THE BEWITCHING BOUDOIR CAP

Looking charming before breakfast is an easy matter now—even when there is no time to "do" the hair in the elaborate manner which the day's coiffure demands.

One slips on a captivating, distractingly becoming cap of lace and ribbon, and is ready to have coffee with one's family, conscious that there are no discrepancies in one's appearance.

This dainty cap is made of a square lace and tulle, sewed together in stripes. Around the edge is a lace trimmed frill. Blue ribbon loops and bows cover the shirring which draws the cap into shape.

CORDEUROY AGAIN IN VOGUE.

More than one woman will be glad to learn that Dame Fashion is once more smiling her necessary approval upon that sturdy fabric, corduroy. Fine fabrics, and that means velvet, and velvet, as well as our old friend corduroy, are to be in high favor, according to the very latest rumor.

For tailored and pattern corduroy is an excellent material, being durable and smart in appearance.

It is a boon to the economical woman, for among its virtues are listed that of never-ending wear.

Though one may procure the staple street shades as well as black, there are also many charming tints for more dressy wear—lovely green, mahogany tones, bronze and browns.

And because it is always wise to get quality instead of quantity, one should get the best quality one's purse can afford.

ENTERTAINS INFORMALLY.

Miss Alice Holm entertained a very small number of friends at her home in Rimbach avenue Saturday afternoon at a thimble party. The afternoon was spent with embroidery work and dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. Nathan L. A CHURCH WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Amelia Lohse and Albert Zandt was solemnized last Saturday evening at seven-thirty o'clock in St. John's Lutheran church in the north side. The Rev. William Brauer, pastor of the church, officiated and used the ring ceremony. A large number of relatives and friends were in attendance. The bridal procession entered the church as Professor Schuelke played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. They came down the long central aisle to the altar where the ceremony was performed. In the procession were the bride and groom and their attendants. Miss Esther Lohse served the bride as maid of honor and the Misses Pearl Cox and Annie Eggebrecht were the bridesmaids. The groom's attendants included Herman Lohse, Arthur Zimmerman and Fred Stelling.

The bride wore a very beautiful gown of white satin and a long tulle veil caught to her hair with a half wreath of flowers. She carried a bouquet of brides roses. The young ladies who attended her were daintily gowned in white and carried arm bouquets of cream roses.

Following the church ceremony the members of the bridal party, the relatives and a number of friends drove to the Hoffman Hall where the reception took place. The hall was decorated with potted plants and ferns. The guests extended their best wishes to the young couple after which they were ushered into the dining hall and served with a supper. Mr. and Mrs. Zandt are prominent young people in Hammond and the announcement of their marriage will bring the best wishes and congratulations of many friends. They received many very pretty gifts in cut glass, china and silver.

Speaking of the Divorce Evil

Trying to succeed in business without advertising is like the case of the man who, trying to cut expenses, divorced his wife and alone attempted to keep house and raise his children. It cost him more money for doctor bills and funeral expenses in a year than he gave his wife in a lifetime.

When advertising is divorced, business success becomes failure.

This paper is building your neighbor's business. He has reasons. He tried advertising and it helped him. It is not an experiment—this paper brings results. Good, hard, convincing results—dollars.

HOBBART LADY IS BADLY BURNED

(Special to THE TIMES.)

Hobart, Ind., Oct. 24.—On Saturday the little son of Charles Klausen had a narrow escape of being badly burned. He spilled kerosene on a rag and rubbed it over the hot stove, which caused it to flame up. He carried the burning rag to the door, but was not burned a particle. Mrs. Klausen burned her hand quite badly in trying to extinguish the flame to save the home.
