Good Printing

THIS kind of printing that pays dividends is the kind you should have. Pale, muddy, poorly arranged printed matter is worse than none. The quality of your business is often judged by the quality of your stationery—inferior printing gives an impression of cheapness that is hard to overcome, while good printing carries with it a desirable suggestion of quality.

We produce only Quality Printing. Whether you want an inexpensive handbill or a letterhead in color, if you order it from us you will be sure of getting good work. We have the equipment and the "know how" that enables us to get out really good printing—printing that impresses people with the good taste of its users. That is the only kind of printing that

Dogs Need Frequent Release From Chain

The following humane appeal made by a correspondent in the Dog World shows pointedly how dogs are the victims of a cruel practice; how their dispositions may be spoiled, and their lives rendered unnatural and unhappy:

"May I plead through your columns for the better treatment of dogs who are continually chained, sometimes liberated from their imprisonment? The other day a man stated in a police court that his dog had not been off the chain for twelve months; from its puppyhood, it had been fastened up for an hour of liberty."

"As a lover of dogs I hold that every dog is entitled to regular exercise, and that it is unjustifiable cruelty to imprison a dog for life. Such treatment makes a dog hopeless and miserable; he becomes dejected and often savage, and his health suffers severely."

"A young dog can be trained to be a guard without chaining, and the best watchdogs are those which are not chained. Chains are a heritage of bygone days and should be abolished."

The best way to keep a dog that needs restraint is to put him in a yard with a high fence. If this is not practicable, fasten a wire across any yard; on this put an iron ring which, when attached by a cord to the dog's collar, will allow him to run backward and forward the full length of the wire. The yard should have shade as well as sunshine, to protect the dog from too great heat of the sun.

Make your dog your companion and friend. Treat him kindly and he will respond.

It is cruel to tie a dog under a wagon or allow him to follow an automobile or bicycle. Let him ride with you.

Fought to Establish Jewish Independence

The Maccabees was the name of a family in Syria, which during the Second century before Christ, resisted the persecutions inflicted upon the Jewish nation by the Seleucidae.

After the death of Mattathias, the leader of the revolt, in 166 B. C., his son Judas Maccabaeus, defeated the Syrians in three battles, reconquered Jerusalem, purified the temple, and restored the worship of Jehovah, says the Kansas City Star. He was slain in ambush in 161 B. C., and was succeeded by his brother, Jonathan, who was raised to the dignity of high priest, but was afterward treacherously slain at Ptolemais in 144 B. C., by Tryphon, the guardian of the young prince Antiochus Theos.

His brother, Simon, then succeeded to the leadership of the commonwealth, and completely established the independence of the Jews. After seven years of beneficent rule, he was murdered, together with his two sons, by his son-in-law, Ptolemy, who vainly hoped to be chosen his successor. John Hyrcanus, son of Simon, was the next ruler. He renewed the alliance with Rome, conquered Idumaea, and took the title of king, 107 B. C. Syria became a Roman province in 63 B. C.

Palladium in Legend

The Palladium was a famous wooden image of Pallas (Minerva), said to have been hurled from heaven by Zeus, and to have fallen near the tent of Ilius, while he was engaged in building Ilium (Troy). The oracle of Apollo having declared that the city should never be taken so long as Palladium was retained within its walls, the statue was placed in a sanctuary and carefully guarded. It was, however, finally stolen by Ulysses and Diomedes about 1184 B. C., and thus victory was secured to the Greeks. According to some accounts, Troy contained two Palladia, one of which was stolen and conveyed to one of the Greek cities, while the other was taken to Italy by Aeneas and secretly guarded by the Romans in the Temple of Vesta. The word "palladium" is sometimes used at the present day to signify a pledge of security and protection.—Kansas City Star.

Timber Well Protected

Outright theft of timber is rare in the national forests. Each year there are some cases of timber trespass, but usually these trespasses happen through no criminal intent. They are frequently due to imperfect title records on the part of private operators. The government maintains a corps of rangers and forest guards on the national forests, who in the course of their daily work are constantly traveling through the forest areas under their jurisdiction. This patrol prevents deliberate theft and discovers and corrects unintentional trespass. The penalty for deliberate trespass is severe and is applied rigorously.

Everything in Order

The name of the prisoner was Gunn. "And what is the charge?" inquired the magistrate. "That Gunn was loaded with drink, your worship," answered the constable. "I wish to be let off, sir," pleaded the wretched man. "Gunn, you are discharged," the magistrate told him. And the report was in the papers next day.—London Tit-Bits.

FLASHLIGHTS

Still, the word "sweetie" sounds about as good as "suitor."

How pitiful it is when an aviator or a southpaw loses control.

Some cats are domestic, and another kind abominates housework.

Don't exercise on a full stomach. If you must exercise, do it standing.

The good die young, so you never know whether they would have remained good.

A board of inquiry usually finds that it happened the way the newspapers said it did.

And so the domestic cat originated in Egypt. Doubtless she was the one that accused Joseph.

When a great man says something clever, the public's reaction is not so much admiration as surprise.

It seems almost an insinuation to brag too much that no big Democrat has been convicted of war frauds.

We now have a submarine that can keep up with the fleet. The taxpayer should study it and learn the art.

Correct this sentence: "Of course I get a grouch at times," said he, "but I never take it home with me."—Detroit Free Press.

CONSOLATION PRIZES

Dear lady, remember even peaches have wrinkles.

If you own a second-hand filver, anyway a post office pen is worse.

The advantage of being an aviator is that you miss the chewing gum hazard.

Those friends who keep borrowing cigarettes from you might have borrowed money.

If the wife insists on buying your neckties, suppose she was set on buying all your cigars.

Suppose they do call you stingy. They never call anybody stingy unless they think he has a pile of money.

What if you don't catch any fish all day. Consider how happy you have made the worm on your hook.

If you can't think of a bright thing to say at the proper time, cheer up, you will think of it half an hour later.

When you had to stay in when the wife's women friends were visiting her, remember if you went out you'd have to take the wife's powder puff dog with you.—Chicago American.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

The busiest thing on earth is idle curiosity.

When you have trouble to lend borrowers are scarce.

And flour by any other name would savor of high-priced wheat.

Money talks, but it doesn't always make a satisfactory financial statement.

A woman never forgives a man for believing some of the things she tells him.

Etiquette has nothing to do with the good form displayed by the tailor-made woman.

The world is filled with would-be leaders who couldn't even follow successfully.

Between Christmas presents and summer vacations a married man truly has his troubles.—Chicago News.

***** THIS AND THAT *****

Many lady broadcasters at radio stations are willing to work for nothing.

It is a great effort for a man to tell a woman his faults, but then it never takes long.

The man who gives his wife a high-powered automobile may be indirectly killing her with kindness.

Many an office slave who apparently has his back to the wall may be merely suffering from sunburn.—Exchange.

Bathing by No Means a Universal Custom

In Japan we would learn what the Japanese idea of cleanliness is. In this quaint country of beautiful sunsets and colorful costumes people bathe twice daily. And there is no question that many of them have no convenient bathroom as we do. In the family has a large stove which is used for a bed at night so they can keep warm.

Between this picturesque empire and India, separated by miles and miles of lonely country and ocean, a great change of customs would be seen. In these out-of-the-way places we find people living in mere hovels. They enjoy no running water systems and other conveniences as the most segregated parts of our country enjoy.

In India, where plagues continually cause the death of thousands of families, you will find towns that have no water and sewerage systems. You can see the Indian women balancing on their heads huge jars which they have filled with water drawn from the town well or the sluggish and muddy river.

From Calcutta to Bagdad, thence to Constantinople, you will see that bathing is considered only for the white man and the native aristocracy. On the deserts of Arabia, where water is necessarily used only for drinking, the desire to keep clean is accomplished in a rather "rough" manner. Instead of using water for the bath the Arab vigorously rubs himself with the sand of the desert.

Long and Short Lives in Scheme of Nature

One of the most wonderful things in Nature is the manner in which things are balanced up. The long-lived things propagate their species slowly; the short-lived, rapidly. For instance, elephants, whales, tortoises and carp have been credited with lives of anything from four hundred years downward. And at the other end of the scale we find insects which have a life of hours only. Many theories have been put forward to account for these remarkable distinctions, but the one now most commonly accepted is that the slower the creature is in reaching full maturity and the less its powers of reproduction, the greater will be its average longevity or length of natural life. Nature's object in such an arrangement is fairly plain even to our limited human intelligence. For if such creatures as locusts, breeding with incredible rapidity, had themselves a life of centuries, the world would be within a little while impossible for other existence. And the same result would occur did an elephant with a life of perhaps a couple of hundred years, breed like a locust. In some way, which as yet we may not fully understand, the principle of Nature is to maintain a balance of power in our world.

Explorer's Ruling Passion

When Columbus landed for the first time in the New world he found the Indians, who greeted him "a very poor people." His friend, Las Casas, who wrote the abstract of the Journal of the First Voyage to America, gives the admiral's own account of his interview with the natives as follows: "I was very attentive to them and strove to learn if they had any gold. Seeing some of them with little bits of this metal hanging at their noses, I gathered from them by signs that by going southward or steering around the island in that direction there would be found a king who possessed large vessels of gold and in great quantities." The first thought, even of the man who had just discovered a new world, was of gold!—Youth's Companion.

Reference in Advance

The prospective maid of all work was stating her terms: "I want $15 a week paid in advance, and I don't wash nor scrub floors, nor—"

"But," began the mistress of the house feebly.

"Or work after six o'clock," went on the woman steadily, "and I want every evening off and a fine reference, and—"

"But surely the reference can wait till you leave us?" broke in the mistress, nervously.

"No, I want the letter now," returned the domestic firmly. "I've tried getting them when I leave, and I've never got a good one yet."—Minneapolis Tribune.

English at Home

"When I was cycling through England," writes R. B. W., "I started off one morning to ride from Clacton to St. Osyth. After a while I became uncertain about the road and meeting a laborer I inquired, 'Am I right for St. Osyth?' The man looked puzzled and said he never heard of any such place. 'A second wayfarer whom I asked was equally ignorant. Then came a third. This fellow scratched his head, but presently a look of comprehension dawned upon his face. 'Ay, to be sure. I have it now—it's Snossey we mean!'—New Haven Register.

College and University

The college has about the same relation to a university that a state has to the federal government—that is, as a rule, many colleges go to make a university. The term university, however, has been used loosely in the United States, sometimes applied to an institution offering non-professional instruction beyond the bachelor's degree and having affiliated professional schools.
