Sore Mouth Among Cattle.

(Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station, Newspaper Bulletin No. 67, September 26, 1898.)

A few weeks ago a disease commonly called sore eyes among cattle, assumed an epidemic form in many parts of the state. Now several localities are reporting another disease called sore mouth or sore foot and mouth. This disease made its appearance in the state in the fall of 1891 and in 1892. Since that time very few cases have been seen. It is a disease that attacks cattle of any age and in a few instances attacks horses.

It occurs among animals on pasture and is supposed to be due to some condition of the grass. It is not known to be contagious but it is a good policy to separate the diseased and affected as a safe precaution.

The symptoms are as follows. The animal ceases eating, stands and frequently champs the jaws, and saliva drips from the corners of the mouth. The muzzle has a peculiar brownish hue which extends to the nostrils and to the inside of the lips. The inside of the lips, gums, pads and sides of the tongue become reddish. The tongue swells, sometimes to such an extent as to keep the mouth open. There is a very disagreeable odor about the mouth. After a few days the membrane peels off the gums, lips and tongue in patches, leaving them raw. There is often lameness and soreness of the teats. The disease runs its course in from six to ten days, dying which time the animal will be unable to eat anything hard. The bowels are usually constipated.

The treatment is to apply an astringent wash. Tannic acid, one-half ounce; borax, powdered, one ounce; glycerine, eight ounces, and water sufficient to make a quart, has been recommended. A saturated solution of boric acid is good. Cresoline—one-half ounce to the quart of water is also good. Make gruels and sloppy feed for diet.

In a few cases this disease has been reported as black tongue. This is a mistake, as black tongue is one form of anthrax.

A Short Sad Story.

A Cold. Neglect. Pneumonia. Grief.

Had Foley's Honey and Tar been used this story would have had a happier ending. J. R. Adams & Son.

Three Doctors in Consultation.

"When you are sick, what you like best is to be chosen for a medicine in the first place; what experience tells you best, to be chosen in the second place; what reason (i.e., Theory) says it is best to be chosen in the last place. But if you can get Dr. Inclination, Dr. Experience and Dr. Reason to hold a consultation together, they will give you the best advice that can be taken."

—From Benjamin Franklin.

When you have a bad cold Dr. Inclination would recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is pleasant and safe to take. Dr. Experience would recommend it because it never fails to effect a speedy and permanent cure. Dr. Reason would recommend it because it is prepared on scientific principles, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition. For sale by J. R. Adams & Son.

Non-Resident Notice.

To John T. Simpson and all others whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that on the 27th day of September, 1898, an application was filed in the Pike circuit court, in the state of Indiana, by James Ward, for the appointment of an administrator for the estate of John T. Simpson and for an order of the court declaring him dead, alleging as a reason for said appointment that on the first day of January, 1893, said John T. Simpson, then and there being a bona fide resident of the county of Pike, state of Indiana, left his said residence and said county and went to parts unknown, leaving an estate situated in said county of Pike, state of Indiana, of about the value of five hundred dollars, and for the space of more than five years has continuously secreted himself from his said residence and his whereabouts is not now known. By said petition it is made to appear that said property is suffering waste for want of proper care and that his children are in need of the use and proceeds of such property for their support and education.

Said application for the appointment of an administrator for the estate of said John T. Simpson will be heard by the said court, on the eighth day of the ensuing November term, (being November 22, 1898) or as soon thereafter as the court can hear the same. Witness my hand and the seal of said court this 27th day of September, 1898.
