SCHOOLS OUTLINE PROGRAM

be set aside to teaching the meaning of the day.

State Superintendent Greathouse has sent out pamphlets in which a regular Fire Preventive day study course is outlined. It is so comprehensive that, to get the full benefit of it, it will be included in the course of study for a week.

This pamphlet gives the most common sources of fire as follows:

1. Careless use of matches.
2. Gasoline.
3. Some of the other sources of fires are:
1. Open grates.
2. Use of oil in starting fires.
3. Defective flues.
4. Filling lamps near a fire.
5. Careless burning of trash in dry weather.

A few simple means of fighting fire are outlined as follows:

1. We should never go to sleep in a strange place without knowing just how to escape should a fire occur.
2. If there is a fire alarm, every member of the household should know exactly how to turn in the alarm.
3. If there are any fire extinguishers, we should know how to use them.
4. In case you should observe a small blaze, and you must do likewise.
5. If no water is at hand, a blanket or other woolen materials are often more effective. Smother the flames by throwing the blanket over the flame; or, if they are too large to be covered by the blanket, strike the flames a number of quick blows.
6. Remember it is not so much the amount of water used, as it is getting it on the right place. Never waste the means at your command.
7. A very effective means of checking fire is an open field or woods is a wet broom or a bundle of branches with green leaves. Each stroke should count.

If any one is burned, the parts should be covered with wet cotton or cloth. A little soda in the water will relieve the sufferer. The main thing is to keep the air away from the burn until the physician arrives.

Whash the Matter?

It would really be hard to convince a number of Hammond people that they are not victims of a disease that might be called auto-intoxication. In the last two or three days enough unusual things have happened to make the average man question his sanity. Here are a few of them:

1. Those who were up at 5 o'clock this morning say that Hammond was visited by a heavy snow storm. Large flakes of snow came down for several minutes.
2. Bob Jennings is borne out by several witnesses in his assertion that he saw an eight-wheeled automobile go through Hammond yesterday afternoon.
3. Residents in the south part of Hammond were startled to see an aeroplane soaring above them a day or two ago.

The eight-wheeled automobile was seen by a number of Hammond people. The wheels were arranged in truck form like those on a freight car. The wheels were smaller than the usual automobile wheel.

Gets Another Contract.

Contractor J. H. McClay today closed a contract for the construction of a three-story business and apartment building on Maroun avenue in East Chicago. The contract price for the building is $15,000.

The building is to be 29x92 feet in dimensions, is of brick construction and will contain five six-room flats. The work of construction is to begin at once on the owner is John Jaracz.

Plays at Morocco.

The Hammond high school football team went to Morocco on the Monon train today for the purpose of playing the first game of the season. The trip is expected to be a pleasant one, and the day is ideal for the game. The team was accompanied by the coach and F. D. McElroy.

Market Is Quiet.

The real estate market has been quiet this week. Very few sales have been made and only the fact that there are a number of inquiries for property makes it apparent that the fall business will be good.

What Does Elbert Want?

Manager J. J. Cohen of the White store is in receipt of a letter from Elbert Hubbard in which he asks for the names of some of the officers of the Hammond Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Cohen is curious to know just what Hubbard wants and has replied sending the name of E. F. Johnston of the Hammond Business Men's association.

Had to Postpone It.

Owing to the unusual high water in the river, the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company, which has the contract for laying the thirty-six-inch water main in the Grand Calumet river at Columbia avenue, decided to postpone the lowering until next Monday. The recent rains have caused the lake and the river to rise eight inches, and under these circumstances the company does not want to hazard the lowering, for fear that a miscalculation might cause considerable damage.

Pullman Man Arrested.

John Gaiser, who claimed his occupation as a tinner and that his home was at Pullman, Ill., was arrested last night at Hudson street and Sheffield avenue on a charge of drunkenness by Officer Schadt.

When Gaiser was arrested and searched a sum of $10.03 was found on his person. He was brought before Judge Barnett this morning and pleaded guilty, receiving a fine of $1 and costs, amounting to $11, which he paid. When asked what he was doing in Hammond and why he got drunk, he said: "I guess that Hammond booze is too strong for me."

Case Continued.

The case of Andrew Schroeder and the two cases of Charles Traillkill, in Judge Barnett's court, was continued this morning until Saturday, Oct. 14. The men were arrested on a warrant by Officer Trost and each placed a $100 appearance bond. The men are charged with doing plumbing work without a license, and the cases are expected to bring up many legal points.

Pleased With Progress.

Officers and directors of the Employees' Life and Casualty Insurance Co.

are highly pleased with the progress that the business of the corporation is making. As yet the capacity limit is not in sight, and inasmuch as the business is growing from day to day, the officials have every reason to feel optimistic about their company.

J. O. KOONTZ HAS VARIED EXPERIENCE

ander's complaint in Judge Prest's court this morning, Koontz, by agreement, gave him a check on the First National bank of Hammond for $13 on an account of $50, legal fee said to have been agreed upon by the two.

In his complaint, Alexander, through his attorney, H. S. Green, a law partner of Alexander, the plaintiff says that he instituted the habeas corpus proceedings with the result that Judge McMan made the writ returnable for next Tuesday evening, and that when Koontz learned that a hearing had been assured him, he ordered payment on the check stopped. To collect this account the two Gary attorneys are now bringing suit against the patent plaster vendor.

Another Suit Pending.

To Koontz's acquaintances his actions have been a conundrum. He was taken to the county jail two weeks ago because he refused to pay a fine and costs, amounting to $13, assessed against him in Judge Ames' court several months ago when he was found guilty of having insulted a woman on the street. He gave a stay of execution bond, and when the ninety-day first allowed him by the court had expired he was ordered sent to jail. Koontz says he was under the impression that he had an appeal bond, rather than pay he went to jail telling his attorney to "wait to see what they will do."

Koontz has waited two weeks now, and all that he sees is that he is being fed regularly and treated just like any other prisoner he behaves himself. Consequently he has decided to resort to habeas corpus proceedings to gain his liberty.

In addition to the suit pending against him in Judge Prest's court, Koontz must also stand trial on the charge of assault and battery upon Julius Taussig, the constable, who says he was roughly handled by Koontz when he tried to serve a mittimus on his two weeks ago.

Koontz, it has been learned, has money in the bank and could pay his fine.
