VERNON SCHOOL NOTES

"THE BREEZE"

HOW WE GOT ALONG WHEN OUR MOTHER WAS AWAY.

One day not long ago our mother went to visit a friend in another town and left my brother and I to take care of the house. Before she left she told us to sweep the floor, dust the furniture and wash the dishes. The first thing we did was to start to wash the dishes. We put all of them in the kitchen sink and turned on the hot water. Just then we heard some one shouting at our door that there was an airplane coming. Of course we rushed out to see it, forgetting, in our excitement, that we had left the water running and that it could not escape through the drain pipe because we had stopped it up. After seeing the airplane, which proved to be a small scouting plane, we returned to the kitchen. The sight that met our eyes was enough to make us have visions of shingles, straps and hickory switches, for the water had overflowed and was running out the kitchen door in a small river. I rushed through the hot water, which was about one inch deep all over the floor. This was hard work and we did not get it done until ten o'clock. This left us two hours to sweep, dust, and get dinner.

The next thing we did was to dust the furniture and sweep the floor. We had to dust over again because the dust raised while sweeping settled on the chairs, tables and everything. After dusting we began to get dinner and, aside from using salt to sweeten our coffee, and burning the meat it was a success. When we were washing the dishes after dinner we were very careful to turn the water off before going outside to see a dog fight that occurred in front of our house.

When our mother came home that evening she played a merry tune on the seat of our pants, for the hot water had blistered the varnish on the kitchen floor.

COMMISKEY.

The steel is gone—now it is sand—and half a foot to a foot deep. Surely not much improvement over the steel. Frank Corya did not get to haul tobacco to Madison last week for anybody, as it was so muddy he couldn't go with his truck.

We are told that Mrs. Mabel Kinder who is teaching at Tea Creek, has dismissed school on account of flu and scarlet fever.

Our town has scarcely seen an auto (unless under a shed) for the past week. Even a Ford can't travel the pikes and Dr. Mathews has been driving a horse in his practice. We think old Dobbin won't go out of use for awhile yet.

Grant Wilkerson, who lives west of town, but was a former resident here, is reported very sick of measles.

Ezra Jolly, another boy who was reared here, also has had a bad attack of measles at his home near Hayden. His brother, Everett Jolly, of this town, reports him as better.

John Wagoner has sold his farm west of town to a party from Kentucky.

A wave of flu has struck our town and the surrounding country and nearly every one is afflicted more or less.

WHO SAID WE WERE?

The Vernon correspondent for one of the local papers says the editor of the Times is sick but we are putting out a paper just the same. Who says we're no in the game?

WESTON.

It takes but a short trip over the highways just now to convince the most skeptical that our highway laws are either badly out of joint or badly administered.

Grant Wilkerson is in a critical condition with the measles.

There has not been a poorer prospect for wheat for many years than at the present time.

Scarlet fever has made its appearance. Tea Creek school has been closed as the result.

W. A. Short has moved his home saw mill to a point two miles southeast of here and will have it ready for operation as soon as the roads will allow the moving of the engine.

Frank Mousa has sold his farm here recently purchased of E. R. Green, to a Mr. Harmon, brother of Chas. Harmon, of Lovett, who will take possession soon.

Miss Eva Childs, of Seymour, visited her grandmother here from Friday until Monday.

James Kinder will soon move into the property now occupied by Clark Mousa.

James Boardman and wife are the proud parents of a new boy. At a meeting held here Saturday to talk over the creek dredging a representative crowd was present and a committee was appointed to ascertain the condition of the outlet for the proposed ditch and to report the prospects at a future meeting.
