

A DAY IN GARY LAND

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

The case of Joe Mahowski, who started a riot in the Standard district in which he cut one man's throat and another man in the head before he was finally overpowered and arrested, was given a little Sunday school fine of $100 and thirty days in jail.

This morning a motion was heard in which Bob Grant, who is held on the charge of adultery, asked for a continuance. The case against E. F. McGovern, who is charged with perjury, will be taken up this afternoon.

It is expected that the McGovern case will take all of the afternoon.

FIND DOORS AND WINDOWS STRANGELY WIDE OPEN.

Light Out on Unusual Hour in Station Causes Officers to Make an Investigation.—No Clues to Burglars Can Be Found.

Last night, near midnight, Officers Swada and Nestorovich noticed a light in the interurban station of the Chicago, Lake Shore and South Bend some time after the place is usually closed, and suspecting that a robbery had occurred, entered the place and investigated it. All of the doors were found open, and the window to the ticket office unlocked. There was no one inside at the time, however, and as far as they could discover nothing was found missing.

The officers then nailed down the windows and barricaded the doors, after turning out the lights, but were unable to find the station agent to tell him of the occurrence. When the matter was reported in the morning a careful investigation was made, but they were unable to find any cash or tickets missing.

NEW DRUG STORE PLANNED FOR GARY.

Charles Herboldt Will Open Up in South End of the City.

A new drug store will be started in the south end of the city as soon as Charles Herboldt, the proprietor, can get the stock into the building and open up. The drug store will be located at the corner of Twenty-second street and Broadway. The building, which will be occupied for that purpose, was recently moved from Seventeenth avenue and Broadway by the owner, Mr. McBride. Mr. McBride said this morning that he would build in the spring a large brick store for the use of the drug man. Mr. Herboldt now owns a store on the corner of Sixth avenue and Broadway, and the one in the south end will be a branch, and will be the only drug store in the south end of the city.

WORKING ON FORGERY CASE IN WHICH GARYITES LOST.

Chicago Detectives Think They Have Man Who Swindled Paine Hardware Company Out of $40.

Officers Riley and Brennan, of Chicago, were in Gary yesterday looking up a forgery case, in which the Paine Hardware company was recently duped for $40. They recently arrested a forger in Chicago with a long criminal record and they believe that he might have had something to do with the case. They brought with them the picture of the man for Paine to identify and the latter will go to Chicago today to look up the case.

If any of our sister towns and cities want anything in the way of building their cities kindly call on the Gary Commercial club.

A touch of Indian summer is never so welcome as when it comes towards the latter part of the year.

Many of Gary's handsome new structures are nearing completion, but there promises to be some cold fingers before they are finished.

The enforcing of the spitting ordinance in Gary will be one of the best moves ever made by the town board.

Peter Van Vilsenenger was so adept at the business that he must have despised a piker.

These chilly nights Chief of Police Martin turns over a new page on the ledger every night.

It is said that the town board will compel all owners of property frontage on Broadway to build sand guards to keep the sand off the sidewalks.

Prosperity has even gone so far in Gary as to make many Gary people buy their Christmas presents.

Yes, thank you, the paving on Broadway will be finished by—7

There are many people in Gary who have forgotten by this time who the democratic presidential candidate really was at the last election.

"THE TRUST BUSTERS" COMING.

The laughing comedy, "The Trust Busters," can be truthfully termed the very quintessence of fun. Unlike most comedies it has a plot and this plot is in the main responsible for the many ludicrous mishaps and complications that round out a solid two hours and a half of genuine merriment. "The Trust Busters" will present this excellent comedy in a merry, mad-cap, crazy concoction of hilarity and as much leads the world in laughter. The advance sale of tickets will be large. Coming to the Gary Theater Sunday, Nov. 22.

The Bigelow band concert and dance given for the benefit of the organization last night and one of the largest crowds that ever attended a dance was present. The music proved very satisfactory, and the dance was enjoyed by everyone present. Two numbers were rendered by the band outside of the hall, after which they gave a short program inside. After that the dancing began and lasted until midnight. The affair was the biggest success that Bigelow has achieved this year.

Perversity of Mankind. 5
We all love that for which we work hardest and prize it most when we don't get it.

Feminine Fads and Fancies

BUTTONS AS TRIMMING.
There is no end to the use of buttons. All kinds of quaint and novel ways are invented to appropriately trim a gown with this kind of ornament.

It is possible that the newest and the latest common is to use an immense round button from two to three inches in diameter made larger by two or three double ruffles at the edge.

This button is made on a mold and is of satin or velvet or of crocheted material. At the edge are run these ruffles in varying widths. They are made of ribbon or of the material, double and cut on the bias.

There is no embroidery in the center, as one sees on so many of the new buttons. These are principally used on top coats, especially those of fur. There are two at the bust, or, better still, two at the waist.

WHITE HATS AND MUFFS.
The desire for white hats with elaborate indoor costumes is growing stronger every week. Wide white satin sailers trimmed with morning glories are in high fashion. These are worn with one-piece frocks of wistaria, violet and amethyst.

The hat of the moment for festal occasions is of white satin, with its low round crown draped in white rabbit skin, which is a good imitation of fox. Often a muff of white fox is sold to go with the hat. This is a charming addition to an indoor gown in any of the new tones of color.

It is quite the fashion this winter to carry huge muffs indoors at any reception or tea, without a neckpiece to correspond. The latter might hide the lines of the frock from neck to waist, but the big muff gives a perfect touch.

GLASS BATHROOM SHELF.
At little cost, one can have a neat glass bathroom shelf made with nickel or porcelain brackets to hold the collection of bottles, brushes and salve pots that the modern woman includes among her toilet requisites. These shelves are sold in an assortment of sizes and are made of thick plain glass with rounded corners. A few of the self-labeled drug and toilet bottles that are now offered at prices ranging from 35 cents up will be useful to hold toilet water, tooth wash and the other essential aids to cleanliness and daintiness.

FOR THE BUSY WOMAN.
To hang on the left side of the belt a most useful arrangement of sewing articles is invented for the busy bee. Fashioned from a small rose-patterned cretonne, there is a small three-inch bag to hold thimbles and emery. A needlecase also of that size is lined with flannel. Then a round disk, whose curved edge is stuck with pins. And hanging by means of ribbon, as do the other articles, a tiny pair of scissors completes the dainty and useful sack.

QUEER THINGS IN CLOTHES.
Skirts cut to inset in front with trains at back.
Coats longer in back than front.
Entirely different sleeves in one gown.

Tucks running six ways on one frock.
Gimpes entirely one-sided and made of three materials.
Hats that cover the head and hair.
A black earring and a pink one worn at the same time.

DAINTY PERFUMES.
It is quite in accordance with the trend of fashion that women should be daintily perfumed these days. Essence is not used as much as sachet.

There are now small slips of paper made about the size of a visiting card which are sold a dozen in a box. These are perfumed with flowers and have a most delicious fragrance. One is slipped into the lining of a coat or a blouse or a hat and the effect is very good. The fragrance is faint and agreeable. These cards put into the bureau drawer and among neckwear and handkerchiefs impart to these small articles the same subtle fragrance.

STONES IN BELT BUCKLES.

The newest belt buckles are of medium size, containing one immense setting in colored stones. Hatpins show the same large stones, only they have two facet sides. The stones are of foreign make, emethyst, topaz, garnet and sapphire.

KNITTED SILK MUFFERS.

For the cold winter days instead of a fur scarf there is a new muffler of the knitted silk kind which fits snugly around the throat and the ends lie loosely over the chest. The purchaser can be as fastidious as he chooses in the selection of the color, for they come in all the desirable shades.

FETCHING RIBBONS.

Persian metallic ribbons are most fascinating, the oriental colorings being overspread with a high sheen of gold, which gives body as well as lustre to the ribbon. Most fetching are those used either for hat trimmings or as sashes and girdles.

DARNING BALLS.

It is a good idea to keep two darning balls in one's work basket: a white one for the brown and black stockings and a black one for the white stockings. When the contrast of the background is great, one can see the holes more readily in darning.

GIFT THAT GIVES COMFORT.

Although there may be something aboriginal in the idea of the blanket as a covering, it is a fact that one of the daintiest personal gifts which may be given to the bride-to-be, or even the plain, ordinary person with whom you swap Christmas gifts, is the blanket bathrobe. To be sure, the bathrobe spoken of is made out of a silk blanket—one so soft in texture that it would not annoy even the hypersensitive princess of the fairy story. These blankets, which come in the shops at reasonable prices, are striped variously in pink and blue, violet and buff, blue and white. In making into a bathrobe the most practical model is in kimono lines. Large armholes are cut, into which square sleeves are inserted. The stripes must go across in order to give a good hang to the blanket. The edges are bound with China silk or pongee in the shade of the stripes.

RETURN OF THE HOOD.

A very smart French milliner, mindful of the fact that the gauge scarf had its day as a cloud for the protection of the coiffure in the evening, has again introduced the hood, and by making it of bewitching comeliness, has secured for it a great success. It is very large, reminiscent of the calash of olden days, with which it shares the cane framework that keeps it from falling in depressing folds about the head. A capuchin, made of the brightest rose, has a full "cap" of white chiffon edged with narrow valenciennes lace, and on high a mass of white poppies. A second, made of blue primitif taffetas is lined with white sarcenet, and has a ruffle in front of the same fabric, interspersed with the finest white rosebuds, a big bunch of which surrounds the summit of the capuchin.

DRUNK LAY IN PATH OF DEATH.

on one rail and his head leaning out across the other, as it rested on his arm. As far as could be learned, he did not move until the car hit him. One wheel passed over his chest, and the other across his ankles.

A short time before the accident happened, Mrs. Frank Bough, whose husband runs a saloon in the vicinity, saw the man stretched across the track and thought on the instant that he was a holdup man and became frightened. She hurried home and told the first man she met, G. E. Strobel, who just started to investigate when the car passed over his body. Mrs. Bough said that at the time she never thought of the car for a moment.

Conductor Tells His Story.

The story of the accident, as told by Motorman Law, is as follows:
"Conductor C. V. Roberts, Walter Rujick and myself were in charge of the car, and we were running at an easy gait along Eleventh avenue, at 7:40 o'clock. Just as we reached Madison street I noticed the form of a man lying on the track in front of us, at a distance of not more than thirty feet. Rujick, who was running the car at the time, saw him as soon as I did, and while I shut off the power Rujick set the brakes. I knew what the accident thought of was to yell at him."

"I saw at a glance that there was no chance of avoiding the accident and the thought of running over the man was sickening. We did everything in our power to save him, but it was useless. Had the man been standing up we surely would have been able to see him sooner. Another thing that made it difficult to distinguish objects in front of the car at that place was a strong street light which glared in front of us and made it difficult to see the tracks."

A Peculiar Coincidence.

"A peculiar coincidence in the affair was that I noticed the man standing on the corner of Broadway and Eleventh avenue about a half hour before the car hit him, and noted the fact to the student Rujick, that he was staggering back and forth. 'That is the kind of a man,' I said, 'that you want to look out for. They are liable to step in front of a car at any time and not know that it is approaching.' In a half hour after that time our car had killed that very man."

Up until this morning but little could be learned of Popich, aside from the fact that he had been employed as a laborer in the steel mills, and that he had recently quit his job or had been discharged. Those who saw him drinking at the bar say that he had at least twenty dollars in his possession, and he was spending the money as fast as he could drink up the liquor. The man resides in a boarding shack at Eleventh and Madison streets. Popich has a wife and family living in the old country.

NEWS FOR DYSPPEPTICS.

"Allow me to congratulate you on your discovery of Mi-o-na. I had several of the best doctors in the city, but none seemed to do me any good. I vomited frequently. I had this trouble four years. I took one box of Mi-o-na tablets, and now eat most anything without distress."—Mrs. Mary Becker, 1990 Bailey Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

"It would be dead if it wasn't for Mi-o-na. One year ago I weighed only 100 pounds; now my weight is 150 pounds. I eat everything I want—cabbage, ham, fried potatoes—everything doctor said not to eat or I would die."—Mrs. Carrie Vanaman, Bridgeton, N. J.

"I suffered with stomach trouble for 15 years; spent $300 for medicines, everything failed to do any good until I found Mi-o-na. That has cured me, and it will cure others that suffer."—L. R. Noker, Mountaintop, N. C.
Summers Pharmacy sells Mi-o-na tablets, the dyspepsia remedy that is making such surprising cures throughout America for 50 cents a box, and they guarantee them to cure acute and chronic indigestion, vomiting from any cause, and sea or car sickness.

ers of the state. He is interested in perhaps fifty-seven different kinds of corporations and is a politician of great ability. Fleming just now is for Edward G. Hoffman, of Fort Wayne, for senator and will be as long as Hoffman has any show, but if it comes to the point of having to be for Slack in order to lick Kern, Fleming will be found in the camp of the former state senator from Johnson and Shelby counties.

Shively is Fourth.
Fleming hates Kern because of an old state chairmanship row and he has no love for Targart. He is not overly friendly with Lamb and he has never manifested any undying affection for Benjamin F. Shively, the fourth member of the prominent quartet of big starters in the senatorial free-for-all. If Fleming has to choose between Kern, Lamb or Shively, he will turn them all down and pick up Slack. Hence a sympathetic bond is even now drawing the Fort Wayne brewer and the temperance democrat from Franklin together.

Want a Battle Royal.
Prediction is freely made that the next few weeks will find the democrats divided into big camps—headed
