Constance plays two distinctly different roles one a lovely but timid young housewife and the other a brazen boisterous Parisian dancer. The two characters are twin sisters.

The story is laid in romantic Vienna, and has to do with a wife who hinks her husband doesn't love her because he consistently fails to demonstrate his affection. So she leaves him and assumes the character of her stage-dancer sister.

In this disguise she charms him so completely that he even elopes with her, but awakens from his fascination in time to realize that he owes after all none but his own wife.

As the story unfolds entrancing glimpses are shown of life in the homes of Vienna and behind the scenes of the theatres. The concluding sequence takes place in a lonely old tavern in the forest relic of the ancient days of old Viennese gaiety.
