We are needing a few dollars to pay some of our existing obligations and if those of our subscribers who owe us will send us what they owe we will be enabled to pay them off. There are several subscribers who live in other states that owe from one to four years who must send in their amounts at once or they will be left with attorneys for collection.

Tuesday was show day and the grafters and skingame gamblers that generally follow a show were present and got in their work. There was the usual shell game, the fish racket and the perfumery games in which the operator always win and the suckers loose to a certainty. A large number of people went up against these games for amounts ranging from $1 to over $100. Some of those who bit wanted the gamblers arrested, but could not identify the gamblers who operated the games. It is strange indeed that people will bite at these schemes or try to get a sharper's money, but it seems that there are plenty of them when the opportunity presents itself, as they think of getting something for nothing. A slick gang was here with the Wallace show and it is estimated that they skinned the people who bit on the games out of over $1,000. Such gangs should not be permitted to fleece the people, and on days of this kind the policemen should promptly suppress and arrest the gamblers.

Sheridan Osborne, a miner employed in the Cabel & Kauffman mines at Hartwell, was killed last Tuesday morning by slate falling on him. He was seen alive about 9:30 o'clock that morning and was found sometime about noon. Large pieces of slate had fallen on him and crushed him down. His back was broken as was also his breast, besides numerous other injuries from which it is supposed that he died almost instantly. Dr. Kime, county coroner, was summoned Tuesday afternoon and left to hold an inquest and returned yesterday morning. James Epperson, deputy state mine inspector, was also notified of the death, and he also made an official examination of the death of Osborne. The unfortunate man was 34 years of age and leaves a wife and one child. The funeral took place Wednesday and burial at the Augusta cemetery.

Sunday last was a big day for the Methodist congregation of this city. For several weeks past the pastor and official members had been planning to lift the debt from the church property, and it had been arranged for Bishop Bowman to be present on that day, but on Saturday Rev. Rader received a message from the venerable bishop that he had missed the train at Terre Haute and would not be able to be present. This was a great disappointment to the people who desired to see and hear him. Dr. Talbott, the presiding elder, however, was present and preached both morning and evening. The song service both morning and evening was appreciated by the congregations. At the morning service the collection was taken to raise the indebtedness and something over $1,300 was secured and at the evening service the amount was increased to $1,433.75. This amount will clear the church property of all indebtedness and leave a balance to make some necessary repairs. The attendance at both services was very large and the sermons of Dr. Talbott were learned, spiritual and appreciated by the audiences.

Tuesday afternoon during the performance at Wallace's show the residence of Hon. E. P. Richardson on Ninth street, was looted by thieves. Upon Mrs. Richardson's return home from down town she was confronted by seeing bureau drawers and other receptacles lying on the floors in the front rooms of the residence and things scattered all over the floors. She went from room to room and the same sight met her gaze. Mr. Richardson was telephoned for and he went home. He immediately notified Sheriff Ridgway and a search was made of the cars on the side tracks with the result that nothing was found. Marshal Lory and his deputies went on the hunt and Mr. Wallace, proprietor of the show, and C. Thompson, one of the show's detectives, went to work on the case and before nine o'clock almost all the goods were recovered. They had been hid under one of the big wagons on the show grounds. The thief in order to get away with the goods took the wheelbarrow at the house. In all there was nearly $500 worth of silverware, clothing, linens, etc., taken. After the goods were found Policemen Ficklin and Garland arrested one of the canvassmen who was pointed out by the detective and he was lodged in jail. The fellow gave his name as Henry Heisen. Wednesday he was taken before Squire Brady for examination. Several parties who seen the man with the wheelbarrow were called to identify him, but they were not positive and some said he was not the man, consequently in the afternoon he was released from custody and left town. It is the general opinion that the wrong man was pointed out.

The Wallace show has come and gone. The exhibition in all its details was one of the finest ever seen here. There were many new features, among which were the Nelson family, acrobats, the Stirk family, bicyclists, Billy Schaar, the trick bicyclist, the Dellmeads in historical postures, and others that might be mentioned. The trapeze, bar and contortion acts were fine. The menagerie was one of the great features of the show and which attracted a great deal of attention. The horses were magnificent specimens, nearly all of which were iron greys with the exception of those taking part in the hippodrome races. This show has been noted for the fine horses which it carries with it. Charles Sweeney, the old and well known versatile clown, is still with the show and is now the equestrian director. The attendance at both the afternoon and evening entertainments was very large and all went away well pleased.

The Logan township Sunday school convention, according to previous arrangements, was held at Olive Branch church, on Thursday, August 17th. This was the most largely attended and certainly was the most interesting convention that has been held in the county so far this year. The attendance unusually good—in fact it was splendid, and all expressed themselves as being well pleased with the meeting, and we are sure from the pledges taken and the enthusiasm manifested, that there will be much and lasting good result from that meeting. The good citizens of that neighborhood very generally laid aside their work and came out, not only to enjoy the meeting themselves, but to see that those from other townships should be well cared for. All the subjects were thoroughly discussed. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John Hightower; vice-president, Dr. J. H. Basinger; secretary and treasurer, Miss Polly Hunt; superintendent home department, Isaac Crocchus. Nearly, if not all these persons are officers in the various Sunday schools of the township, and therefore know something of the needs of these schools. We feel sure their efforts will be felt in old Logan this year. The following gentlemen from other townships, assisted in the meeting: Reva. Pitts, Jensen, Vancleve, Miller, Barrett and C. E. Miloy, Clarence Selby, Columbus Burkhardt, Ephraim Barrett and M. L. Heathman. Music was splendid, being furnished by Olive Branch and Mt. Pleasant choirs. M. L. HEATHMAN.
