

Richmond.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1827.

The next Legislature. If we may judge by the frequent reference to the subject in the different papers of the state, a more than usual interest is felt in the approaching session of the Legislature. The dispo- sition which may be made of the lands granted to the state for purposes of inter- nal improvement seems to be the subject of principal anticipation. The subject is surely an interesting one—and we are glad that public attention has been directed towards it. The objects to be effected by the grants of land alluded to, are the Wa- bash canal, and the road from Lake Mi- chigan to the Ohio. For the Wabash ca- nal a very liberal donation was placed at the disposal of the Legislature—sufficient it is thought, nearly or quite to construct a canal. The canal, tho' it may fall short of the anticipations of some of its friends, will yet afford considerable facility for transportation to the inhabitants on the Wabash. And if, by a judicious disposal of the lands, it may be constructed, we say, with all our heart. For two or three months in the spring the Wabash and, probably, the Maumee, are navigable during which time the canal may be of great service to them in sending their pro- duce to a northern market, and in receiv- ing their supplies of goods. As the coun- try is rapidly settling, the projected ca- nal becomes more and more important.

Respecting the location of the con- tem- plated road from Lake Michigan to the Ohio, much interest seems to be felt in the counties along the Ohio; and it is right and proper that there should. Some one of the towns on the Ohio must be selected for the termination of the road in that di- rection. Lawrenceburgh, Vevay, Madis- son and New Albany, we believe all ad- vance some claims to the preference. For the purpose of opening the road, our read- ers remember, one section is granted for each mile, which, with proper manage- ment, will open the road, and considerably improve it.

Neither of these subjects immediately af- fect this part of the state; but we ought not to be insensible to any measures calcu- lated to improve any part of the state. The prosperity of others, cannot lessen ours; and these particular objects will be doubt be extensive there. Georgia has not increased her resources; but she has gambled away her character!

Greece.—It is stated that the Greek force amounts to 28,300 troops, and 128 vessels of different sizes. Great activity is using to repair old and build new ones.

The Greeks.—The Greek committees of New York and Albany have [despatched two vessels fully laden with provisions and clothing for the relief of the suffering women and children, and old men of Greece. The cargoes of the two amount- ed to $34,116. They contemplate send- ing another next month. The first that sailed had arrived at Gibraltar. The New York committee have on hand in money, clothing and provisions, $4,100, and the Albany committee, $5,750.

A second vessel has also sailed from Philadelphia with 1850 barrels of assorted provisions, for the suffering Greeks.

Brother Scott seems to be in earnest— just listen to him!

CENTREVILLE. For the satisfaction of emigrants and others, we would state, that this town is not advancing so slowly as some of our neighbors would have them believe. We admit, with them, that the progress, until the present year, has been slow; but this cannot be wondered at, when all the circumstances, which oper- ated against it, are brought to view. In any place ever suffered by misrepresentation and falsehood, Centreville has. In the first place, those who felt disposed to settle here were told that the only advantage this place had, was the seat of Justice, and that this would be taken from it in a short time—secondly, it was represented as a place of no business—and thirdly, it was said to be one of the most sickly places in the western country; that it was not only impossible to live in it, but it was actually dangerous to pass through it. Hence, this progress was slow. But we are gratified to have it in our power to state, that the stratagems of these men are likely to fail; the people, (even strangers) begin to see their object; and many have proved their assertions false. That the seat of Justice is permanently fixed at this place there can be no doubt—that business is as lively here, as in any other town in the state of its size, is also a fact; in proof of this we would state, there are now erecting a Methodist Meeting house 30 by 25 feet—a handsome brick fire proof building, de- signed as offices for the Clerk and Record- er of the county, and about 10 or 12 large dwelling houses; it is also probable that a large building for a County Seminary, will be commenced in this place in the course of the present season. Does this any thing progress? As to the health of the place, we can safely state, that it is passed by but few towns in the western country; there has been but one death in the last 13 months. Hence, we think, strangers may stop here, or at least through without the least danger.

asking improvements!!!—Puff extra- ordinary!

Walling: By a traveller who re- cently ventured to pass through Centre- ville, I am informed that the most aston- ishing improvements are progressing in the place. He assures me that no less than 1000, 12, three story brick buildings were erected there last week, and that splendid Seminary Edifice, which cov- ers 1000-1000 of an acre of ground, was as far as the room called the Judge's isters. These, with divers churches and other necessary buildings, not forget- ting the superb new mansion of a certain gentleman of letters, give the place quite imposing appearance. Thus to be- d a village in a retired part of the coun- ty, as remote from facilities for manufac- turing as from advantages of commerce, rising through the almost insuperable barriers which dame nature opposes to her vancement, emerging from the obscu- rity of her native obscurity, and dis- playing at once and as it were by magic, the full blaze of her wealth, her enterprize her talents, and her mighty energies—it strikes us at once with amazement, and we are constrained to say, who shall set bounds to the inexhaustible and incalcu- lable resources of our country!

OBSERVER.

The Montreal Herald contains informa- tion of the progress made by Captain Franklin, in his late Arctic land expedi- tion, from which we gather that, on the 12th of June last, he was about starting from his winter quarters. Another lette written on the 26th of June, was dated at Fort Norman, when he was on his way down Makensie's river towards the Pacific Ocean. Having reached the mouth of this river, the expedition proceeded to sur- vey the coast of the Pacific, which they did from 113 deg. to 149 deg. 38 min. west longitude. They suppose that in five days further progress they would have reached the icy Cape, but for the circum- stance of their having, for fifteen days, been involved in dense fogs, which put a stop to their operations in that direction. The expedition met with some annoyance from the Esquimaux, who attempted to pillage, but these people were easily dis- persed by the simple and humane process of firing a few blank shots over their heads. On the 17th of August, Captain Franklin began to retrace his steps eastward, and reached Fort Franklin on the 21st of Sep- tember.—N. Y. American.
