

Tuberculosis Day During Week of November 29th.

By sermons, lectures, motion pictures, exhibits, and many other methods, The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis will enlist thousands of churches, schools and lodges of the country in a simultaneous educational movement against tuberculosis during the week of November 29th. The campaign is to be known as the Fifth Annual Tuberculosis Day Movement.

A special circular entitled "What is Tuberculosis Day Movement" has been prepared and is being widely distributed. The plan of Tuberculosis Day, as explained in the circular, does not necessarily comprehend a special sermon on tuberculosis on November 29th. If a church, school or lodge gives the subject attention in any way during that week, this will help in the national educational movement.

Outlines for lectures or sermons on tuberculosis and "stock" talks on this subject will be furnished free to ministers and others who can use them. Literature for distribution in the churches, schools, lodges, and elsewhere will also be given away in large quantities. Persons wishing such literature, either for the preparation of sermons or talks on tuberculosis, or for distribution in public meetings on Tuberculosis Day, should get in touch with their local anti-tuberculosis society, or if that is not possible, with The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, 105 East 22nd Street New York City.

Avoid Sedative Cough Medicine.

If you want to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia use cough medicines that contain codine, morphine, heroin and other sedatives when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. That cleans out the culture beds or breeding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world wide reputation for its cures. It contains no morphine or other sedative. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

Tigers and the Railway.

When, for the first time, the long, straight steel ribbon of rail penetrated the jungle of Nepal, an independent kingdom situated at the foot of the Himalayas, the explosions of the dynamite cartridges used by the engineers caused the total disappearance of the hordes of man-eaters which had hitherto rendered the district absolutely uninhabitable. During the first two years of the railway construction not a single collee of the five thousand employed in the work fell a victim to tigers, and hunters were convinced that there was not a man-eater within a radius of a hundred and fifty miles.

During the third year fifteen workmen disappeared. The engineers surmised that they had been carried off at night by tigers, but were careful not to voice their suspicion, for fear of causing a panic among the colliers. The noise of the dynamite apparently no longer scared the man-eaters.

At last the line was opened, and during the first year everything went smoothly; the whistling of the locomotives filled the tigers with a wholesome fear!

In September, 1899, a train was derailed some miles from Bankipore because the pointsman was not at his post. Attacked in the signal-box by a tiger, the unfortunate man had been carried off alive into the jungle, and the peasants heard the poor wretch's cries fade away in the distance. The whistling was no longer terrifying to the tigers.

During the following month four workmen were devoured on the line, and five gatekeepers met the same fate. Then came the turn of a station master. For two hours he and his family had to defend themselves against a tiger and his mate. The unfortunate Hindu telegraphed for help, but it arrived too late—the ferocious beasts had succeeded in entering the house by an insecurely fastened window!

Finally the railway company decided to rebuild the little isolated stations and to screen the doors and windows. For signalmen and gate-keepers veritable fortresses in miniature were constructed. These refuges are of masonry; the door is large enough to admit a man, but narrow enough to impede a tiger's head. Inside is a telephone, in communication with the two nearest stations, and the rules insist that these shelters shall always contain a jar of fresh water. Thanks to these measures, the number of victims has considerably decreased during the last five years. But even now, all over India, numbers of railway employes are caught on the line and killed by these terrible man-eaters.—From "Man-Eaters" in the October Wide World Magazine.

The Narrow Skirt.

You've a
Very narrow
Skirt,
Little girl;
Are you
Sure it
Doesn't hurt,
Little girl?
That's a
Mincing little Stride,
Where the Street is
Wild and wide,
Are you
Sure there's Room inside,
Little girl?
What would Happen if you
Slip,
Little girl?
Aren't you
Afraid 'twill
Rip,
Little girl?
You had Better take
A sack
So if any Thing should Crack,
It would Serve you
Coming back,
Little girl.

Let the Bottom out
A bit,
Little girl;
It is Much too tight
A fit,
Little girl,
As the Matter sadly
Stands,
You'll be Walking on
Your hands,
And in
That event—
My Lands!!!
Little girl.

Receipt for a Kiss.

At the fiftieth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Homoeopathic Medical Society, held at Wernersville, Pa., Dr. William F. Snow, secretary of the American Social Hygiene association gave this receipt for a kiss.

Cut out a square of tissue paper. Subject it to a bath in a sanitary solution.

Dry the paper, and then place over the mouth.

Then—
Kiss.

But don't wear out the paper or break through.

These precautions, Dr. Snow said, would make kissing safe. There was a suggestion that throwing kisses might be safer.

A Marvelous Escape.

"My little boy had a marvelous escape," writes P. F. Bastians of Prince Albert, Cape of Good Hope. "It occurred in the middle of the night. He got a very severe attack of croup. As luck would have it, I had a large bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. After following the directions for an hour and twenty minutes he was through all danger.
