Cong. Wood Leads in Fight to Keep Troops From Police Duty.

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The house has taken a vacation until next Tuesday. Of the important committees that have been at work almost continuously during the summer days, only the foreign affairs committee remained on the job today.

Assistant Secretary of State Breckinridge Long was in closed session with the foreign affairs committee, going over with the members question concerning this government's foreign policy with respect to Russia, Mexico, and the new European states and to the extent this country is involved in present commitments.

Upon Long's testimony will hinge the report of the committee on a resolution requesting the president not to permit the use of the American troops to do police duty in Silesia and the immediate return from Europe of even a larger number of American troops than contemplated at this time by the war department.

Representative Wood, of Indiana, who is leading opposition in the house to maintenance of American troops in foreign countries, insists that it is more the duty of England and France than of the United States to see that necessary police duty is done in Silesia because those countries are interested in keeping the Silesian coal mines in operation and the Silesian railroads running.

"It does not appear from reports received from Europe," he said today, "that either of those countries is sending military forces to Silesia and I want to know the reason why."

1st School Days Are Near

Not a few boys and girls who have their own savings accounts—built up from their earnings after school hours, Saturdays and during vacation time—can not only buy new clothes for school and necessary supplies, but what's more they can pay for them out of their funds. This is a matter that gives satisfaction to the young ones as well as lifting a burden from their parents. One dollar is all that is needed to make a boy or girl a depositor here.

Gary Labor Situation

Expecting to call the monster steel and iron workers' strike in the Gary steel mills next Tuesday, advices have been received by the union officials here not to strike "under any circumstances" until the steel committee in conference at Washington issues orders to walk out.

The order came about after President Wilson prevailed upon the union leaders in a conference yesterday to postpone the calling of strikes in the plants of the United States Steel Corporation and promised to make an appeal to employers generally to make concessions to labor.

The 500 men and women employees of the Gary Screw & Bolt Works, who walked out in sympathy with two discharged employees yesterday morning, are still remaining defiant and today the big plant is idle for the second time within the past five weeks. They walked out in a like manner over a month ago, demanding wage increase, reinstatement of discharged employees and back pay. At labor headquarters at noon today it was reported that there was no change in the situation.

Labor leaders expected this morning to hear important news in the shopmen's controversy within the next forty-eight hours. Bulletins are being received regularly.
