AND DOWN IN INDIANA

THREE CITIES CO-OPERATE.

Closer co-operation between the business interests of the "three fall cities" was the aim in view at an open meeting of the Louisville Commercial club held Thursday night. More than two hundred members of the "three fall cities," representative of every line of industry and every profession in Jeffersonville and New Albany, attended.

OIL DRILLERS FIND COAL.

A vein of coal six feet in thickness was struck yesterday by oil well drillers, who are putting down a test well on the Johnson farm, two miles north-west of St. Francisville, Ill., near Hazelton. The coal was struck at a depth of 150 feet. It is of excellent quality.

FATHERS WATER PURIFICATION.

There is good reason why Homer L. McGinnis of Martinsville, democratic representative-elect, from republican Morgan county, should be the father of the steam purification legislation which the approaching general assembly will enact—if the polluters' lobby is not too strong.

DISCUSS MAD DOGS.

The Young Business Men's club of Terre Haute last night took up the mad dog question and named a committee to find out why the ordinances are not enforced. The police department was censured for apathy when the situation is so bad that there are daily reports of unmuzzled dogs at large biting persons.

EXPLOSION INJURES FOUR.

Four men were seriously injured and a dozen or more slightly hurt, this morning, soon after 9 o'clock, by an explosion in the oats room of the main building of the American Milling company's stock food factory at Linden, ten miles north of Crawfordsville.

WOMEN HUNT AT NIGHT.

Some of the prominent young women of West Baden have found great sport in hunting the opossum and the raccoon. This they say is the best fun of the season. They have not yet ventured to the woods at night alone, but always find young men to accompany them.

KIDNAPS THE WITNESS.

Ada May Glasco of Anderson, the 10 year old daughter of John A. Glasco, who is charged with killing his wife on Sept. 24, at her home, five miles west of this city, has been kidnapped. The little girl was the only eyewitness to the deed committed by her father, and it is believed that some friend of the latter has spirited the girl away for a purpose.

TALBOT ASKS FOR CHANGE.

Charging that they could not obtain a fair and impartial trial in St. Joseph county, because of undue influence which Joseph E. Talbot is said to have over the people of South Bend, the attorneys for the prosecution in the disbarment proceedings pending against Mr. Talbot, filed a motion for a change of venue before Special Judge Harry B. Tutthill of Michigan City, late yesterday, and the judge set 1:30 o'clock next Tuesday as the time for the final disposition of the matter.

ANOTHER CORNSHREDDER VICTIM.

Lester Hunt of Richmond, 23 years old, had his left arm torn off at the elbow yesterday afternoon in a cornshredder. Hunt is a rural route carrier from the Richmond postoffice, and was taking the afternoon off to assist in corn-shredding when the accident happened.

TRIAL BEGINS WEDNESDAY.

The trial of Robert Jolly, charged with the murder of his 12 year old daughter, Gladys, at Indianapolis, on Thursday, June 13, 1907, and which was brought to Hendricks circuit court on a change of venue, from Marion county, is set for trial at Danville next Wednesday.

NEWCASTLE; ROSE CENTER.

Greenhouse firms in Newcastle were unusually successful at the various big flower shows held in the large cities this week. William Dittman won the grand prize on American beauty roses at the international flower show held in Chicago. Welland & Clinger also captured several prizes.

SILENT FOR SIX MONTHS.

Miss Gertrude Fair of Logansport, committed to the Northern Indiana Asylum for the Insane from St. Joseph county, six months ago, never spoke a word since entering the institution until yesterday. Attendants had tried various methods of getting her into conversation, but the girl seemingly did not hear.

This Week's News Forecast

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—The attention of the Roman Catholic world will be centered next week on the eternal city, where brilliant and elaborate ceremonies will be held in celebration of the pope's jubilee, the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. From all parts of the world eminent prelates of the church, including a liberal representation from America, have journeyed to Rome to take part in the jubilee observance.

Also of great interest and importance to the Catholic church will be the meeting in Chicago of the first American Catholic missionary congress, which will be attended by distinguished churchmen and laymen from all parts of this country and Canada.

In the United States circuit court at Richmond the injunction suit instituted by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company against the Interstate commerce commission will be argued. The suit is one of several brought by leading railroads to test the power of the interstate commerce commission to enforce the so-called hours-of-service law, which became effective March 4 last.

At Boston on the same day arguments will be heard on the question of advancing the bill in equity brought by Attorney General Bonaparte to prevent the merger of the Boston & Maine railroad with the New Haven and to force the latter to dispose of its trolley lines in Massachusetts.

In New York, Sylvester G. Williams, the special examiner appointed in the case, will begin the taking of testimony in the anti-merger suit brought by the government for the purpose of dissolving the Harriman railroad system.

After several postponements the case of In When Chang the Korean accused of the assassination of Durham White Stevens, American adviser to the Korean government, will come up for trial in San Francisco Monday.

Important conventions and conferences of the week will include the meeting of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association in Baltimore, the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, in Atlanta; the National Prison association, in Richmond, and the National Municipal League and American Civic association in Pittsburgh.

Feminine Fads and Fancies

BRIDE IN A QUANDRY.

The self-supporting girl who is a prospective bride is often in a quandary regarding the purchases she must make for trousseau or home. It is indeed a very old-fashioned idea which still prevails, that women must provide a linen chest, the table linen, the bedding, towels, curtains and the like. This is not expected of the average bride even when she can afford such luxuries. It is nice and convenient to have these articles, and it is not improper for one to provide herself with the necessities, but it is not expected. The only advantage is this: The articles will probably be much nicer than ready purchased ones, and the clever girl will give a touch of handiwork with monograms and the like that look so attractive in the new home.

But a working girl when she works is supposed to be leaving the working world to be cared for by the man who marries her, and he is expected to find the home and be in financial circumstances to provide for it. If he cannot do these things then the ceremony had best be deferred. After a woman has her own home, through her own ingenuity, cleverness and painstaking she will be able to do more that is helpful in securing needed articles, for she can wait for bargains, do her own sewing, which she cannot do while in the working world, and she can get just hat she most needs. When it comes to preparing her wedding outfit the youthful bride, be her station ever so humble deserves a dainty, girlish dress, after which she must count her money and use it to the best possible advantage. But even the wedding garments are not so numerous as supplied as they once were, making it convenient for rich and poor, and doubly so for the self-supporting girl.

FOR THE DESK.

Desk novelties are the 10-inch high folding scrap baskets which are made of printed cretonne, pompadour silk, Dresden ribbon or kid and the elastic covers for tiny flower pots contrived from accordion platted crepe paper.

Boxes for stationery are in the shape of miniature trunks, covered with satin, silk or linen, kid bound, brass or gun metal name plates, while others represent chests of drawers, each one fitted with silver ring handles.

Sandalwood, ivory and mother of pearl paper cutters have handles of bright green and ornate gold, triple plated matt and old silver, gun and burnished metal, antique brass, Pompeian, Etruscan, bronze, French gray and Egyptian finishes. Celluloid engagement lists are framed in similar metals and compositions and accompanied by two matching calendars, one showing the months and weeks and the other a line of verse suited to every day in the year.

PIN FEATHER TURBAN.

Some of the best shops are offering the pin-feather turban as a fashionable hat. Women insisted upon it, and it promises to be the smart thing.

It is worn for street, for windy days and all kinds of occasions when a large hat is neither fit nor becoming. It is built in an oblong shape, but made wide at the sides by small birds and wings. It has no bandeau and comes well down over the hair. It is in smoked gray, iridescent blue and shaded peacock green. All iridescent effects are good in turbans, as on large hats.

A fishnet veil is always worn with them. It is folded around the neck under the chin, securely pinned at back and then drawn up to top of turban, where it is again fastened and the ends securely tucked away.

NEW HOUSE ROLL CALL IS OUT.

Shows Democrats Have 172 and Republicans 219 Representatives.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The temporary roll call of the house of representatives for the Sixty-third congress has been completed and published. It presents a complete list of members of the new house as shown by unofficial returns, and gives the politics of all of them.

According to this publication the next house will consist of 219 republicans and 172 democrats, a total of 391, as against a total of 389 in the house during the last session, of whom 223 were republicans and 166 democrats. The result is a net loss of four from the republican side and a net gain of six on the democratic side, the discrepancy being due to present vacancies. All told, the democrats gained seventeen districts and the republicans twelve.

The most marked advance made by the democrats was in Indiana, the home of Mr. Bryan's running mate, Mr. Kern. Of the thirteen members constituting the Indiana delegation, only two will be republicans in the next congress, whereas in the present congress there are eight republicans from that state.

Freight traffic is showing a remarkable increase the present week, and a large per cent of the freights are holiday goods en route west for that line of trade. This, coupled with the heavy movement of grain now setting in, makes the east-bound traffic of the Pennsylvania and the Big Four lines much heavier than for some time past. West-bound traffic has been fully up to the usual tonnage for several weeks.
