Decides for Crundwell.

The right to practice law was returned to Attorney Paul E. Crundwell of Indiana Harbor, when he was recently vindicated of all disbarment proceedings by a jury of five Lake county judges in the Hammond Superior court.

The jury was composed of Judges Norton, Smith, Reiter, Crites and Twyman.

Attorney Crundwell still maintains offices at 3621 Cedar street, in Indiana Harbor.

Coal Circular

In a circular issued by the Car Service Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad system of the Northwestern region stress is laid upon the fact of the constantly increasing demand for coal car equipment and instructs that car service in the directing of this class of equipment be observed.

The order reads in part: "Continuous coal production is rapidly increasing with the reopening of the mines closed by the miners' strike. The loading has increased 2 1/2 times within the past two weeks. It is now on a basis of nearly 10,000,000 tons per week and will possibly go to 12,000,000. There is immediately before the railroad the problem of coal car supply and the exigencies of the situation require the utmost care and the supervision in the handling of equipment that maximum use may be made thereof in meeting the coal needs of the country."

From Mr. Friedman

An important lesson to be learned by objectors to the hospital plan is this: That there are enough charitably disposed people in every community to provide for its needs. In this community one of the considerations to be reckoned with (local in character) is the fact that the vast majority of the people are in moderate circumstances, with fixed incomes, small, and more or less constant.

A hospital, therefore, which devotes a part of its service to charity and another to those who can afford to pay, has peculiar advantages for East Chicago. Such a hospital will appeal to the well-to-do only by providing up-to-date medical and surgical service to the well to do, it naturally must meet the needs of the charity patients with the same high standard. Therefore the charity patient will always fare well because the public conscience has been aroused in this unique way, compelling administrators to give to the free patients as high an order of service and scientific care as is provided in the best class of private hospitals.

The great number of disaffected children attending our schools must be given consideration. Their future health must be looked after. When parents are too poor to send their children to doctors because of the fee, is that not a strong reason why the municipality should promptly meet that need for its own protection?

I can assure the voters and taxpayers of the city that a hospital will do more to increase the growth of the city than any other project, without exception, that has been undertaken by the city up to this day. We have a right to the feeling of pride in our wonderful parks, and playgrounds, and modern schools, but our greatest pride will be in a municipally owned hospital, whose policies will not be formulated by any creed or sect, but where the whole public will have a voice in its operation. An institution that will make all welcome whether rich or poor—able to pay or not. Where our one purpose would be to provide the best medical skill and science of modern time to save life.

My friends this proposition is to be submitted to you for decision at the November election. Don't permit it to fail. If it were voted down it would be the saddest day of our life. To make this might not soon be apparent, but an accident to one near and dear would bring the fact home with startling force. Some time ago we conceived an idea of a hospital, later we have seen it grow into a community demand for the municipality to take up the matter, and now the Chamber of Commerce endorses the move to finance such an institution by all the taxpayers.

I want to ask all the friends of this hospital to get busy on this project from now till November 7, and put it across with the prestige of your unanimous approbation. Talk hospital, think hospital, work day and night in its behalf, and it will become an accomplished fact.

CHAIRMAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOSPITAL COMMITTEE.

Burglars Enter House

Answering a call this morning from 3525 Fir street, Indiana Harbor, police officers Budich and Trudell, arrived at the home of Chas. Ritz to find that burglars had ransacked the place and escaped with one gold watch and two children's banks, containing approximately $5 in cash.

Spread out upon the tables all ready to be wrapped into bundles was the home silverware that had been left behind by the burglars.

As nearly as he could extinguish the dark outline of the figures when running from his home, Mr. Ritz described two burglars as young men 20 years old and about 5 feet 5 inches tall.

Room-mates Robbed

The wedding bell will not toll as per schedule for George O'Brien and his.

The neat little savings that George put away in his domestic bank (an old sock) to defer the expenses of the wedding and honeymoon trip are gone. He said that the affair would have to be postponed another few months until he had again accumulated an equal sum.

George O'Brien, who lives at 112 Chicago avenue, East Chicago, told the police that his roommate, Fitzgerald stayed home last evening and that when he returned from work that he found both roommate and his $35 gone.

A note pinned on his pillow said: "This is to pay you back for the dirty tricks that you have played on me—Fitz."

More than a dozen eye-witnesses to the gun battle and killing of John George by Wm. Pemberton, both colored, in the latter's poolroom at 5001 Alexander avenue, East Chicago last Saturday night, testified at an inquest held yesterday afternoon that Pemberton shot George in self defense.
