GRAY'S INN.

JOHN GRAY feels himself in duty bound to present the public his sincere thanks for the liberal share of patronage which they have shown him in his line of business; and embraces this opportunity of informing his friends, and the public generally, that he still continues to keep a PUBLIC HOUSE, with enlarged improvements to his former accommodation. He has been at great expense in furnishing his house with every necessary convenience to render the situation of travellers as comfortable as any in the place. His Stable is well provided with the best kind of Oats, Corn and Hay; and attended by a careful Hostler; and he flatters himself, that from his own unremitting attention, the carefulness of his Hostler, and the excellence of his liquors, he will continue to get an equal share of the travelling and country custom.

HUNT'S HOTEL, Lawrenceburgh, Indiana.

The Subscriber returns his thanks to his friends, and the public in general, for their liberal patronage in his line of business; and requests a continuance of their favours.

He has got his large new Brick Building on High street, well furnished and neatly fitted up, and he flatters himself he will be able to accommodate travelling Gentlemen and Ladies, with the best the country will afford.

His Stable will constantly be furnished with the best of Hay, Oats and Corn, and every attention will be paid to his guests.

JESSE HUNT.
