LAPORTE MAYOR WINS POINT.

Appellate Court Refuses Rehearing of Disbarment Case in Which It Reversed Verdict of Guilty.

LaPorte, Ind., Dec. 12.—The Indiana appellate court yesterday denied a rehearing in the disbarment proceedings against Mayor Lemuel Darrow of LaPorte and Attorney John W. Talbot of South Bend.

In December, 1904, two women of Chicago were arrested for stealing valuable furs. A witness for the defense later confessed to perjury, implicating Darrow and Talbot. The bar association demanded an investigation, as the result of which a committee composed of Attorneys F. E. Osborne, J. E. Callahan, and W. A. McVey was instructed to commence disbarment proceedings. Darrow and Talbot were found guilty. They appealed and the appellate court reversed the judgment. The committee asked a rehearing, which is now denied.

HEARD BY RUBE.

Chief of Police Martin believes in having things comfortable at the police station this winter, and has actually had a row of seats placed around the west and south end of the courtroom. The seating capacity of the station is now twelve large and eighteen small.

If it tries hard during the day, maybe we will get a good snow by Sunday school time tomorrow. Breathes there a girl in Gary today, with hair that's slowly turning gray, who in the mirror scans her head and ne'er unto herself has said, as she lets out a soulful sigh, "I really think I ought to dye."

Many people in Gary would be glad of a Christmas present of a half case of eggs. We mean the kind that don't look up at you with a sickly grin when you are trying to enjoy your breakfast.

Question—Does the Christmas present problem give you a pain? Answer—No, but the money problem to get the Christmas presents does.

The ladies at the church bazaar have become such accomplished salesladies that they might get a position in some of the department stores during the rush.

It will be well for you to keep your roller skates well oiled. Only sixty days more and you will be able to skate again.

Only 13 more days until Christmas. Only 19 more days for the Chicago, Lake Shore & South Bend. If they fail to reach Tolleston by the end of that time they won't have any Christmas this year.

Now that the harness for the fire wagon has arrived, if the occasion demands it, why not hitch up several of the loggers in the fall and make them work out their fines.

Well, the Gary high school basketball teams have one consolation in the fact that they were beaten by—good teams.

GARY BRIEFS.

The Knights of Pythias met for their regular meeting on Wednesday night, but nothing of importance being transacted. The regular annual election of officers, which was to have taken place, was postponed until the next meeting on account of the small attendance.

It is understood that shortly after the first of the year an effort will be made to organize a Masonic lodge in Gary. It is not known just how soon this will take place, but it is expected that there will be about 200 Masons who are ready to join as soon as the organization is perfected.

The next regular meeting of the Modern Woodmen of Gary will take place next Saturday night at the I. O. O. F. hall. Each neighbor is requested to be present, as the annual election of officers will take place and other important business is to come up before the meeting.

Shoe Sale on now. See the R. & S. Co.

The Helm encampment, I. O. O. F., of Gary expect to have a big time at the Odd Fellows' hall next Saturday night. At that time fifteen new members will be initiated into the patriarchal degree. The Mount Pisga encampment of Valparaiso will have charge of the work, and it is expected that the Wheeler encampment will attend the meeting in a body. An invitation has been extended to the Odd Fellows in Hammond, Whiting, and Indiana Harbor to be present at the meeting. The session will last from 7:30 until 12 p. m. and there will be a luncheon served in the Odd Fellows' hall afterwards. It is expected that there will be in the neighborhood of seventy-five members present from outside lodges at the meeting.

The Knights of Columbus will hold their next meeting at the Gary hotel on Monday, Dec. 21, when the annual election of officers will take place.

Raymond Cleveland, who has been public stenographer at the Gary hotel for the past three weeks, has moved his office to the Hodges and Ridgely building, where he will be associated with the latter law firm, as well as continuing in his public stenographer's work. Mr. Cleveland moved from the hotel Thursday afternoon.

C. E. Bowers of the Simplex Railway Appliance company of Hammond was in Gary yesterday for a few minutes on his way to Mineral Springs, Ind., where he owns a farm. Mr. Bowers expected to be gone a few days.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

GARY CHURCH NEWS.

On next Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Ross, 610 Jefferson street, a public reception will be given in honor of the first anniversary of the opening of Christ's Episcopal church chapel of Gary. On Tuesday, the 15th of December, it will be a year since the formal opening of the church, which since that time has steadily grown under the guiding hand of Rev. Applegate, the present pastor. The public are cordially invited to attend the reception, which will be in the nature of a musicale, after which light refreshments will be served.

The bazaar given by the ladies of the Congregational church in the basement of the Hall building closed last night. Nearly all of the goods on display at the bazaar were auctioned off last evening. A large sum has been realized for the benefit of the new church building through the efforts of all members of the congregation, especially the ladies.

After Monday Dec. 14th Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Sullens will move from the Giesel building on Broadway and will make their future home at 708 Jefferson street.

From now on the members of the German Methodist congregation will hold their services in the Hodges and Ridgely hall on Broadway. Rev. F. M. Ruff, the former pastor of the church, has been called to Hammond and his work will be taken up by Rev. C. E. Dessemeler.

The rummage sale given by the ladies of the Episcopal church in the Palm building on Broadway will close tonight. The sale has, indeed, been very successful and the ladies have realized a neat sum, which will go to the church fund benefit.

Greek Mythology.

In Greek mythology, Narcissus is a beautiful youth, a son of Cepheissus, and the nymph Liriope metamorphosed into a flower. For his insensibility to love he was caused, by Nemesis, to fall in love with his own image reflected in the water. Unable to grasp the shadow, he pined away and became the flower which bears his name. The nymph Echo, who vainly loved him, died of grief.

Here Is the "Knight of White Death."

William J. Pollard.

William J. Pollard, a butcher of Evanston, Ill., last night confessed the authorship of the mysterious "Knights of the White Death" letters which have been received by five prominent Chicagoans at intervals during the last four months.

The confession was obtained by Chief Postoffice Inspector James E. Stuart, who made the arrest with the aid of the Evanston police after two weeks of personal work on the case.

Pollard said he got human bones and coffin handles and other trimmings from old graves at Calvary cemetery, where his father was sexton for twenty years. These he attached to the letters, which in each case demanded large sums of money on pain of death. He alone, he declared, was the "The Knights of the White Death." He never had breathed a word of his plot to a living soul.

THE SCRAP BOOK

Boysen's Story of His Boy.

The late Hjalmar Hjorth Boysen once told this story of his little son, Hjalmar H. Boysen second: The boy had been taken over Brooklyn bridge for the first time and had pined his father with questions about the big structure all the way over, all the way back and all the way home. Upon their return the professor, worn out with the fusillade to which he had been subjected, retired to his study, but just as he sank into his easy chair his son appeared and, apropos of nothing, queried, "Say, papa, didn't you say that God lived up above the clouds?" The father wearily answered, "Why yes, I guess so." "Well, papa, if we were up above the clouds we'd come through, wouldn't we?" The man vouchsafed a brief, "I suppose so." "Well, papa, why?" At that point the professor's patience gave out and he said: "There, son, don't ask it. Go to your mother." The child retreated, but just as he lifted his hand to the doorknob he turned and said, "Say, papa, don't you know a great deal more about the Brooklyn bridge than you do about God?"

Her Introduction.

Clatterbuck, the historian, tells the following anecdote of his uncle, who was a physician. One of his patients, a nervous old lady, took it into her head to try the Bath waters. "The very thing," said the doctor, "and I know an excellent physician there, to whom I will give you a letter of introduction." On the way this patient was overcome with curiosity. "The doctor has treated me for a long time," she said to her friend, "but he has never told me just what my case is. I have a mind to look in this letter and see if he describes it there." Opening the epistle, she read: "Dear Sir—Keep the old woman three weeks and send her back."

People To Be Pitied.

Pitiful is the case of the blind, who cannot read the face; pitiful the case of the deaf, who cannot follow the changes of the voice. And there are others also to be pitied, for there are some of an inert and inelegant nature who have been denied all the symbols of communication, who have neither a lively play of facial expression nor speaking gestures nor a responsive voice nor yet the gift of frank, explanatory speech—people truly made of clay, people tied for life into a bag which no one can undo. They are poorer than the gypsy, for their heart can speak no language under heaven—Stevenson.

It Worked Both Ways.

Two young merchants, John Bruce and Clint Pease, who occupied adjoining stores in a small town, were intimate friends. When business was dull they visited back and forth from one store to the other. Each was fond of a joke.

One cold, blustery day, when customers were few, Clint sat behind the stove in John's store. A young woman, a stranger, came in, and John stepped forward to wait on her.

"I am soliciting subscriptions for the fresh air fund," said she.

Now, solicitors for one charity or another were numerous, and the merchants usually tried to evade their claims, since it was poor policy to refuse to contribute. So John was greatly pleased with himself when a happy way out of his present difficulty suggested itself to his quick mind.

"You'd better speak to the proprietor about it," he said politely. "You will find him a very liberal man. He is back there by the stove."

John grinned as the young woman approached Clint and restated her case. "How much are the merchants generally giving?" Clint asked, with grave interest in the cause.

"Some are giving as much as a dollar," she answered, "but we are grateful for any sum, however small."

"John," said Clint, with an air of authority, "give the young lady $2 out of the drawer." And John, of course, had to obey.

Realism.

A commission was intrusted to a painter in an Italian town to paint the image of a saint on the refectory wall of the convent there.

The price stipulated was very low, but it was agreed that the painter should have his meals provided at the expense of the convent until the work should be finished. But the only food supplied to the poor artist was bread, onions and water.

The day for unveiling the fresco arrived. The friars stood around the artist, and the curtain was removed. It was no doubt an excellent piece of work, but the saint had his back turned toward the spectators.

"What does this mean?" indignantly demanded the prior.

"Padre," explained the artist, "I was compelled to paint the picture as you see it, for the saint could not bear the smell of onions!"—Harper's Weekly.

Cheate's Ready Retort.

George Ticknor, the historian of Spanish literature, was once called as a witness in a case in which Rufus Choate was engaged and, being seated by the eminent counselor, was attracted by the notes which he had made of the evidence. After eying them with interest he remarked that the writing reminded him of two autograph letters in his possession—one of Manuel de Gato of Portugal, dated 1512, and the other of Gonsalvo de Cordova, the great captain, written a few years earlier. (Any one who has glanced over these remarkable specimens of chirography will marvel that it was possible to make out a syllable of such illegible scrawls.)

"These letters," Mr. Ticknor assured Mr. Choate, "were written 350 years ago, and they strongly resemble your notes of the present trial."

Choate instantly replied: "Remarkable men, no doubt. They seem to have been much in advance of their time."

No Hurry.

The minister of a certain parish in Scotland was walking one misty night through a street in the village when he fell into a deep hole. There was no ladder by which he could make his escape, and he began to shout for help.

A laborer passing heard his cries and, looking down, asked who he was. The minister told him, whereupon the laborer remarked: "Weel, weel, ye needna kick up sic a noise. Ye'll no be heere afore Sawbath, an' this is only Wednesday night."
