

A DAY IN GARY LAND

TOWN BOARD WILL RECEIVE BOND BIDS.

Notices Have Been Sent Out to Various Companies to Bid on Bonds for Fire and Police Station.

Mayor Knotts and the Gary town board yesterday declared the bond issue for the construction of the new fire and police station to be built next spring in Gary. Notices have been sent out to a number of well-known contractors and their bids will be accepted and acted upon at a special meeting of the board next Tuesday afternoon. Should the bids come within the limit set by the town board, it is likely that the Gary fire and police departments will be installed in their new home within six or seven months—contingent upon the weather conditions during the winter months.

GEM THEATER OPENS TOMORROW IN GARY.

New Play House Can Seat 250 Persons—Promises to Be Popular.

The new Gem theater of Gary will be opened tomorrow afternoon with an excellent moving picture and vaudeville bill. The theater promises to be one of the best regulated in Gary and is located on Broadway, between Seventh and Eighth avenues. The theater was to have been opened several days ago but was delayed on account of the failure of a Chicago furniture firm to properly ship the necessary chairs. The building has been splendidly decorated and will be an attractive place for the entertainment of its 250 possible patrons. Admission has been placed at ten cents for adults and five cents for children.

J. J. McORMICK BUYS GARY GRAIN COMPANY.

Mr. Corduff, the Former Owner, Has Not Decided What He Will Do.

Yesterday afternoon a deal was consummated wherein the Gary Grain company, of which William Corduff is the owner, was sold to John J. McCormick. The Gary Grain company is located at 107 Seventh avenue and has been in business in Gary a little over a year. It has built up a large business. Mr. McCormick, the new owner, took possession of the business today and will continue in the grain business, carrying a full supply of hay, grain and feed.

Mr. Corduff has not as yet decided as to what business he will engage in in the future.

ONE ON THE SIDE.

It had been a long day for her. And to think that she had been married over four months. "My, how time does fly," said she, "and we have been so happy, too. I can hardly realize it."

It was now nearly 5 o'clock and she knew she would soon hear her familiar footsteps on the porch. The little Jefferson street house was spick and span, and as she entered the kitchen the kettles on the range were merrily bubbling.

And on the kitchen table, daintily placed on a glass stand, was a white frosted cake. It had been her first attempt since she graduated from the cooking class some months before in the city.

"Won't he be pleased," said she. "He just dearly loves cake." Just then there was a clinking of a key in the door and she ran to the hallway.

"It's been such a long day for me, dear," said she, kissing him, "and I am so glad you are home. Supper is all ready and I have such a surprise for you."

The dinner was soon on the table and eaten and then came the surprise.

"This is my first cake, dearest, and I made it just for you. I know you will like it."

The frosted layers, indeed, look inviting as she placed it in front of him. He munched away in silence, and she waited in expectancy for some word of approval.

"What kind of cake do you call this?" gasped the young husband, "rubbing his aching jaw."

"Why, dearest, that is pyramid cake," responded the young woman, proudly.

"Pyramid cake, eh? By Jinks, I might have known it."

"Ah, you notice its resemblance to a pyramid?"

"I should say I do. Its heavy enough to be made of a stone."

And then her young heart was broken, and he had a hard time trying to convince her it was the most dainty morsel he had ever put in his mouth.

Health Officer Templin is again after the unsanitary bakeries in Gary and will leave no stone unturned until they comply with the law.

The only thing that was damaged in the overturning of the bakery wagon yesterday morning was that one of the biscuits were badly bent.

We might advise as a Christmas present for almost everybody would be a hand-painted picture of eggs, mission style.

There are plenty of people in Gary who would be glad to buy their presents earlier if they only had the money.

We suppose you already have your ticket for the First ward ball in Chicago next Monday night.

All indications point to the fact today that firemen can move the new station tomorrow morning.

Even if you have done your Christmas presents there is no reason for you wearing that angelic expression in your face.

There is no especial reason for you to feel down-hearted. The new Gary Casino will be open again in the course of sixty days.

Gary merchants are getting to be the best natured men in town.

Being as how there was nobody else around at that time of the night Officer Gus Newman took the chemical wagon to Tolleston early yesterday morning.

Have you had to pay your little $2 yet.

Temperature of Ice.

Ice does not retain a fixed temperature below the freezing point. It cannot be heated above the freezing point under ordinary circumstances. Like any other solid, ice is cooled in the winter to the temperature of the air, be it zero or below, and becomes warmer as the temperature rises till its melting point is reached. Then it cannot be warmer. It changes its condition to the liquid form.

AUG. ZAHROZO MAKES A STARTLING FIND

Discovers a Coat and Note on Pier—Scents Suicide.

THEN HE MEETS A LIVE ONE

Hardly Trusts His Eyes When Supposed Victim Demands His Belongings.

(Special to The Times)

Indiana Harbor, Ind., Dec. 11.—A man, and a letter written in Swedish figured in what might have been a tragedy yesterday morning. The man was Alfred Nilsson of Gary, a laborer working for the Inland Steel company, and the other features in the near-tragedy belonged to Nilsson. Fortunately, the affair, while amusing, was not serious and Nilsson is still working for the Inland instead of lying in a watery grave.

Yesterday morning August Zahrdzo of Deodar street decided to walk out on one of the piers reaching into the lake. That his purpose in doing so was ascertained. Zahrdzo declaring that he merely wanted to try his nerve walking on the narrow piling. On reaching the end of the pier he was astonished to find a water-soaked coat, and on top of this a short note, written in a foreign language. The adventurous Lithuanian immediately brought into his imagination a suicide, who, after leaving a note giving reasons for his refusal of the world's offers, ended his life by jumping into Lake Michigan. Hastily picking up the coat, he started towards shore, intending to communicate his discovery to the police department.

While walking down the Lake Shore tracks toward Indiana Harbor he passed Nilsson, who scrutinized the coat closely. A glance was sufficient to identify it as his own, and he immediately laid claim to it. Zahrdzo was astonished, and maintained that his owner must have jumped into the lake, at the same time bringing forth the letter. On seeing the missive Nilsson broke into a laugh and explained to the foreigner that the letter was from his mother, in Sweden, and was not the last message of admonition of a suicide.

Zahrdzo finally relinquished his possession of the articles and returned home somewhat crest-fallen. Nilsson says that he had gone out on the pier wearing two heavy coats to protect him from the spray. He was engaged in attaching an iron rod to one side of the pier, to be used by small boats as a tying rod and had about half completed his work when some one halted him from shore. Nilsson took off the outer coat, now thoroughly soaked and went into the company's yards for about half an hour, and it was during this time that Zahrdzo made his important (?) discovery. When seen by a Times reporter yesterday, Nilsson declared that he was "very much alive" and had no thoughts of drowning, especially not at this time of the year.

EMPLOYEE IS INJURED IN AMERICAN STEEL FOUNDRY.

John Awws of Indiana Harbor Is Victim of An Accident When Struck By Heavy Missile.

Indiana Harbor, Ind., Dec. 11.—(Special)—As the result of injuries sustained at the American Steel Foundries' plant last evening, John Awws, a moulder in the employ of the company, is confined at St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond, suffering from crushing injuries to his lower limbs.

The accident was caused by the falling of one end of a heavy box being conveyed across the plant by an overhead crane. The bottom was hinged and in some manner became loosened, striking Awws on the shoulder as it fell. In dodging its weight, Awws was thrown against some steel castings, which in turn injured his lower limbs.

Dr. George Ott was called and rendered medical attention, ordering the man taken to St. Margaret's hospital, in Hammond, where he is reported to have rested fairly well during the night. Awws is a married man, about thirty years of age, and lives with his family on Elm street.

Nervous Headache

"I know from experience that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve severe cases of headache quickly." MRS. GEO. S. HENRY, Sullivan, Wash.

In many persons the least excitement, exertion or irritation causes headache. They cannot attend church, theatre, places of amusement, travel, or mingle in a crowd without suffering an attack of headache. The nerves of the brain are easily excited, and this irritable condition causes pain. Such persons should take

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills before starting out, or on the first indication of an attack. They invariably relieve all such misery. The first package will benefit; if not, your druggist will return your money.
