All Ready!

The Democracy of Pike Prepared for the Charge.

The Battle is Now on and Everything Looks Favorable.

Put Shoulder to Shoulder and Work With Might and Main.

A Glorious Victory Now Awaits the Democracy of the United States.

With firm reliance in the intelligence and virtue of the people, with an abiding faith in the eternal justice of its cause, the democracy of Pike county has delayed the beginning of an active campaign until a late hour, after all the forces of the opposition have taken the field and the big guns and little sophistry and falsehood, of bluff and bluster, of demagoguery and calumny have been heard in ineffectual roar for sometime. The democracy of Pike county has heeded the admonition of that gallant old democratic soldier who commanded his troops to withhold their fire until they could "see the whites of the enemy's eyes." That time is at hand. The rallying standard is raised—"Equal Rights to All; Special Privileges to None." No ammunition has been wasted. The powder is dry and the guns are loaded. Every hand is steady and heart true as steel. The command has come—"Fire!"

The same forces which two years ago made such a gallant fight in Pike county have silently but effectively been at work ever since. The people have been reading. They have been thinking, and in a community where conscience rules there can be but one result.

The democratic majority must be increased. The national, state and county tickets must carry the county. It can be and will be if democrats will but do their duty. And it is yet to be recorded that the democracy of this county has ever failed of its duty.

The democratic campaign has been made in advance. The principles for which the party stands need but little urging. There are a few specious lies to confute, a few bogies to lay, a few sheeted ghosts, behind which licensed plunderers hide, to exercise. That is all. The time is all sufficient for this.

The democratic party stands opposed to a system of tariff taxation that lies, that cheats, that steals. It does not demand free trade, which every intelligent man knows and every reasonable man admits is impossible under the present governmental expenditures. But it does demand a freer trade. It does demand the removal of oppressive taxes on the necessities of the poor and that the rich be made to bear an honest share of the public burdens. It demands a tariff for revenue, which must of necessity furnish incidental protection to such American industries as need and merit it. It opposes a tariff for protection with incidental revenue.

It stands for honest money in the states against the interpolation of federal agents through the agency of force bills drawn by republican ballot box. It stands for an honest money which may be reached by the people and cannot be made the tool of money-changers, every dollar of which when "put into the hands of the people shall be of the same intrinsic value or purchasing power." It does not desire a perpetual national bank currency based on an everlasting national debt.

It stands opposed to billonism whether in the administration of national, state or local affairs. It stands for the honest and equal taxation of property whether under individual or corporate control.

It stands for the prompt punishment of election crimes in any and all parties and opposed to the rewarding of crimes against popular suffrage. It will stand between the people and the desperate and dangerous conspiracy set afoot by unscrupulous ambition and corporate wealth to usurp the express will of the state electorate by appeal to partisan courts; to undo the legislation of the past thirteen years represented in the ballot law, the school-book law, the eight-hour law, the miners' relief law, the anti-"black-man" store law, and scores of like righteous enactments.

It stands for justice against privilege, for the people's rights against licensed exploitation, for personal liberty and popular liberty against canting phariseism and armed usurpation.

Let the battle begin.

The seventh attempt to organize a republican club was made last night at the office of John White. It seems to be a hard matter to even get enough together to talk politics.

For Cleveland and Reform, Ex-Attorney-General Wayne MacVeagh has written a letter to John W. Carter, secretary of the Massachusetts reform club, in which he announces that he will vote for Grover Cleveland. The letter says, in part:

As both parties have presented exceptional candidates there is no reason why the difference which exists upon questions of public policy should be discussed otherwise than in good humor and with entire respect for each other's opinions. In the present campaign, who may fairly be called the sales alarums of the canvass will prove of little value, because of the general character of the candidates.

The writer finds himself in full accord with the democratic party and finds it more easy to act with them because the republican party, securing its return four years ago by promising to preserve matters as they were, at once embarked upon what he regards as a reckless and revolutionary policy, even overturning all the safeguards of legislation in the house of representatives in their haste to pass the force bill and the McKinley bill, both, to his mind, unnecessary and unwise measures.

Passing over the force bill with a reference to the earnest and widespread opposition thereto, and the advocacy, two years ago, of the measure by President Harrison, Gen. MacVeagh takes up the tariff, of which he says:

The economic evils, however great, of the McKinley bill, and the unreasonable system of protection it represents are of far less importance than the evils of the tariff which follow in its wake. In deciding for what purposes the masses of the people may properly be taxed it must not be forgotten that taxes have a wonderful capacity for filtering through all intervening obstacles till they reach the bowed back of toll and resting there, and therefore the giving of bounties, under any form of taxation, is mainly the giving away of the wages of labor. The truth that the cause of the poor is their poverty is illustrated in nothing more clearly than in the undue share they suffer of the burdens of taxation. But even such inequality and injustice are the lesser evils, for while such a system endures political corruption is absolutely sure to increase, as such a system not only invites, but it requires the giving away of money to the politicians and the corrupt use of money to the politicians. The republican party ought to be an honest money party and it would be if it could; but while it demanded increased bounties for its favorite manufacturers it could not refuse increased bounties to the other producers, as the votes they control were probably necessary to the passage of the McKinley bill. The poison of a debased currency is making itself more and more felt by every channel of business and finance, and it is inevitably driving gold out of the country and leading us to all the evils of a fluctuating and therefore dishonest currency based upon silver alone. If congress were to levy taxes upon the people, to confer bounties upon certain classes of manufacturers, it was very natural that the pension agents should also join hands to increase their fees by an inflated currency of pensions. The result is that nearly a generation after the close of the war there is a steady increase of the vast sum passing through the pension agents' hands, until the total amount granted exceeds the sum of the war. The result is that nearly a generation after the close of the war there is a steady increase of the vast sum passing through the pension agents' hands, until the total amount granted exceeds the sum of the war.

Gen. MacVeagh is convinced that the old cause in which he is interested cannot hope for success until the avowed policy of the republican party on this subject is overturned, or until then the right of each state to control elections within its borders will not be secure; there is no prospect of the United States enjoying the single and stable standard of value which other civilized and commercial nations possess; there is no hope of placing either our pension system or the regulation of immigration upon just and proper basis; the purification of politics would continue "the iridescent dream" which high republican authority has declared it must always remain, and any pretended reform of the civil service proved a delusion and a snare.

The letter says that even ballot reform must share the same fate of betrayal in the house of its pretended friends. All these good causes are, in the very nature of things, the relentless foes of a system of government by bounties to favored interests, and such a system is their relentless foe.

What Chase thinks of Democrats. Governor Chase at Union City, April 21, 1892. Democrats are imps of hell. If I had a maled to swear, I'd say God damn them to hell. They ought to be dead and mauling in the dust of the earth, and the dust be scattered to the four winds of heaven that they might be completely obliterated from the memory of man.

Union City Eagle, Republican Organ of Randolph county, April 21, 1892.

We submit the question whether Governor Chase's speech was as courteous, discreet, patriotic and manly as the resolution claims it to be. Was it discreet or courteous for a minister of the church of God, a follower of the lowly Nazarene and a teacher of his word, with his lessons of mercy toward "even the least of these" to speak of human beings, even the vilest as "imps of hell," and express the wish that "God would damn them to hell," thereby violating his command, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain?" Was it discreet, courteous, patriotic or manly? We leave the question with our readers.

If the editor of the Press has an opinion as to who is the candidate for representative on the republican ticket now is the time to spit it out. Are you supporting the nominee of that convention by the nominee of the "rump" convention?

"Old Si."

Visits the City and Attends the Reunion.

Has a Splendid Time and Meets Many of His Old Comrades.

He has Something to Say About County Politics and Other Things in General.

Gives the County Board a Little Lift and Roasts a Few Others Gently.

At Home, Oct. 10, 1902.

To my Dear Friends at Large: As I sed in my letter last week I would attend the reunion of my old comrades. I was unable to make my observance trip to Clay township, and in consequence I will have to give you a little account of what I learned at the fair ground and around the county seat. I had sum right smart talks with the ole boys in blue who were with me in times when peace wasn't very plenty, but cold led wuz. As I sed we boys hed sum right smart talk about the politics of our ole county Pike, and I tell you my friends, we sumtimes waxed pretty warm. We talked a gud deal about what our commishuners den but what they raised our county levy and the townships. Just to think of it, raising more money than what we need. How air they goin to spend it?

What do they want to raise $20,000 more than they have use for? We had a gud board of commishuners, but because it wuz nearly all composed of dimmiks it thought it wuzn't gud enuff, and so we made it republican, and now you see what we get for it. The first time they get a chance at us, they hit our pocketbooks hard—that is, they raised our taxes nearly half. Is that what we old-time republicans have been preachin for nigh outer thirty years? No, we hav bin saying that "democracy wuz a tax," but we now find that our reliable republican staff is a tax, en it hes made it purty stiff to. We air just goin to wipe that board out and make her once agin dimmiks so that our taxes will be lower. I paid into the county bank more than $20 less this year than I did the time bed, and why wuz it? Just simply this: that we hed a lower rate than we hed for yeres and it wuz done by the dimmiks.

We kant boller any more, "The dimmiks is a tax," because we wud be laying like h—l as brother Chase, guvener of our state wud say. I didn't jest put me in mind of it, I had bled all these yeres stories bout "Parson" Chase swearing the way he does, until I herd him at our reunion. He can rip 'er out bout ez well ez anybody I'er ever herd, and I'll bet me ole Nancy horse that if he ever gits mad he cud make the air blue fer miles around. But of course he being on our ticket it iz not so bad. When he wuz "knocked down" to the congressman as our guvener I cud hardly believe my eyes. I expected to see a man with a massive brow and gud intellect, but I wuz mistaken. He aint the man I thought he wuz, en I don't think that is much in him.

I hed a gud time mixin with the ole boys. We hed sum gud stories to tell eche other and hed sum splendid speeches. A big number of our republican candidates got to speak on show themselves. We no, yo, no, how to do it. Sed! Our big reunion wuz well managed and wuz a success ez far ez I no, en I hope the next wun will be grander and better 'er ever bed.

I herd a little feller make a speech in the middle of the street Friday nite. He wuz talkin bout penshuns on all this en that en how he wuz workin for the government, and wuz now in Indiana neglecting his business, en I suppose he only gets bout eight dollars a day fer tellin the people how the boys gits $2, $4 and $6 a month. He hed better be at his post of duty lookin over his 500 claims, en givin the boys what belongs to 'em then skoutin round tryin to fix things bout the crookidness in the penshun department. That iz a skrew loose sumwhere, en I herd as how he en all the rest of them eight dollar a day men who live in Uncle Sam's house, are out eck-shunin and makin speeches for our grande ole party. We air bound to spend the surplus, en this iz wun way we hev ov doing it. Sed!

Lots of Logen fellers were in last week, en that will be more ov them at the eckshun next month. We had our korkus wuz nite the forepart of this last week, en we settled onto sum facts, en I wuz selected as the main guy who should connect with the county chairman, Jim Brumfield. I never did hav much hankerin after Jim, but then I had to see him. Well, I laid our korkus open to him and let him luk into the prospects of the thing. Of course it didn't luk gud to him, ez he is expecting to fill two positions—deputy sheriff and deputy recorder. Yu see neither wun of the offices can afford an extra man en he is lookin for both. Yu no Jim wuz sheriff ont en ever since he hed a hankerin after office. En let me say that he hev never left the kourt house for a minit since he went out of office. Yu see when he herd from Logen his under jaw went in a foot. It wuz a hard blow to Jim. We are just goin to knock sum of these off scissers out. Us country people air gittin tired and we don't propose to eckst such men eny more. We air fer wurkers, not place wurkers. I got to talk sum politiks with a gud meny ole friends from all parts of the county, en in their talk it seems to me that there is goin to be a general shaking up of dry bones. The ole boys and lots of the young wuns air gittin tired of havin tu er three fellers run the hole republican party in this county. We du the work and they git the pay and fat off. See!

Sum of our boys hinted to me that our kandidate fer sheriff wuz settin 'em up purty lively, en that he hed sold off everything except the ole nag. He is thinking he is goin to be elected, and we think he will be—tu stay to home. We air onto him down in this section, and I herd that there are sum other sections which will know him in a few days. I heard sum miners talkin last Friday evening en what they were talkin bout wudden be gud news to him.

But, Mr. Edytur, I will have to konclude this now and finish next week what I wanted to say. I hev taken up tu much of yer space already en hopin that we will meet in the new future, I remain, Yours in gud helth.

ST. SLOUGH. ONCE MORE.—Mi ole woman wuz with me and she says it beats thunder how the parson can swear. But she got mighty stuck on Cole, our kandidate fer prosecuting attorney.

AGNY.—Have you sene that nice young man to paste up mi picturs and handbills? I will komence lecturin bout krismas trees and already have gud dates made in Nox county at several skool houses.

Yours to date, SI

For Sale. 40 acres of land within one-half mile of the town of Winslow 33 acres under cultivation, price $800. Also 80 acres 1 1/2 miles south of Winslow 33 acres under cultivation price $800. Also 80 acres 2 1/2 miles south of Winslow, all in woods, will make a splendid farm, price $1,000. All of the above on easy terms. Enquirer or write, G. B. ASHBY, Petersburg, Ind.

A nice line of visiting cards just received at this office. Ladies call and see them.

The following marriage licenses have been issued the past week: Cornelius Taylor to Louisa Huffman, A. W. Radcliff to Annie A. Chappell, Fred A. Stewart to Effie L. Anderson, George Martin, county recorder, was out in the wilds of Knox county last Wednesday, where the weeds are fifteen feet high and the roads run through corn and wheat fields. At one time George got scared and thought he heard the scream of the Davess county panther, but it was all a mistake. If ever George makes another trip into that section he will take an armed squad with him.

County Treasurer Owen Smith did not come over to town yesterday morning, but instead sent the keys over and had his deputy open up the office and cash box. There was wonder and surprise why Owen did not appear at the office, but it was soon learned that a young man had made his appearance at the Smith home and will cast his first presidential vote in 1916. All doing nicely.

The truth thrills when it is put in cold type and then read by the masses in Pike county about the republican board of commissioners raising the tax levy of the county and townships. These gentlemen are elected by the people to look after their interests, and not to attend the meetings and bump heads together and do nothing. They are paid by the people to look after their interest and to make the burdens of the people as light as possible. Have they done it? No.

The Press yesterday says the Indianapolis News is out for Harrison, and that it formerly leaned toward democracy. The News has been a republican paper from its infancy and has always supported the republican party and its candidates. The News is owned by Clark W. Fairbanks, of Indianapolis, who is a dyed-in-the-wool republican, and who is billed to speak here at a future date. Does that look as if the News was an independent democrat organ? Well hardly.

Strength and Health. If you are not feeling strong and healthy, try Electric Bitters. If a grippa has left you weak and weary, use Electric Bitters, this reliable acts directly on liver, stomach and kidneys, gently aiding these organs to perform their functions. If you are afflicted with sick headache, you will find speedy and permanent relief by taking Electric Bitters. One trial will convince you that this is the best remedy for all ailments. Only 50c at J. R. Adams & Sons drug store.

A Republican Check. The American Farmer is the title of a neatly printed, profusely illustrated periodical published in Washington by Mr. Baum's financial friend, Pension Solicitor Lemon. While published ostensibly for the advancement of agriculture, a glance at the pages will readily convince even a wary farmer that its object is to influence and control his political action rather than teach him what Pension Solicitor Lemon "knows about farming." The trick would be shrewd if not so transparent, and Mr. Lemon and his party will find that but few of the honest, unsuspecting farmers will be enticed through its deception into Little Ben's paper, National Democrat.

Concerning the elevation of John Wamamaker to the head of the post-office department, William Dudley Foulke, of Indiana, says: "In this appointment we have reached the lowest mark of American politics." Foulke describes himself as a lifelong Republican and says he supported Harrison in 1888, but pitifully remarks that he thinks his state will go Democratic this fall. The impression gains ground that the president made a bad bargain when he sold the post-office department to John Wamamaker for $100,000.—Chicago Times.

Democratic Meetings!

Democratic meetings will be held at the following places and addressed by those advertised:

Stendal, Saturday, October 15, at 1 o'clock p. m.

Veipen, Saturday, October 15, at 7 o'clock p. m.

A Little Girl's Experiences in a Light-house. Mr. and Mrs. Loren Truett are keepers of the Government Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Michigan, and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones."—Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at J. R. Adams & Sons' drug store.

O. K. Shaving Parlor. Only first-class barber in town. All those wishing a nice, clean and easy shave should give me a call. I make a specialty of hair cutting. None but first-class tonorial artists employed by me. Shop on Eighth Street between Main and Walnut.

Notice to Non-Resident. The State of Indiana, Pike County. In the Pike Circuit Court, November Term, 1902. William Thornton vs. Complaint No. 276. Elmina Thornton.

Now comes the plaintiff by George B. Sarvey, his attorney, and files her complaint herein, together with an affidavit, that the residence of the defendant Elmina Thornton is unknown, and that diligent inquiry has been made to ascertain the residence of said defendant, but that said inquiry has not disclosed the residence of said defendant. Therefore, the plaintiff prays that she be allowed to be heard and appear on the first day of the next term of the Circuit Court to be held on the second Monday of November, A. D. 1902, at the Court House in Petersburg, in said county and state, and answer or demur to said complaint, the same will be heard and determined in their absence. In witness whereof, I hereunto set my hand and affix the seal of said Court at Petersburg this 15th day of October, 1902.
