LOOKING ON THE SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE

Prehistoric Baseball.

Prof. Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago has traced baseball to the mound builders.—Press Dispatch.

Who knows, perchance, but these fair delis
Were once the mound kids' training lots,
And echoed to their frenzied yells
And mighty swats.

Who knows, perchance, but here it was
That Casey at the Bat" was writ,
And some old fan dropped dead because Of Kelly's hit.

Who knows but yonder heaped up things
O'er which the long grass gently waves,
Instead of housing ancient kings
Are unpires' graves!
—Arthur Chapman in the Denver Republican.

Correct Speech.

Small Fred—Papa, are we going to have a grivlanized iron roof on our new house?
Papa—Grivlanized? You mean galvanized, don't you?
Small Fred—Yes; but teacher said we should say "girl" instead of "gal."—Chicago News.

Well Aimed.

The Lady—Tell me truly, count, do you think we American women are spoiled?
The Count—Ah! madam, eef you are spoiled now, eet must be zat you were very nice before.—Brooklyn Life.

Time and Money.

Prof. Stone—To the geologist a thousand years or so are not counted as any time at all.
Man in the Audience—Great Scott! And to think I made a temporary loan of two pounds to a man who holds such views.—Tit-Bits.

Inside Facts.

Captain of Limer—This dish is a secret of our chef.
Passenger (resignedly)—I cannot promise to keep his secret.—Judge.

Still Puzzled.

"Well, Pat, after a year at the automobile school, I suppose you understand everything."
"All but one thing, sir."
"What's that?"
"What makes the thing go without horses."—Life.

Quite Probable.

It is evident that the young man who writes the news items in the Willoby Times wishes always to be on the safe side and exercise due caution in his statements.
"When Mr. Lemuel Hawkins entered the bedroom on the ground floor of his farmhouse one day last week," wrote the careful news-gatherer, "he found that a cow, probably astray, had made her way there from the open door."—Youth's Companion.

Thank You and Good Bye.

"My dear friend, I beg you to lend me $50," wrote a needy man to an acquaintance, "and then forget me forever. I am not worthy to be remembered."—Philippines Gossip.

Overheard on South Field.

He—"They are going to toast the football players tomorrow."
She—"Oh, now I understand why they call it a gridiron."—Columbia Jester.

Divination Extraordinary.

Rustle Irishman—"Och, begorra, now, shure Ol'Ve been told that ye'll be tellin' of me fortune. Can ya now? Faith, but Ol' don't believe it!"
The veiled seer (mystically)—"Hush! Listen to me—you come from Ireland! Am I right?—Bystander.

Nearer His Size.

"Mama," said little Fred, "this cat-echism is awfully hard. Can't you get me a kittychism?"—Chicago News.

A Cul-de-Sac.

Curate (inquiring his way)—Can you tell me if this road goes past the "Dun Cow?"
Loafers—Can't say for certain, guv' nor. It goes to it allright but (confidentially) I've never got no further.—London Opinion.

Just Provocation.

Judge—Why did you strike this man?
Prisoner—What would you do, Judge, if you kept a grocery store and a man came in and asked if he could take a moving picture of your cheese?—Harper's Weekly.

Cutting Retort.

Young Mother—I'm sorry, Mr. Top-floor, if baby's crying annoyed you. He's been cutting his teeth.
Top-floor (a crusty bachelor)—That's it! The idea of letting a young child play with a knife.—Boston Transcript.

According to Contract.

House Owner—You failed to pay your rent last month. What are you going to do about it?
Tenant—Oh, I suppose I'll do as you said when I rented it.
House Owner—What did I say?
Tenant—You said I must pay in advance or not at all.—Chicago News.

Clear Instance.

Sapleigh—Queer fellows, these poets, there's the one for instance, who talks

WORLD'S TILLERS OF SOIL MEET IN ROME

Rome, Nov. 20.—Delegates representing forty-six nations in all parts of the world were assembled in the magnificent marble palace erected in the grounds of the historical Villa Borghese for the purpose, when King Victor Emanuel opened the first session of the International Institute of Agriculture today. The organization which owes its existence to the initiative and efforts of King Victor Emanuel, and has met with the warm support of nearly all civilized governments, has for its principal object the collection of complete and reliable information concerning the farm crops in all parts of the world. Its organization is not yet completed, but will be perfected during the session opened today. According to the program favored by a majority of the delegates a number of special departments or bureaus will be created, each to have charge of some particular branch of work, as the gathering of crop statistics, the collecting of information concerning the wages paid for farm work, new diseases of vegetation and effective remedies, agricultural co-operation, insurance and credit, simplification of weights and measures, etc.

The plan of forming this institute was suggested by King Victor Emanuel about three years ago and the Italian government entered upon negotiations with the governments of other countries with a view of obtaining their support of the movement in the form of binding conventions. At first his plan did not receive much encouragement in Germany, France and England, but the United States ratified such a treaty about two years ago and strongly agitated the matter with other governments. Since then there has been a complete change of sentiment in regard to this matter in Germany, France and England and these three countries are now among the most enthusiastic supporters of the International Institute of Agriculture and of its aims.

The king of Italy not only had a marble palace built for the exclusive use of the institute, but has also bestowed upon the institute estates which yield an annual income of from $60,000 to $100,000. The palace was first used in June of this year, when the permanent organization committee, consisting of representatives of the various countries supporting the institute plan, assembled there for a preliminary conference. Signor Faina, well-known launch the big new steel steamer H. B. Kennedy tomorrow. The Kennedy is being built for a Seattle steamship company and will be employed in the summer tourist travel between Puget Sound points. When complete she will be one of the finest and speediest boats ever constructed on this coast.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 20.—Boastful of the prowess of their college and attesting this spirit with cheers and class yells, several hundred graduates of Harvard flocked here today for the first annual convention of the New England Federation of Harvard clubs. At a banquet tonight President Eliot of Harvard and President Francis Brown of Brown university will be among the speakers. Tomorrow the entire crowd, with crimson flags flying, will journey to New Haven to witness the annual gridiron contest between Harvard and Yale.

throughout Europe as an agricultural expert, was chosen presiding officer. In that conference a program was formulated for the organization of the institute. This program was afterwards submitted by the delegates to their respective governments for approval. The delegates composing the institute will report to the institute at its present session and a complete plan of organization will be developed in accordance with the instructions of the delegates.

Primarily the institute will devote itself to the great task of obtaining accurate and reliable crop statistics. Its success in this field will mean an enormous saving to the world and the creation of a gigantic balance wheel for the markets of the world. To counteract the influences that now manipulate and falsify for individual gain information about crops, with the result of hundreds of millions of dollars loss annually to producers and consumers, will involve so much readjustment that no one can give an accurate estimate of the benefit in dollars and cents. It is also expected that the institute will become an efficient promoter of universal peace. Already it has brought forty-six nations into relations of comity without the slightest fiction, and its inherent principles, those of education and information, cannot fail to be a continuous and powerful influence for peace.

The list of the nations represented in the institute is as follows: Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, British Guiana, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, China, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Ecuador, Egypt, Ethiopia, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Guatemala, India, Italy, Japan, Luxembourg, Mexico, Montenegro, Mauritius, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Paraguay, Persia, Peru, Portugal, Roumania, Russia, Salvador, Serbia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Uruguay and the United States of America.

LABOR NEWS

At Bedford, Mass., three unions of carpenters and joiners have appointed a committee to examine applications for admission into their union. The applicant must demonstrate by working out fifteen or twenty problems with his tools and he is only received if his demonstration is satisfactory.

One of the courts in Michigan has decided that a foreign corporation which has failed to register with the secretary of state and pay a franchise fee, has no status in court to maintain a suit for injunction to prevent a union from interfering with its business. The case will probably be appealed.

Chinese butchers and meat market men of San Francisco, who some time ago made application to become affiliated with the international body of meat cutters and butchers, are disappointed with the action of the international body, which turned their petition down at one of its recent meetings, without giving any reason.
