HE WALKED IN

Orven Barker, a colored man was up before City Judge William Dunn of Gary this morning along with half a dozen other vagrants who had been pulled in during the night's grind.
"Where did you come from, how long have you been in Gary and how did you get here," questioned the judge as he often does to a prisoner when there is a doubt in his mind as to the prisoner's truth and veracity.
"Well you see, yo' honah, I've been out of a job and come from Buffalo to Gary where I expected I'd be gwinnin' to get me some work and pick chop money. I've just walked and walked till I got here a week ago, ya sa Judge." Oratorically recited the darky.
"You have surely done a lot of walking and must be pretty tired out. I'll just give you 40 cents and costs and give you a chance to rest up. When you get out of jail you will feel like working."

Playing His Last Goodbye!

The night before he had been the great musician, playing to rapturous thousands. Now he was just a plain old mother's "baby," playing to her and the girl he loved. Perhaps he should play no more—perhaps not see them again.

So he played "Humoresque"—that laugh on life, with a tear behind it—and was gone! ... Where? ... Why?

A story that blends the slum and the avenue, the din and the music, the sorrow and smiles of life in a happy melody, silently played on the screen.
