MR. LYONS IS SATISFIED WITH IT

Says He Pulled in His Net and Found it Filled With Dog Fish.

ABOUT THAT WATER HAUL

Intimates That His Trip to the East Will Physio Politics In Lake County.

"I venture to say that from 64 to 65 per cent of the naturalization papers which were issued in Hammond were secured either by fraud or error," said Peter J. Lyons this morning to a TIMES reporter, in discussing the Simon-Wickey contest for the seat in the legislature.

Mr. Lyons has been largely instrumental in securing much of the data and information regarding the alleged discrepancies in the last election in which the foreigners cut such a big figure. He bases his statement on a certified report from the immigration bureau at New York and Baltimore, and the fact that his report is certified is thought to have considerable weight when, especially, when the contest is taken into the legislature.

The contest has gained state-wide discussion it will form the basis for the contests for some of the state offices which are still pending.

As to that "water haul."

Mr. Lyons is still trying to figure out why he should have been accused of having made a "water haul" in a dispatch from Indianapolis to THE TIMES. The genial city engineer, who easily passes in other cities as an attorney, feels that he went out to get the "goods" and that he delivered them. He says that at no time did he make the "water haul," but that he pulled in his net and found it filled with dog fish. Those who argued with him, however, on the alleged "water haul" said that up to the time that he received the certified papers from the New York bureau it looked like a "water haul" and that at the time the designation of his efforts were timely.

While that question remains one for argument, Mr. Lyons denies that at any time was he without a list of "doubtfuls" that he had a number of lists both with him and at home.

Mr. Lyons is back in the harness at his office in the city hall and enjoyed his trip to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York immensely. He says it was good for his health and is incidentally hoping that it will physio politics in Lake county generally. When asked how his "water haul" happened in New York when he had no trouble in Baltimore, he winked the off eye again and said: "There was no 'water haul' remember that, but if you want to know why the New York papers had no go to Washington and those of Baltimore came to me, I would enlighten you with the fact that the Baltimore office had no chief clerk from the Tenth Indiana district, while the New York office has in the person of Byron Uhl of Monticello."

STAND ON THE QUESTION DOUBTFUL.

they stand on the question of whether or not it will be wise to contest the seat of Edward S. Wickey, the republican who was elected representative from Lake county. This is the case wherein it is charged that Wickey was elected over Edward Simon, democrat, by the fraudulent votes of foreigners who were naturalized in Lake county a few days before the election when they are alleged to have been ineligible to naturalization.

Can't Figure It Out. Since the republican senators announced after their conference in this city last Thursday that they will follow the "eye for an eye and tooth for a tooth" policy in dealing with the democrats of the house on the matter of contests, the democrats have hardly been able to figure out just what they had better do about it. They have every reason to believe that the republicans mean what they said in reference to this matter and that they are not bluffing. Some of the influential democrats are pointing out to their fellows that if Wickey is unseated and Simon given the seat in the house as representative from Lake county the republicans of the senate will have the power to unseat as many democratic senators as they pleased and fill their places with republicans, and this is what they fear will be done if the Simon case is pushed to the end.

Can't Land Offices Then.

On the other hand the democrats know that if they do not push the Simon case and fail to show up fraud in the Lake county election there will be no hope of their success in contesting the offices of secretary of state, auditor of state, treasurer of state, attorney general and reporter of the supreme court, for which elaborate preparations are being made. They know that if they are able to show that a thousand or more foreigners were naturalized illegally in Lake county and that they had no right to vote away from the republicans, and this is a bait that appeals to the hungry democrats as a bright lightning mine now appears to a hungry black bass. So they hardly know just what to do.

The democrats are somewhat at a disadvantage in this matter. Even if they seat Simon in the house in place of Wickey they will not strengthen their position as far as party strength is concerned. They already have a big majority in the house and also a big majority on joint ballot. So Simon's vote is not needed for any party purpose. The democrats can elect their United States senator without the aid of Simon's vote and they can do anything in the house without him that they can do with him present and voting. And yet they feel that they must show fraud in the election on account of the contests for state offices.

What It Would Mean.

On the other hand the republicans would gain through an application of the "eye for an eye and tooth for a tooth" policy. If they unseat the three senators from Marion county, which they would probably do if they started anything at all, they would gain three senators who would be hold-overs. These three republican senators would serve not only at this session but also at the session two years hence when a successor to Senator Beveridge is to be elected. And a gain of three votes for this purpose would not be bad at all. There is no telling what the political complexion of the 1911 legislature will be and it might come in very handy to have an additional three republican senators to vote for the reelection of Senator Beveridge.

Soon after the election the three defeated republican candidates for senator in Marion county filed contests in the superior court here and these contests are still pending. So it would be easy enough for the republicans in the senate to give them their seats on the ground that they were defeated through fraud.

BIG THEATRICAL EVENT

Coming of "Cora" Hailed Glad Acclaim by the Playgoers.

The coming of Bertha Kallach to Hammond Monday, Dec. 28, will be one of the biggest theatrical events of the year. The fact that the theater-goers of this city are to be treated to a high class comedy drama and that one of the recognized stars of the theatrical world will be here will make it one of the events of the holiday social season.

That Hammond was fortunate in being able to secure Miss Kallach in the comedy "Cora" is shown by the fact that she will appear in only two other Indiana cities—Logansport and Michigan City.

Miss Kallach is one of the independent stars on the American stage today. She is not affiliated with Klaw & Edgerly or any of the other large producers and that was one reason why it was possible to secure her appearance in Hammond.

WAS PACKED TO ROOF

Towle Opera House Patrons Enjoy Top o' the World Music.

Towle's Opera House was packed to the roof with one of the record-breaking crowds of the season last evening on the occasion of the production of "The Top o' the World."

The show made a great hit with the people of this locality and the audience was kept in a roar of laughter all of the time by the antics of Bally and Austin, the comedians.

"The Top o' the World" is something new in comic operas in that the play-right got away from the jungle setting which seemed, heretofore, to be one of the indispensable features of all comic operas.

The scene was in the Arctic and as a spectacle the show came up to every one's expectations. The chorus was fair, but there are no real song hits in the play and consequently the musical feature was not the best one.

The polar bear and Bally and Austin, however, proved to be a show in themselves, and the entertainment was enjoyed by all who attended.

DECEMBER EDITION IS OUT TODAY

Calumet Region Monthly Railway Guide Put in Circulation.

December number of the Calumet Region Monthly Railway guide was off THE TIMES this morning Saturday and will be distributed all over the Calumet region today. The edition is of 9,000, as usual, and there will be plenty to go around.

The new guide has all of the features of the first issue and in addition has the schedules of the Chicago, Lake Shore & South Bend railroad and the time of leaving of every car at all of the terminal points of the Hammond, Whiting and East Chicago line.

A Whiting condensed time table, showing the time of all the trains, in the order of their leaving, from Chicago and Whiting just as has been done in the case of the Hammond, Indiana Harbor and Gary, is one of the new features of this month's issue.

The demand for the new time tables has been very great. People from all over the region have written to R. E. Woods, the publisher, asking where the tables could be secured and how soon the next edition would be out.

Pleasant Railroad Men.

The most gratifying thing about the whole enterprise is the universal commendation for the new time table that has been received from the agents of the various railroads in the region.

They have found that it fills the local needs of their own patrons perfectly, is much smaller and more simple than their regular time tables, and above all contains the time tables of all of the other roads in the region.

There is not a railroad agent in the locality who is not heartily co-operating with the publisher to make the Calumet Region Monthly Railway Guide the most accurate and authoritative book of information about local railroads that has ever been printed. The time tables may be had free of charge at all of the railway stations in the region and other centrally located places.
