

TO EXTEND BROADWAY SOUTHWARD

Petition Is Regularly Signed Asking for a Direct Extension to Merrillville; Cuts Out an Inconvenient Jog One Mile to the West.

BOOSTERS FORESEE GARY'S FUTURE GROWTH

Highway Will Put Steel City and Crown Point on a Straight Road—Gifford Railroad People Are Said to Be Looking For This Roadbed on Which to Lay Their Tracks.

The petition to be presented to the county commissioners by T. W. Englehart and others for the extension of Broadway from Glenn Park, where it now stops, to Merrillville, has now been signed by a sufficient number of property owners, so that the road will be made a public highway at the next meeting of the county commissioners.

without a doubt, and the road will be constructed in the spring.

The construction of this link in the long roadway cuts out an unnecessary and very inconvenient jog of a mile westward. It gives Gary a more direct route to the county seat and also gives the farmers in this vicinity better access to the city. The cost of the road will be inconsiderable in comparison to the saving of time.

It is also believed probable that some day this will also be a part of Gary proper and nothing should be overlooked in making the main street, Broadway, one continuous highway so that when the time comes it can be converted into a street at any length. It has also been rumored that the Gifford lines, which are extending their road into Gary, has made their survey along this proposed extension to Broadway, and unless the property owners take action at once the beautiful street will be permanently broken. This action of the Gifford line engineers is what caused such prompt action of the south end property owners. T. W. Englehart, John Sears and Attorney W. M. Dunn were in Merrillville yesterday, where they were busy procuring the last of the signers for the petition.

HIS LETTER MAKES STIR

Norman Cole's indiscretion in sending cards to Gary friends from his former in Dillonville, O., saying that he had been married to Miss Mary Walker of that town while on his Christmas vacation has caused the girl's father, J. H. Walker, who is in Gary looking after real estate, considerable worry until he heard a denial of the report from the young man. Norman Cole, who is only 19 years old, himself gave out the impression that he had eloped with Mr. Walker's 15-year-old daughter. The young man will have to make considerable explanations when he returns to Gary this week.

WILL OPEN NEW BRANCH Armour & Co. Will Enter Gary Business Circles Next Week.

Armour & Co. will make their little bow to the people of Gary next Monday, on the occasion of the opening of the new branch which will be located on Broadway, at the intersection of the Wabash railroad tracks, and cost in the neighborhood of $45,000.

The Gary branch of the Armour company is one of the most complete in the country. Invitations have been issued to the Gary business men and especially to the meat dealers, requesting them to come to the new building on Monday and make an inspection of it.

W. A. Miller, the manager of the new branch, and C. W. Roth, the district superintendent of the company, will be on hand to welcome the guests. Refreshments will be served all day long and there will be souvenirs given away to all who visit the new building.

The branch is to supply the city of Gary, the towns of Miller, Tollestson, Aetna, and East Gary. The building contains a modern refrigerator which has a capacity of 150 tons of ice. It has a capacity of fifty beefs, fifty calves, fifty sheep, fifty pigs and there is ample room for the great variety of provisions which the company keeps on hand for the Gary meat dealers.

The stables are also in connection with the main building and will be perfectly equipped. Two wagons and two teams of horses were sent out from Chicago yesterday and will be ready for the opening of business on Monday.

WAS HIS OWN DOCTOR

Result Was That Gary Man Became Deathly Sick From Own Medicine.

A man named Fife, who was recently taken to the Mercy hospital at Gary from a saloon in the south end of the city and who was supposed to be suffering from what those in attendance said was alcoholism, has another version of the story, now that his condition is improved enough so that he can talk readily. Mr. Fife says that his condition was due to the fact that he suffered from the "grippe" and in order to cure it he took it upon himself to prescribe his own cure. The cure which he selected was whiskey and, not having touched a drop in some time, the whiskey, together with his weakened condition, made him deathly sick. The physician in attendance says that he will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

DENOUNCE EVIDENCE DO THE LEADERS

Gary Republicans Confer With Attorney Cromer in Election Contest.

Gary republican poll officials in the recent election held a meeting at the Gary hotel yesterday evening and there rehearsed the testimony that had been presented from Gary people at Crown Point in the Simon-Wickey contest. It was an indignation meeting at which the methods of the democrats in creating evidence was denounced.

Attorney Cromer, who represents the republicans in the contest, was present at the meeting in order to get the true facts in the case. Mr. Cromer, after hearing their side of the situation, as it existed, felt warranted in asking that the officials be summoned to give testimony at the contest.

BOARD HOLDS SHORT SESSION.

The board of public works held a short meeting this morning, with exception of allowing the regular weekly grist of bills and instructing the city clerk to advise the Nickel Plate Railroad company to place a light at the crossing of Charlotte avenue, there was no other business transacted.

WIND UP BUSINESS.

(Special to The Times.)
Crown Point, Ind., Dec. 30.—The members of the county council and the county commissioners met in the county auditor's office in the courthouse, at Crown Point, today and wound up the affairs of their respective offices for the year of 1908.

There were certain appropriations which had to be made to make up deficiencies which have arisen and other work of a routine nature which it was necessary to get out of the way before the close of the year.

perintendents said in his speech that he favored the re-establishment of some of the district schools in the country.

The eight members of the Indiana delegation in congress who are planning to return to Indiana. Men who lose out in public life are often tempted to settle down at the national capital, but no such temptation seems to have taken hold of the Hoosiers this year. Senator Hemmway has made no definite plans, except that he will return to Boonville to live. Representative John H. Foster will return to Evansville and resume the practice of law. Representative John Chaney will resume the practice of law in his home town of Sullivan. Representative Hamilton will return to Brazil and re-enter the practice of law, and Representative James E. Watson intends to go back to Rushville and take up his law practice. Representative Overstreet intends to return to Indianapolis soon after March 4. Representative Charles B. Landis is not a lawyer, and he does not propose to open a law office after the 4th of March. Mr. Landis was formerly a newspaper man, and still retains a half interest in the Delphi Journal, the republican paper of his home county. He also has won success as a public lecturer and makes money at the business. He also owns one of the best farms in Carroll county, so he will not starve after he leaves office. Representative Gilhams lives at LaGrange county and has always been a business man. He was auditor of LaGrange county a few years ago. He has not made any plans for the future, but will return to his home town.

DEDICATE INDIANA MONUMENTS

Vicksburg, Miss., Dec. 29.—Although the morning was cloudy and threatening, the Indiana dedication party proceeded to the National park today, where the dedication of the Indiana monument and markers was carried out. Governor Hanly, in an appropriate address, transferred the monuments to the United States as represented by Captain W. T. Rigby, chairman of the national committee.

Captain Rigby accepted the monuments in a brief address. Governor Noel of Mississippi then spoke briefly.

The same evening he was sitting in his club looking over a paper when who should saunter in but Lester Sheldon.

"Hello, admiral," he said cheerily. "I'm going for you tonight. I'll take all you won from me last night and more too."

The admiral looked at him, astonished.

"What's the matter?" asked Sheldon, not understanding the surprise. "Don't you want to give me my revenge?"

"What's the matter? Didn't your sister this morning take up the notes I won from you with her check?"

"My sister?"

"Yes, your sister."

"I haven't any sister."

The admiral glared for a moment, then made a dive for his pocketbook, took out the check, unfolded it and handed it to Sheldon.

"Admiral," said the latter, "you've been bunked."

"Bunked! I bunked by a woman! I never trusted a woman in my life—that is, before."

"You mean you never trusted a good one. Your only case of confidence was in a bad one."

Sheldon had talked in his cups of his loss in a promiscuous crowd.

SULLIVAN KING.

SAW VESUVIUS BUT NOT OLD MT. AETNA.

When question as to his numerous visits to Italy, Mr. F. S. Betz of this city said that he had never been nearer than 200 miles from the scene of the volcanic and seismic disturbance in southern Italy.

However, when F. S. Betz, A. M. Turner and W. H. Gostlin visited Italy a year and a half ago they both saw Vesuvius, which is a twin sister to Mount Aetna, and have an idea of what a real live volcano is.

They are all glad they are living on the prairies of Indiana, where the nearest approach to a volcano is a sand dune or the belchings of smoke from the fant of the Standard Oil company at Whiting.

HIS CONFIDENCE CAME LATE.

(Original.)
Rear Admiral Ralph Donahue, U. S. N., retired, sixty-three years old, married, bachelor, woman hater and various other titles, sat at his breakfast in the Army and Navy club. He was thinking of a large sum of money he had won the night before of young Lester Sheldon and that he would use it to run across the "big pond" and see Paris in June. As he was rinsing his fingers in a cut glass bowl, preparatory to leaving the table, a waiter stepped up to him and announced that a lady wished to see him in the reception room.

"A lady! To see me! In the reception room! Great Scott! Isn't a man safe even in his club?"

"It isn't usual, sir, but it's an hour when few members are present, and she begged so hard that the steward told the doorman to admit her."

The admiral had just enough curiosity to go to the reception room and learn the reason for the call. He found a very pretty young woman in widow's cap, whose eyes were dimmed with tears.

"Oh, admiral," she gasped, "tell me, have you parted with the notes?"

"What notes?"

"That you won from my brother last night."

"Your brother?"

"Yes; Lester—my brother—Lester Sheldon."

"What's that to you, madam?"

"Oh, admiral, I've heard of your honorable nature and kind heart."

"Bosh! Speak out."

"My brother is in great distress. I have just prevented him taking his life. He is cashier at his place of business. Later he has been gambling. The notes you won he took from his cash at the office. After leaving you he had one note left and this morning noticed that it was marked."

"For heaven's sake, this is a pretty mess for me to be mixed up in!"

"Oh, it's all right if you still have the notes."

"I have them."

"How fortunate! And a relieved smile came over the sad face like a flood of sunlight from behind a cloud. 'I will take them and give you my check for them.'"

"But, my dear lady, I didn't win the money from you. I can't take your check. But I will give you the notes."

"Now, don't spoil everything. I can only handle Lester by assuring him that the notes have been taken up with my check and only you and I and he know of the transaction. It's nothing to me, I assure you. I have an income of $20,000 a year. I've helped Lester out of many a scrape. I only hope I'll live to keep something dreadful from happening to him."

Meanwhile she had gone to a table covered with writing materials, filled a blank check she took from her card case and at the last words handed it to the admiral.

"But, my dear madam, consider my position. I, an admiral in the United States navy, to take money from a woman! Suppose it should get out!"

"My dear admiral, how is it to get out? Will Lester tell? Will I tell? Only you remain."

"And you think it best for me to?"

"Of course. Now, do let me have the bills. Lester is suspected and may have to turn over his accounts as soon as he appears at the office. He is waiting for me. Do let me go!"

This was too much for the admiral. He took the notes from his pocketbook and handed them to the lady. She dropped the check into the same receptacle, rubbing her soft hand against his as she did so and looking up at him with an exuberance of gratitude out of her soft eyes. Then she ran away hurriedly.

"Well, now," remarked the admiral to himself, "if I could find a woman like that I wouldn't be a woman hater. To think what she's doing for that scapegrace brother! Most women absorb money instead of spending it in that way."

He was in no hurry to deposit the check. Indeed, he was thinking of a bit of self sacrifice he might make that possibly would effect a romance in his old age—a romance that would free him from depending on a club for a home. He fancied himself tearing up the check or burning it, as the leading gentleman in a play would do, and a certain lady falling into his own arms.

That same evening he was sitting in his club looking over a paper when who should saunter in but Lester Sheldon.

"Hello, admiral," he said cheerily. "I'm going for you tonight. I'll take all you won from me last night and more too."

The admiral looked at him, astonished.

"What's the matter?" asked Sheldon, not understanding the surprise. "Don't you want to give me my revenge?"

"What's the matter? Didn't your sister this morning take up the notes I won from you with her check?"

"My sister?"

"Yes, your sister."

"I haven't any sister."

The admiral glared for a moment, then made a dive for his pocketbook, took out the check, unfolded it and handed it to Sheldon.

"Admiral," said the latter, "you've been bunked."

"Bunked! I bunked by a woman! I never trusted a woman in my life—that is, before."

"You mean you never trusted a good one. Your only case of confidence was in a bad one."

Sheldon had talked in his cups of his loss in a promiscuous crowd.
