

HAMMOND RETAILERS CUT PRICES

blankets, large comfortable looking ones at $3.98; automobile robes with prices cut squarely in two; men's suits, the $75 kind at $50 and the $45 and $50 values at $28.50; overcoats with similar reductions, and on through the furniture, yard goods, shoe and hosiery departments.

"We're doing our best," said Leo Wolf of Kaufman & Wolf. "Take a look around if you want to be convinced."

The trip justified his claim. Buyers and clerks in all departments of the Lion Store were busy placing the new prices on all goods. "Orders are to forget costs and mark them all down as low as ever than wholesale prices on next year's goods," remarked one buyer. "It almost makes one sick though," he added sadly.

In this store bargains start from all directions. Georgette waists, which had been selling at $6.50 to $10 are cut to $3.50; muslin underwear, envelopes, gowns and chemises, now $1.25 and $1.50, where they had been selling as high as $2.45; percale aprons worth as high as $2.45 marked down to $1 and $1.25.

Similar reductions were noted in men's clothing, yard goods, shoes and novelty articles.

"Look at this," said the furniture department buyer holding out a list of price quotations from the country's largest rug house. Two columns of figures were shown, one for purchases made prior to Jan. 1 and the other for purchases after Jan. 1. Strange as it may seem the new year prices are a per cent or more higher than last year's. "Doesn't look like lower whole sale prices in our line, does it?" he remarked.

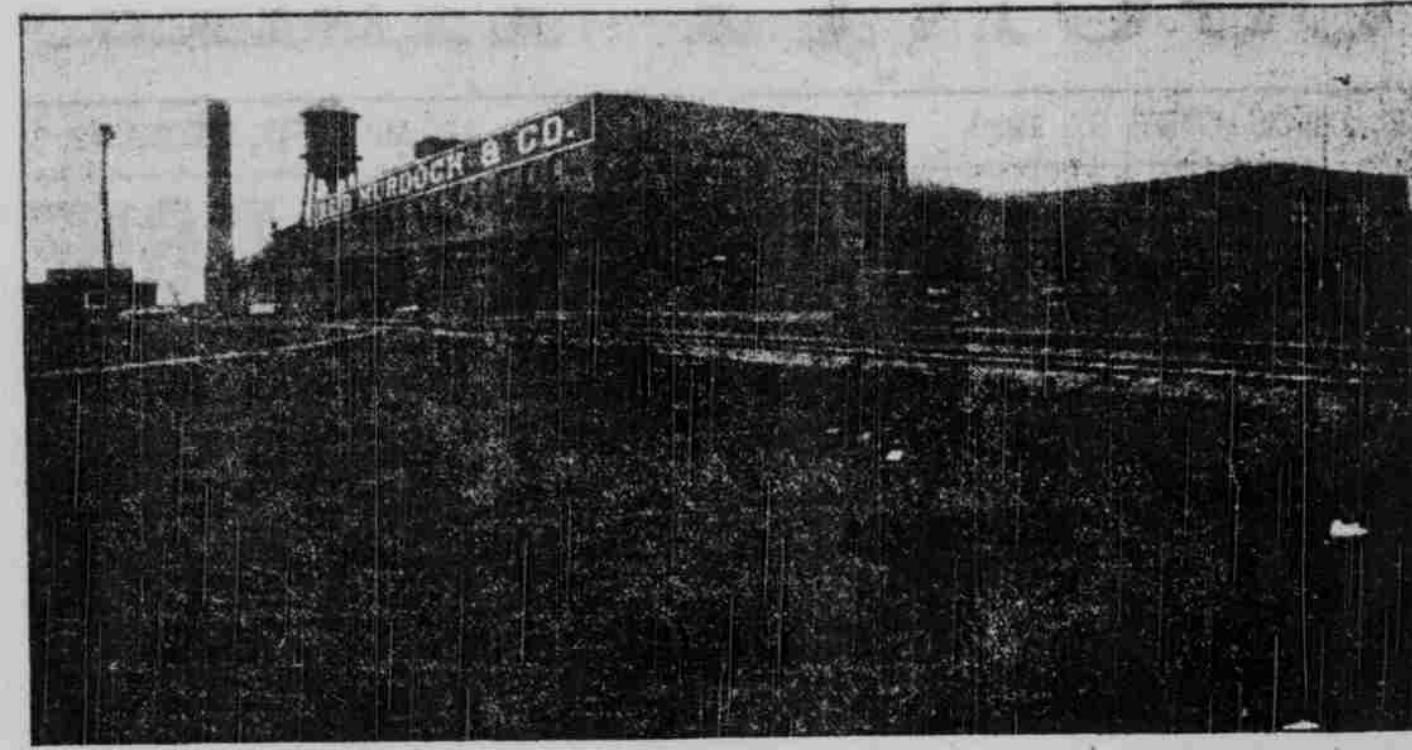

In spite of this the department is shooting away like the rest of the store. Rugs which were $104 can be had for $85.40. The $80 and $85 rugs have been marked at $70 and $75. Mattresses, which sold at $20 and $25 have been priced at $15.50 and $12.50. It is interesting here to note that whereas manufacturers have reduced the price of mattresses and springs only 8 per cent this store has whittled 50 per cent from the retail prices.

Down at the Straube Music store the campaign has met with hearty approval. Many have already taken advantage of the offer of a player piano of standard make for only $125. This instrument had hitherto been considered a good buy at $600. The store has clipped from $100 to $200 off the prices of practically all of the nationally known pianos which it handles.

L. B. Whitezel of Whitezel & Rees is another dealer who faces the situation philosophically. "We have already put into effect cuts ranging from 20 to 50 and 60 per cent in different departments," he said. "We have tried to forget all about what we paid for the articles and are cutting the knife right through them. It hurts, but we'll have to bear it."

At this new department store blankets and outing garments, which are in demand right now, are selling 20 to 40 per cent lower than a month ago. Hosiery has also suffered. Here the cuts are perhaps deepest of all. Fine quality ladies' cashmere hose, which had been retailing at 50 cents and $1 have a big sign over them offering them at 45 cents, and they are being grabbed up, too. Similar reductions are noticeable in hardware, graniteware and like lines. Everything in the store has been affected.

Buying usually slumps immediately after Christmas and remains dull until the big clearance sales which hitherto have been held late in January. This year it is different. Stores are busily at work for the trade and are starting off their clearance sales earlier than ever before and the full of the holiday has been mighty brief.

It is a matter of pride with us to be known as a dealer who sells good, reliable products.

That's why we sell and earnestly recommend "Dickinson's Globe Feeds." If you house and feed your flock properly, there is no reason why "Globe Egg Mash" and "Globe Scratch" will not be the means to garner a decent profit for every laying hen in your yard. Dickinson's do it right along in their poultry plant in Chicago — why not you?
