Suicide of a New York Merchant.

The community was startled yesterday morning by the intelligence that Mr. C. M. Leupp, a leading leather merchant in the Swamp, and one of our most respected and esteemed fellow citizens, had perished by his own act. The melancholy event occurred at his splendid residence at the corner of Twenty fifth street and Madison avenue, Wednesday evening, at about half past six o'clock.

Mr. Leupp was of a nervous and excitable temperament, and for several months past he has been subject to intervals of great mental depression. To his intimate friends he had once or twice expressed his apprehension that he was becoming insane. These attacks became more and more frequent and severe, and within the past few weeks they have been attended with strange hallucinations, as for instance that his house was in danger of falling down, that he was the object of some mysterious conspiracy, and that he was watched by policemen. His friends had become so much alarmed by these manifestations that measures were about to be taken for placing him for a time under restraint.

On Wednesday, from nine in the morning till four in the afternoon, Mr. Leupp was at his counting room at No. 23 Perry Street, engaged in business. Thence he went home and took dinner, at the usual hour, with his two daughters. During the meal Mr. William F. Cook, of Geneva, an acquaintance and friend, called at the house and sat down at the table with the family. Mr. Cook noticed a singular wildness and strangeness of manner on the part of his host, and being several times urged to remain over night, at last decided that it would be best to accept the invitation.

Soon after dinner Mr. Leupp went to his room and changed his coat. Not long afterwards he came into the room where Mr. Cook and the ladies were in conversation, kissed his daughters with unusual fervor, and then returned to his own apartments. In about five minutes the report of a gun was heard, and upon turning to his apartment the unfortunate man was found lying on his back, a single bullet having passed through his body. The weapon was a double barreled fowling piece, which he had been in the habit of keeping in the house loaded with shot. He appears to have sat down in a chair, opened his vest, and placed the muzzle of the gun against his breast, and then pulled the trigger by means of a ramrod which was found by his side, the great part of the charge entering the heart and causing instantaneous death. A physician was summoned, but of course nothing could be done, except to notify the coroner and the relatives and immediate friends of the deceased.

He was one of the promoters of the Erie railroad enterprise, and formerly one of the directors of the company. He was also a director in the Mechanics' Bank in Wall street, in the Trustees' Bank in Nassau street, and in the Insurance Company, and kindred institutions. His surviving family consists of three daughters, and his father and two brothers and two sisters are also still living. He has left a large estate—sufficient to meet all his liabilities and leave his children well provided for.

Washington Items.

New York, Monday, Oct. 3.

The Herald's Washington dispatches say that the transportation of supplies to the army in Utah and New Mexico were opened at the War Department on Saturday. The Secretary of War being absent, the President deemed it of sufficient importance to go to the department and have the bids opened and registered before him. This unexpected step on the part of the President created some surprise, it appears the aid contractors, Messrs. Russell & Co., will not obtain any one of these contracts, rather than being lower. It is understood that the bid of J. C. Irving & Co., will take the Utah contract for one dollar and thirty-four cents hundred miles—the old contract was one dollar and eighty cents. It is said the bid of Childs & Cox will take the two contracts for New Mexico. The amount of the Utah contract for the first year was over twenty million of dollars.

Orders have been sent from the Navy Department for the return of the United States steamer Washington, the flag ship of the Mediterranean squadron. The flag officer will turn over the command of the squadron to Captain Leach now in command of the Albatross.

There are 55 convicts in the Indiana Penitentiary at Jefferson.

The Haytian Conspiracy—Assassination of the President.

There is known to exist in Hayti a party in favor of Souleuvre. Having been the favorite of the Emperor, his despotism was a source of severe blow to their pecuniary prospects, and they joined with a party of dissatisfied republicans—men who, though they took part in the overthrow of Souleuvre, are yet not content with the present government—in a plot, which had for its scope the assassination of President Geffard and the establishment of new laws. It does not appear that the restoration of Souleuvre was the object, but the revolutionists rather sought, by killing the President, to take advantage of the state anarchy into which such a catastrophe would throw the country. We translate from the Revue de Commerce of September 10 the following account of the attempted assassination:

The conspiracy for the overthrow of the restorer of the republic was, without doubt, a previously formed plot, and the horrible attempt was only the result of it. But the crime far from triumphing, has completely failed.

Last Sunday the people were tranquil, and no cloud appeared to trouble our political horizon. Suddenly, about one o'clock, a rumor was circulated that the General Proprietor had been detected at the head of a conspiracy against the government, and that he was to be immediately taken to a vessel, to be sent off to exile. This was speedily done. All the citizens held them slaves on guard, ready to defend the chief who presides over the destinies of their country.

At about seven o'clock a double detonation was heard near the St. Joseph's gate, and soon after another from the opposite side. Suddenly every heart was filled with indignation; in every quarter it was rumored that the daughter of the President had just been assassinated. Such an atrocious crime could scarcely be believed to have taken place. Every one armed himself, hastened, and saw, to the shame of humanity, that there existed, and exists yet, in the heart of the city a monster, ferocious enough to immolate a young female—to a plyingly assassinate the inoffensive daughter of him who had made so many sacrifices to give liberty to the Haytian people.

This frightful crime was executed by this infernal combination of conspirators. In assassinating the daughter they thought that the distracted father would have been tempted to the bloody scene, and they had ambassadors arranged on the way, from which they would fire at the President as he hurried by, and then the villains would have had full power to seize the capital and enslave the whole country. But, happily, there were with the President in the palace friends who would not permit him to leave.

Horrible Barism in the Marquesas Islands.

Captain Brown, of the Morning Star, furnishes to the Honolulu Advertiser some information as to the marauding doings of the natives in the Islands of the Marquesas group. He says:

We anchored on the 4th of June, and found the people of Paumotu, as usual, as war—that is, butchering each other. I think the natives of this island the worst of the group. They are great warriors when they find their gods asleep. About the time of our arrival, the warriors of Omoa made a descent upon Haraiva, three miles distant, just before day, and although the assailants numbered eighty, they ventured to attack but a single native—Tahitiannes rushing out, only to be shot down. Two men and two women fell, and their severed heads were carried off in triumph. A child, two years old, was taken from the arms of his murdered father, who was endeavoring to escape with it.

The mother made her escape, and begged in vain for her child. It was taken to Omoa, cruelly tortured, and finally strangled, and given, as some of themselves said, to the devil, to propitiate him and gain his favor and assistance in battle.

A chief strayed about the beach and claimed the honor of having killed a woman, whose head our people saw saluted down in a tub. He came on board and asked me for flints. I said, "No; I give you flints, you will use them to shoot women." He finally said he would shoot only men. I asked him if I could visit the tabu ground, where they had placed the dead girl. He said they had a gull up there, meaning a god; that no one who ate with a woman could be allowed to visit the place, which is a beautiful conical grove, upon a hill quite near the anchorage, and from which the fruit is never taken.

At Hivata, Captain Brown found the missionaries all very well, but anxious awaiting the arrival of the packet. Wars, quarrels, murders and cannibalism still abound throughout the group; yet such is the power of religion, that the houses and persons of the missionaries are respected by all classes of the natives.

Civil war continues to prevail as formerly among the petty rival chiefs. The French have withdrawn all their forces and officers from the Marquesas, leaving only a flag flying in one of the Islands. One or two priests also remain there, but otherwise no signs of French authority remain.

Mr. Morgan—Young man! Thy mother is thy best earthly friend. The world may forget you—thy mother never; the world may fully do you many wrongs—thy mother never; the world may persecute you while living, and when dead, plant the ivy and the nightshade of slander upon your grassy grave—but thy mother will love thee.

A trial of five classes of rifled cannon was made at the Washington navy yard on Friday.

A gun-boat throwing a ten pound shell, delivered its shot at 3,400 and 3,440 yards, a little less than two miles.

The shells were two pounds heavier than those used by the French with such terrible effect in their battles in Italy.

A large iron gun to throw a fifty pound shell has just been cast at the yard. Its range will probably be from three and a half to four miles.

These two lines that look so solemn, are only put here to fill this column.

Indian Outrages in Texas.

The Indians continue their depredations upon the frontiers of Texas, not only in the northwest, but in the southeast along the Rio Grande. A party from the other side of that river attacked three or four isolated families living about thirty-five miles from Eagle Pass, a few days ago, and committed the most horrible outrages and murders. The whole savage band ravished a Mrs. Hunter and her two daughters, one six and the other nine years of age, and then beat out their brains. They murdered a Mr. Worman, who was at work in his field, and carried away his wife and her infant, yet the cowardly devils were afraid to attack another man of the settlement, a Mr. Lafferty, who sheltered his family in a ravine and stood over them with a double barreled shot-gun.

One of the Indians, more daring than the others, except to the mouth of the ravine, near enough to slightly wound Mr. L. with arrows, and was himself wounded by a shot from Lafferty's gun. A small party collected and pursued the marauders nearly to the Rio Grande. Where they had stopped for dinner, they had amused themselves by murdering Mrs. Worman's infant, probably before her eyes. It was found lying in a hole by the side of a brook face downwards in the mud and water, with a stone across its back. In a late paper from San Antonio, I see it stated that, instead of at once making good their escape into Mexico, these Indians returned next day and danced and rioted about the scenes of their outrages, and that a party was then sent in pursuit, obtaining from the Commandante (at Piedras Negras I suppose) written permission to follow them into Mexican territory. About forty well armed men were upon the trail, and should they carry the chase into Mexico, they will, in all probability, be resisted by a mixed force of Mexicans and Indians, as was once before the case on a similar occasion in St. Louis Rep.

See item. The Delaware County Free Press says, there will not be less than two hundred and fifty acres of sugar cane raised in that county this year. The Press says:

Those of our farmers who have given the Sugar cane a trial, are confident it will prove remunerative, and are yearly devoting more time and pains to its culture. Several sugar mills have been sold in this county, and many are determined to carry their experiments to the fullest extent. We can but think they will not be disappointed.

LATEST NEWS BY DAILY PAPERS.

New Orleans, Oct. 12. The town of Brownsville, Texas, has been attacked by twenty-eight guerrillas and five of the citizens killed. The jail was broken open, and all the prisoners set at liberty. The excitement was intense. The Mexicans had sent aid from Matamoros. The guerrillas were headed by Cartenas, who shot the sheriff of Brownsville last July in attempting to arrest him. A party of horsemen, one hundred strong, rode into the city and posted sentinels. Gen. Canjaval and others arrived from Matamoros, and persuaded the outlaws to leave. F. B. Brown has been garrisoned by Mexican troops from Matamoros, and the citizens have formed a patrol. The outlaws were encamped near the city, two hundred strong. The Mexican General had visited the camp, and obtained a promise from them not to molest the town again. The citizens still expect an attack, as the outlaws boasted that there were more on the list to be killed. An express had been sent to San Antonio for troops. The Brownsville flag thanks the military and civilian authorities of Matamoros, and blames the government for leaving them defenseless. The Sheriff and posse came down to Point Isabel with the 4-man Arizona mail. The cause of the difficulty was revenge sought by Cartenas for alleged injuries. The citizens mostly fly to Matamoros.

Arrival of the Santa Fe Mail.

The Santa Fe mail of the 18th ult. reached Independence this morning. Messrs. Over, Power and Crenshaw arrived. They confirmed the reported attack on the mail party. The Indians took all the mules, provisions and clothing, but did not molest the mail, which was taken forward by the next out going party. The mailmen carried the dead bodies of four men, supposed Pike's Peakers, two days subsequent to the attack on the outward bound mail.

The detention of the incoming party was owing to their waiting for an ox train, which had been held up by the Indians. The difficulty has been solved by a Mexican. The combined strength of the two trains probably prevented another attack. A company of cavalry has been ordered to march immediately from Ft. Riley to chase the Indians.

Extensive Telegraphic Enterprise—Lines to California and Salt Lake.

Contracts have been awarded to this city by the Western Union Telegraph Co., the Missouri River Telegraph Co., and the Missouri, Kansas and Utah Telegraph Co., by which the former company have become the controllers of all the telegraphic lines west of St. Louis, and arrangements are now in progress and ample means provided to extend the lines of the two latter companies under the general supervision of Charles M. Scribner, Esq. from St. Louis to Ft. Smith, 500 miles on the route of the Butterfield overland mail; and from St. Louis to a station on the Union Pacific. The latter is now in successful operation at a distance of about 500 miles west of St. Louis, and the line to California via Fort Smith, is in good working order, about 300 miles west of St. Louis. By the latter line which will soon open another section of about 300 miles, the Associated Press will receive very full reports of California news three or four days in advance of the arrival of the overland mail at St. Louis and within the next few months it may be reasonably anticipated that the California and Utah lines will become the most important sources of exciting public intelligence.

A YOUTHFUL MURDERER.

In Pittsford, N. C., a few nights since, a boy 12 years of age entered the chamber of his employer, Mr. Van Buren Hopkins, and murdered him with an axe while he slept.

Horrible Death—The Buffalo Republican.

On Wednesday afternoon one of the most horrible accidents ever recorded on the Erie canal, happened at Gillet's saw factory, on Delaware street, near Lake. The name of the victim was Mr. Hugh Hurley, a very respectable man, formerly in the factory, having a family consisting of a wife and five children. During the afternoon one of the workmen in the factory, when passing one of the large vats, in which live was boiling, observed a man faintly struggling in the bubbling liquid, and giving the alarm, the body which was discovered to be that of Mr. Hurley, was drawn out, his flesh fairly boiled! He opened his eyes as he was laid down, gave one gasp and groan, and instantly expired.

The Aurora Borealis in England.—The following description of the aurora borealis from the London Daily News of Aug. 26. It will be remembered that the night of the 28th and 29th was the date of the most brilliant display seen here:

Early this morning, between twelve and one, a most brilliant display of the aurora borealis was observed, extending from the western horizon to the northeast, and from the north and northeast, and reaching to the south. The appearance in the west was that of a large fire, but in the north and northeast it was of a violet color, and flashes of light of the same color darted along the heavens with great brilliancy. This beautiful display lasted for about an hour, and then gradually died away, leaving a serene and unclouded autumnal sky.
