The entertainment last evening was the annual harvest party and was one of the prettiest affairs of the fall season. The hall was very appropriately and artistically decorated for the occasion with corn stalks, pumpkins and fall vegetables and was characteristic of the Thanksgiving season. In the front of the hall was the K. of C. emblem hung in corn. The guests arrived early in the evening and spent the time with cards. The guests were seated at tables which were placed in three rows. Four prizes were awarded in each row and the prizes were selected appropriate for a harvest party. Five games of pedro were played after which the prizes were awarded and the remainder of the evening spent in dancing and music. The Misses Mayne and Thillie Busch played the opening piano selections after which the Misses Anna and Genevieve Hastings and Marie Raben played several numbers for dancing. The Misses Stommel of Dyer, Julia Reilly, Messrs. Harry Wells and John Kennedy gave a few vocal numbers, which added to the attractiveness of the evening's musical program. A special matinee will be given tomorrow afternoon, when the play, "Her Husband's Sin," which scored a success last night, will be repeated. The two Thanksgiving day performances will doubtless crowd the theater afternoon and night, "Carmen" being underlined for the matinee.

The English III class went to the city last night and saw Mantell in "Macbeth." The class just studied the play.

Several of the classes are requested to remain in the room. The unfortunate ones know what that means, for a little bird tells them an "exam" is coming.

Professor Allee had charge of opening exercises yesterday morning. He explained the facts of the Rensselaer game, but said he had no excuses to offer for Hammond being defeated. He then applied this to the life after one leaves school and said that if you play the game don't flinch, but hit the line hard success will be yours.

The next thing on the program is basketball. The seats have all been arranged in the auditorium so practice can be started at once. Some of the grade boys are practicing now.

The high school team will not play Elkhart on Thanksgiving Day. The necessary arrangements could not be made, so this ended the project.

For the debate today the "O. G. Debating society" will debate whether or not the government should own the railroads.
