WILL ISSUE NO BONDS.

The House Refuses to Indorse Senator Sherman's Plan for Three Per Cent. Thus Practically Killing the Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The last effort to relieve the financial situation by legislation has failed. The house, after some debate, the principal feature of which was a spirited speech by Bourke Cockran, non-concurred in the senate amendments to the sundry civil appropriation bill, and sent that important measure to a conference committee.

The meaning of this action is that the Sherman amendment, inserted in this bill by the senate, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue 3 per cent. bonds, will be killed by the conference committee, the house members of which are Messrs. Holman, Sayres and Cogswell.

The vote against the bond amendment was overwhelming and was undoubtedly due to the fact that Mr. Carlisle communicated to a number of the democratic leaders of the house that the present law was ample to permit the issue of bonds. Mr. Carlisle feared that the entire sundry bill might be jeopardized by the Sherman bond "rider" and he preferred to risk the passage of this most important bill.

The sending of the sundry civil bill to conference appears to end the chances of an extra session and at the same time to leave the question of currency without any probability of action under this administration. It is understood in Washington that there will be no heavy gold shipments from New York this week.

This news was especially pleasing to President Harrison, who is extremely anxious that his administration should close without increase of the public debt. To issue bonds, under any circumstances, would have been an absolute reversal of the policy which he has followed for four years of buying bonds with the surplus money in the treasury, thereby reducing the public debt and saving interest. When a telegram was brought to the president at the white house during the morning announcing that there would be no gold shipments this week large enough to decrease seriously the balance of free gold in the treasury President Harrison did not conceal his delight.

Treasurer Nebeker, speaking of the drain of gold that has been going on for the past year or more, said it was largely the work of speculators on the New York stock exchange. The export of gold had the effect of bearing stocks by selling stocks and then exporting gold. The profit made on their stocks not only compensated for the freight charges, insurance, etc., on the gold shipped, but left a profit. Then, too, as France and Austria were in the market after gold, the specie found ready sale on the other side.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—One of the most important bills affecting railroads ever passed by congress was that which went through the house Monday afternoon providing for a uniform system of brakes and car-couplers. The bill has already passed the senate, so that the action of the house Monday insures a comprehensive American system of safeguards for railway travel. The bill passed in spite of the most bitter opposition from the railroads, which contended that it would bankrupt some of the southern roads and would cost the railroads of the country from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. The final passage of the bill was attended by many exciting scenes; members were wrought to a pitch of excitement they had not felt before in months.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The pension appropriation bill was passed by the senate Monday without any amendments. It appropriates for army and navy pensions (including widows and minor children) $165,000,000 and about $1,500,000 in addition for fees of examining surgeons, clerk hire at pension agencies and some small items.

Kansas Populists Decide to Give Up Their House Organization.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 28.—After a heated caucus discussion lasting from 8:30 Monday morning until 6 o'clock p. m. the populist members of the legislature decided to go into the republican house, which the supreme court had declared to be the legal body. The governor visited the members of the caucus and pledged himself to abide by the caucus decision. The populists will enter representative hall in a body this morning and qualify. The only legislation that will now be attempted during the few days of the session remaining will be the passing of appropriation bills, thus preventing an extra session. The appeal against the decision of the supreme court will be made at the general election two years hence. In going into the house the populists have asked no concessions and the republicans have granted none.

There is talk among republican members of the legislature of filing articles of impeachment against Gov. Lewelling. This movement did not assume definite shape until Monday afternoon. Should the house prefer the charges it is not contemplated that the senate would convict. The governor will be charged with high crimes and misdemeanors in office by the usurpation of powers that belonged to the peace officers of the county and with the unlawful use of troops.

$3 Worth of Hood's Cured When Others Failed

"In 1879 I had an eruption appear on my left leg and arm. Sometimes it would ulcerate and on account of it I was unable to work a great deal of the time. I had seven doctors examine and treat me without success. Some called it psoriasis, some eczema, some salt rheum and one knowing one called it prairie itch. All the doctors in the country had a trial but none did me a particle of good. I spent all my spare money trying to get relief. Finally I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After using one and a half bottles I saw the benefit. I have now used the third bottle and am completely cured."

It is now a "Nostrum," though at first it was compounded after a prescription by a regular physician, with no idea that it would ever go on the market as a proprietary medicine. But after compounding that prescription over a thousand times in one year, we named it "Piso's Cure for Consumption," and began advertising it in a small way. A medicine known all over the world is the result.

Why is it not just as good as though costing fifty cents as to a dollar for a prescription and an equal sum to have it put up at a drug store?
