James F. Teague, formerly in hardware business in New Richmond, has disposed of his farm at Queensville, Ind., and is going into the milling business at Jamestown. He has traded his big Queensville farm for Indianapolis property and the flour mill at Jamestown. Mr. Teague held a public sale on the farm yesterday, and Saturday the family moves to Jamestown.

Beginning Wednesday night of next week and continuing for fifteen weeks, the Crystal Theatre, with an aim always to be right up to now, will give its patrons a good treat in the serial pictures of "Lucille Love," two reels of this great picture to be given each succeeding Wednesday night. This is a new move for the Crystal Theatre, but there is nothing too good for the New Richmond people. "Lucille Love," the girl of mystery by the "Master Pen," serves as one of the latest sensational moving picture serials. Learn more about this "Lucille Love" picture by reading the first installment of the story in today's RECORD, then see the picture at the Crystal Theatre next Wednesday night. Then do the same again next week, and the next. Usual prices for Wednesday night pictures. Don't fail to see the picture next Wednesday night.

Saturday evening at about 9:30 o'clock Wm. Kite, wife and two daughters, Jessie and Pearl, and Clarence Banta, were on their return home from Crawfordsville in their automobile, and as they neared the watering trough on LaFayette avenue, a beer wagon (though we wonder why Crawfordsville has use for a beer wagon) was crossing the road to the watering trough, and the Kite car being unable to pass either on one side or the other, struck the wagon, turning it over, and likewise causing the auto to turn upside down in the road. Members of the Kite party say the accident was unavoidable, though Mr. Kite was not running fast. In the upset Mrs. Kite was caught beneath the upturned car, receiving a cut across her forehead that required three stitches to close, two fingers on her right hand were mashed and two ribs broken. Mr. Kite suffered a fractured rib and his back bruised. All the others of the party were bruised and cut but were not so badly hurt. A taxi brought the party on home, stopping at the office of Dr. Wray in New Richmond who dressed their injuries. Yesterday they were reported much better. Mrs. Kite recovering as fast as could be expected. In the accident, though the beer wagon was overturned the horse was not hurt, contrary to report; but if the beer was spilled we did not learn.

The work in the New Richmond schools started again Monday after a week of vacation for the teachers' institute at Crawfordsville.

Our faculty report an enjoyable and beneficial week of institute. The proceedings of the session will be given to the students from time to time. On Monday at Chapel exercises, Mr. Machan reviewed a lecture given by Dean Williams of Ohio.

Mothers' Day will be observed in our school on Friday of this week. This is the same affair that was to have been given on Friday before vacation.

The basket ball season started Monday evening with a good practice in the gym. There were twelve out for this practice. The boys showed plenty of the old time "Pep" and even this early in the season we predict a winning team. Everyone should be on hand at every game and watch us climb step by step to the State Championship place.

Following is a poem by an aspiring Sophomore:

What is the poor man's trouble?
How very sad he looks;
He has three "kids" in High School,
And they all need books.

Mr. Canup (in senior English)
—"Jim, how would a woman talk without teeth?"

Jim—"She would kind of bite her words off."

Squire—"I don't see how she could."

Chester Dunn is arranging to have Ratisbon set to music.

The following is an item contributed by a Freshman:

Miss ——— falls in the flour barrel every morning.

(Better be careful, sonny, or Mr. Canup will get you.)

Match for November 5.

Word has been received that Prof. Kesler is to be married on November 7. We all extend our congratulations.

Machan and Canup ate at the Crawford cafe during institute. First day. (Canup observes waiter coming with finger bowl.)

Canup to waiter—"I don't understand. What's that for any way?"

Waiter—"If Monsieur should want to dip!"

Canup—"Oh, yes I see; but where's the soap?"

Mr. M. F. Coons of Wingate paid us a visit on Tuesday.

Miss Freeman (At teachers basket ball game)—"Why those fellows are in their B. V. D.s"

Miss Shumaker—"What are B. V. D.s?"

Miss Freeman—"Oh you didn't have any brothers, did you?"

Paul Seaman has entered the Freshman class.

Several of the high school students have been day-dreaming this week of the time when they shall be Boston Braves.

Canup says that he will send all basket ball men, having "Charley-horses, to Dr Graves for prompt treatment.

Again let us remind you about November 5.

We wish to thank Mrs. Starr Dunn for the contribution to our school library. The books are greatly appreciated and make a valuable addition to the library.

First Sophomore—"Were the questions hard?"

Second Sophomore—"No, but the answers were."

Ed. Hinton painted his masterpiece on the hall floor.

Uncle Sam was in town Tuesday. The school pupils were greatly amused.

Harry McMillin says some folks won't colonize Wingate even after it has been explored.

We hope the mothers won't forget us Friday.

Special call meeting of New Richmond Lodge, No. 604, F. & A. M., Friday evening, October 16. Work in first degree.

M. J. ROTH, Secy.

WILL C. HIETT.

Col. Mike Smith, Auctioneer. J. W. McCorkle, Clerk.

In her recital next Tuesday evening Miss Mason will give an entirely new program. She will be assisted by Miss Wyoneta Cleveland, pianist, and Miss Marie Wilson, soloist. Both of these young ladies are talented musicians and Miss Mason insures New Richmond people a real treat in hearing them. Reserved seats go on sale today.

Lawrence, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McCormick living five miles north of New Richmond, died at 11:30 o'clock Monday night from diabetes. He was their oldest son, and besides his parents he leaves two brothers. The funeral will occur at 2 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon from the Mintonye church; burial in the Mintonye cemetery.

The congregation of the New Richmond M. E. church will tender a reception to Rev. H. D. Dick and his family at the church this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock sharp. There will be a short program, a social hour and a general good time. Rev. Dick was lately returned to this charge for his third year by the Northwest Indiana Conference, and the congregation are giving this reception in acknowledgement of his return to our church.
