

LIVE NEWS FROM THE TWIN CITIES

LEGION MEETING

Commander S. C. Mullin of the American Legion Post No. 256 has called a meeting of all members of the Indiana Harbor Post for next Friday, January 12th, for the purpose of electing officers for the New Year, outlining a calendar of activities for the ensuing year and passing upon current business. The proposed meeting will be held in the Civic Club rooms.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE

James Burns, formerly councilman-at-large from Indiana Harbor, has announced his candidacy on the republican ticket as county commissioner. Jim believes in the little epithet, "that the early bird catches the worm." In the recent city election campaign Jimmy gave an inkling that his next step would be for a county office. This information however, was only given to a few of his closest friends and was not allowed to spread broadcast. Now Jimmy believes, this is the opportunity to let the "rest out of the bag" and make his official announcement. It is felt that ex-councilman Burns will receive the hearty support of this community in which he has resided so long.

BOYS ARE HELD.

Martin Plink, 4857 Homerlee avenue, and Joe Sutro, of 5923 Northside avenue, East Chicago, two young boys accused of attempting to holdup and rob Frank A. Kie of 616 One Hundred and Fifty-first street, last evening, are being held in the East Chicago jail pending a hearing before Judge Taylor.

The boys say it was only a practical joke and that they had no intention of relieving their friend of his hard-earned cash.

NEW AUTO CONCERN.

The new firm of Smith & Genevieve, jobbers in automobile accessories for the Calumet region with permanent offices in the East Chicago State Bank building, East Chicago, is the latest concern on the Twin City roster of business interests. The business arm of this concern will reach over Lake county and in the jobbing of car articles extend over the state of Indiana and parts of Illinois. The heads of this company are Arch R. Smith, now employed at

WHERE TROOPS ARE KEEPING ORDER IN NEWPORT, KY., STRIKE

Kentucky state troops, under orders of Governor Morrow, are keeping order at the plant of the Newport Rolling Mills in Newport, Ky., where a strike of mill workers has caused serious rioting. The troops, comprised mainly of war veterans, are equipped with machine guns. Strike sympathizers fired on the auto of W. N. Andrews, an officer of the company, before the soldiers arrived. Andrews was unhurt, however.

Photos show troops on duty inside the gates of the Newport Ky. rolling mills and soldiers halting strikers and sympathizers at the dead line.

CRIME WAVE ERRS.

The crime wave in this community has subsided. The only robbery reported on the police docket of East Chicago this morning was the burglary of a soft drink parlor at 595 Chicago avenue, of a quantity of merchandise valued at $25. Officers Weisbach and Bradt when investigating the burglary found a shovel and railway pick, believed to have been used in prying the rear window of the building open.

Mrs. W. J. Wilson, age 41 years, wife of Patrolman W. J. Wilson of the Indiana Harbor police force, living at 3737 Euclid avenue, died yesterday morning in the Hammond hospital, following an unsuccessful operation for cancer of the stomach. Mrs. Wilson had been suffering a number of years from her stomach and for the last three months has been bed fast. Upon the advice of her physician and surgeon she had consented to the operation, never believing that her illness was due from cancer of the stomach. ### A WONDERFUL PICTURE.

Eliska is known as the Monte Carlo of the desert. It is the gathering place of the wealthy, the dissolute, the adventurous, the pleasure seeking people of the African littoral and affords a marvellously picturesque background for fiction or photography.

It is used in George Melford's Paramount production of "The Sheik," which will be showing at the Hartley theater commencing with Tuesday, January 10.

Agnes Ayres and Rudolph Valentino are the featured players with a fine supporting cast. In a big casino, the most colorful spot in Eliska, the scene of a grand fête given by the young sheik is laid and therein the beautiful customs of the Orient are shown with great fidelity.

Other scenes are those upon the Sahara, with the wild riders of the desert; the stronghold in the sandy sea of Omal, a bandit of the Sahara, and the Sheik's oriental dwelling.

The UTENCO Ironer

Here at last is the Ironer That You Have Been Waiting For

Irons every bit of the ironing. No hand ironing any more.

Irons sheets, table cloths, shirts, waists, ruffled dresses, children's rompers—anything at all.

Does the work better than hand work.

So easy to operate that it seems more like play than work.

No more backaches from standing and pushing a flat iron. You sit at your ease in a comfortable chair and feed the clothes. The machine does the work.

No bigger than a sewing machine, yet irons the widest sheets and table cloths.

So easy to move about that you can keep it anywhere in the house and move it to any place you wish to use it. Moves so easily that it can be pulled about with one finger.

You don't have to go down in the basement to do your ironing—iron in the kitchen, dining room, bedroom—anywhere.

Don't say "That sounds too good to be true," let us show you.
