"German Syrup"

Mr. Albert Hartley of Hudson, N. C., was taken with Pneumonia. His brother had just died from it. When he found his doctor could not rally him he took one bottle of German Syrup and came out sound and well. Mr. S. B. Gardiner, Clerk with Druggist J. E. Barr, Aurora, Texas, prevented a bad attack of pneumonia by taking German Syrup in time. He was in the business and knew the danger. He used the great remedy—Boschee's German Syrup—for lung diseases.

Pet Ideas

You have pet ideas; so have everybody; there is something you want; something you need; something which will give you pleasure in having; you cannot spare the money; earn it; you can afford to buy anything if you earn the money to buy it with. THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL everybody wants; a lady-like suggestion is sufficient to make people take it; why not do this suggesting for us? Write us, and we will tell you how to make money for both of us.

Exhibitors Hastening to Get Their Displays in Shape for the Grand Opening—Fresh Relics and Rarities.

[Special Chicago Correspondence]

transportation is thoroughly equipped and ready to handle ten times the daily bulk that has yet been received on the grounds.

Preliminary estimates give thirty thousand car loads as the probable amount of exhibits that must be received, unpacked and installed before May 1. Up to date only four hundred car loads have been received. There are sixty working days left. If, from now on, five hundred car loads of exhibits should be received each day the last exhibit would not be installed until the evening before May 1. It is highly important that the transportation department should not be overcrowded at the last moment, and that is why exhibitors have been asked to come early and avoid the rush.

The different state exhibits are rapidly approaching completion and it is safe to predict that this part of the great exposition will be in order for the opening day.

Great efforts are being put forth to make the agricultural displays a brilliant success. Each state is vying with the other in this department, and the brisk competition for supremacy in the matter of display will be productive of some rare and novel features.

Missourians are all in a glow of enthusiasm over the state's exhibit. Now that installation has been begun they can see the benefit that will accrue to them if their display is generous in its proportions, and are laboring accordingly. One of the features of their display will be a statue of George Washington built of cereals, and another will be an agricultural pagoda constructed of products of the field, surmounted by a globe bearing a model of the Santa Maria, Columbus' ship, and bearing upon the several sides figures time there was no railroad in Chicago running east. The Lake Shore, which was the first to reach this city, had not at that time completed its line. The locomotive was purchased for the Galena & Chicago Union railway, which was constructing a line to Galena, Ill., and its first service was to haul rails and ties for the extension of the new line. It weighs, all told, 8,073 pounds and has only six wheels. There are but two drivers and these are connected directly with the piston rod. Its fittings are extremely simple and the engineer who drove it had no difficulty in finding the bars and levers necessary to operate it. The locomotive is owned by the Chicago & Northwestern railroad and has been named the "Pioneer." The locomotive was built in Philadelphia in 1836. It was originally constructed for the Utica & Schenectady railroad and subsequently sold to the Galena. It has no brakes of any sort and its whistle is of a diminutive character. It is the first locomotive to be installed in the Transportation building.

THE "PIONEER."

There will be no exhibition at the Columbian exposition of the progress that has been made in hotels and hotel-keeping since Columbus discovered America. Probably the nearest thing to a "hotel exhibition" will be the reproduction of Pickwick's White Horse Inn, and the visitors to Chicago will probably find all the modern hotel exhibition they care to see outside of the grounds.

The great White Horse Inn, a duplicate exteriorly of the English hostelry made so famous by Charles Dickens in "Pickwick Papers," has an excellent location on the world's fair grounds, and in many respects will doubtless be one of the most interesting of the many attractions. The building is almost completed. It occupies a pretty site south of Machinery hall and not far from the southeast corner of the park. As a large majority of the American people are descendants of British subjects, the chief object of the originators of this novel restaurant was to have something typical of the old English tavern, and, as the great White Horse Inn is best known the world over, it was selected as the most appropriate. But in order to accommodate symbolical of the discovery of the new world.

Chief Holcomb's department has already handled some antique exhibits. It has taken the trunk of one of California's mammoth trees into the grounds on ordinary flat cars, removed it with skids and rollers inside the United States government building, where it is now erected in the tall dome. The department has landed a United States postal car on the track inside the government building and swung it to its allotted place with special cranes and jacks. In the Mines and Mining building an exhibit from Pennsylvania consisting of a steel plate one hundred and fifty feet long, twenty inches wide and half an inch thick, has been put in place. In the same building the department has landed two pieces of red sandstone from Wisconsin, each about twenty-two feet long and about three and one-half feet square, also six more cubes of the same material, measuring five feet on each side.

There arrived at Jackson park a few days ago a quaint little locomotive fifty-seven years old and with a history possessed by no other engine in the country. This little old locomotive was the first one used on a railroad west of Chicago and was the first one to come into Chicago. Forty-four years ago it was shipped here by lake. At that one time. On the second floor will be two handsomely-fitted private dining-rooms, arranged to catch the old English dinner windows, thus affording a fine view of the lake. The kitchen will be in charge of an English chef and English cooks, the best that can be secured.

The British section at the world's fair will be decorated in part by some seventy banners bearing respectively the arms of different municipal corporations in the kingdom, such as London, Edinburgh, Dublin, Ayr, Canterbury, etc. The British royal commission invited the corporations to furnish the banners, and some loaned those they possessed, while others had their official insignia reproduced for the occasion.

A WORLD'S FAIR ODE.

The following ode, suggested by the forthcoming Chicago exhibition, has been written by Mr. Swinburne and set to music by Prof. Stanford:

SUNSET SMILES ON SUNRISE; east and west are one,
Face to face in Heaven before the sovereign sun.
From the springs of the dawn everlasting a glory renews and transfigures the west,
From the depths of the sunset a light as of morning enkindles the broad sea's breast,
And the lands and the skies and the waters are glad of the day's and the night's work done.

Child of dawn, and regent on the world-wide sea,
England smiles on Europe, fair as dawn and free.
Not the waters that gird her are purer, nor mightier the winds that her waters know.
But America, daughter and sister of England is praise of them, far as they flow;
Atlantic responds to Pacific the praise the days that have been and shall be.

So from England westward let the watchword fly,
So for England eastward let the sea reply:
Praise, honor and love everlasting be sent on the wind's wings, westward and east,
That the pride of the past and the pride of the future may mingle as friends at feast,
And the sons of the lords of the world-wide sea be one till the world's life dies.

—A. C. Swinburne, in Pall Mall Gazette.

PAPIER MACHE GENERALS.

How the War Department Will Illustrate a Portion of Its Exhibit.

Believing the sight the easiest channel whereby visitors may comprehend the intricacies of war maneuvers the United States government has adopted a full set of manikins to illustrate the war department exhibit, and will also make use of a few papier mache men in the fisheries exhibit. These figures have the style and motion of the Columbian guards, are decidedly more polite to strangers, and carry themselves with the same nonchalant air that is peculiar to their be-tinsed contemporaries. Indeed the similarity is striking, as the dummies are constructed of a material that to the touch resembles the human skin. Breath, the use of tobacco and the power to become insolent without provocation—they have white gloves—are the only qualities lacking.

The government will make the manikins of some use. They will stand at the batteries, illustrating how a field piece is handled in action, or, clothed in the rougher habiliments of the plains, will bestride papier-mache mules and demonstrate how a pack train appears on the plains of the far west. The make-believe men will also serve to display the different uniforms in use in the army. Just now the manikins are concealed in hoods of black cloth and are reposing under a tent of sailcloth. In their embryo state of course it is impossible to tell which is which, but in a few days the coverings will be removed and the nondescripts will blossom forth as generals, colonels, captains, mule-drivers, chaplains and privates. In the meantime the dummy mules are boxed up in their crates and the horses stand in long rows, each with a fore foot lifted as if ready for a dash.

Social Events.

Special days are to be a great feature at the world's fair. Nearly if not quite every state in the union will have its day, upon which special exercises will be held, and its governor and staff, other state officers, militia and thousands of its distinguished and other citizens will be in attendance. Receptions will be held at the state buildings, respectively, and the governors and others will make speeches. Many musical, civic and secret societies also have made application for a special day upon which to hold exercises peculiar to themselves. Among them are the masons, odd fellows, knights of phthias and foresters. The Welsh eisteddfod will have an entire week for a musical celebration. It is believed that these special features will draw many additional thousands of visitors to the fair. Arrangements for these special days are being made by Col. Culp, secretary of the ceremonial committee, which had the dedication day exercises in charge.

Wood Carving at the Fair.

One part of the work done by women for different parts of the woman's building at the world's fair will be a series of panels in wood carving. A panel carved by an Ohio girl on highly-polished cherry wood shows three intertwining palm branches; one from the state of Alabama and worked on magnolia wood is beautifully carved with magnolias in leaf, bud and flower. Three young women who are pupils in the Chicago art school have also contributed panels. One represents corn flowers, one nasturtiums and one apple blossoms. Nearly every state in the union has sent a panel of some wood peculiar to itself.

Will Entertain Foreign Visitors.

Some of the leading business men of Chicago have organized to build a club on the fair grounds for the entertainment of foreign visitors to Chicago during the exposition period. The club will be known as the International Columbian Inn, the last title being selected apparently to distinguish the association from others which have been brought into existence for the purpose of showing Chicago's hospitality to strangers.

THE WOMAN WHO WORKS, and is tired, will find a special help in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Perfectly harmless in any condition of the female system. It promotes all the natural functions, and builds up, strengthens, regulates, and cures. For women approaching confinement, nursing mothers, and every weak, run-down, delicate woman, it is an invigorating, supporting tonic that's peculiarly adapted to their needs.

But it's more than that, too. It's the only guaranteed remedy for all the functional disturbances, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of womanhood. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, bearing-down sensations, internal inflammation, and kindred ailments, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Something else that pays the dealer better, may be offered as "just as good." Perhaps it is, for him, but it can't be, for you.

What to do with Milk Pails!
Clean them with Pearline. You can't get them so thoroughly sweet and pure in any other way. Besides, it's easier for you—quicker, more economical.

"The box and barrel churn are not hard to keep clean. A little hot water and a little Pearline will clean any churn or do away with any bad odor."—The Dairy World, Chicago.

Perhaps you think that some of the imitations of Pearline, that you'd be afraid to use in washing clothes, would do just as well in work like this. They wouldn't hurt tinware, certainly. But they wouldn't clean it, either, half as well as Pearline—besides, "don't play with the fire." If your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back.
