PURDUE GLEE CLUB
HERE TONIGHT
The Rooster Club of Hammond, is presenting tonight at the First Methodist Episcopal church, the Purdue University Glee Club in a program of vocal and instrumental entertainment coupled with a sketch that depicts the Purdue life and atmosphere, and it promises to eclipse all past performances.

The Purdue players have appeared in several of the Southern cities this year and their concert is pronounced the best in the middle-west. Two factors contribute to this showing—an unusual amount of good material in the personal this season and the good fortune of having secured one of the ablest directors in the business, Paul Tinsler Smith. Aside from the male chorus, the program includes such features as a double piano ten-piece jazz band, saxophone sextette, male quartette, whistling, vocal and instrumental solos, piano duet, and perhaps their biggest feature is K. W. Huffine, captain of the 1919 Varsity Football team, as a piano soloist. Huffine also plays the cello, composes in his odd moments and conceals a few other talents up his sleeve.

The concert as a whole will please even the most fastidious, for it includes everything from glorified rag to splendid ensemble singing by the Glee Club.

Immediately following the concert, the jazz band will synopsize for the younger set in the Chamber of Commerce and the admission fee admits the purchaser to both the concert and the dance.

The entire net proceeds of the entertainment is to be given to the Drum and Bugle Corps of the Hammond Boy Scouts and the Rooster Club looks forward to the generous subscription. The club will derive nothing from the concert other than the pleasure afforded by the gift.

THIRD WEEK OF YARDMEN

As the "vacation" of yardmen in the Chicago district enters upon its third week, reports from railroad yards of the Calumet region show that movement of cars has been climbing steadily upward until in some places it has practically reached normal. Others have not been so fortunate but all seem to be making a fair showing.

At the Gibson offices of the I. H. B. railroad, Manager George Hannauer said, "The situation here is steadily improving. Yesterday was our biggest day since the strike began."

Heavy trains are passing through Hammond with increasing frequency over the various railroads indicating that there is a weakening tendency at other railroad centers. As yet nothing direct has come to the attention of railroad officials in Hammond relative to the threat of the freight handlers and railway clerks to join the yardmen.

as was reported in Chicago yesterday. Apparently the usual full attendance of the Hammond local of the C. Y. A. was at the meeting place in West Hammond this afternoon. Shortly after dinner was over, 100 were in the hall and more continued to arrive as the time for the afternoon session drew near. Little of an official nature is done at these meetings. The men congregate merely to talk over the situation and hear of developments reported in other centers.
