IN 1862, against Democratic opposition, a Republican congress passed an income tax law, and in 1870, as a Democratic measure, this law was repealed. In opposing this repeal, John Sherman, speaking for his party, June 22, 1870, said, "here we have in New York, Mr. Astor with an income of millions, derived from real estate accumulated year after year by mere family pride of accumulation, and we have alongside of him a poor man receiving $1,000 a year. What is the discrimination of the law in this case? It is altogether against the poor man. Everything he consumes is taxed, and yet we are afraid to tax the income of Mr. Astor. Is there any justice in it? Why, sir, the income tax is the only one that tends to equalize these burdens between the rich and the poor." To-day Mr. Sherman and his party are opposing "the only tax that tends to equalize the burdens between the rich and the poor," and to-day the Democratic party is trying to pass the very law it so violently opposed in '62 and '70. How parties do change. Should the income tax become a law and the Democrats remain in power, they will repeal it in 18 months. If the Republicans control the next congress, they will repeal this law, if it becomes a law, and a Democratic president will sign the bill. Neither of the old parties want to equalize the burdens of taxation between the rich and the poor.

FROM WASHINGTON.

An Interesting Batch of New From the Capitol.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, July 27, 1894.
Impeachment proceeding against one or more U. S. Senators, not for having speculated in sugar stock—there's no law except that of general morality against Senators making money by speculating on legislation upon which they vote—but for having lied about it, would be a fitting finale to the numerous scandals which have attended the present session of Congress and the testimony taken by the Senate investigating committee is certainly beginning to tend that way. The committee has in its possession a photograph of an order for the purchase of a sugar trust stock which purports to be signed by Senator Camden, of West Virginia, who swore that he never purchased any sugar stock, and at least two reputable witnesses have testified that they saw the original order and that the stock was purchased, and other Senators are, according to these witnesses, in the same boat. It is only fair to state that Senator Camden claims that his signature to the order was forged for blackmailing purposes. Meanwhile the committee seems to be earnestly trying to get at the whole truth, which is what the public wants.

The inside history of the tariff bill as given during the past week by those who have controlled its making, is not creditable to anybody. It seems that in addition to being, as the late Gen. Hancock said when he was a Presidential candidate, a local question, the tariff is also a personal question. Although there is nothing in sight, notwithstanding two caucuses of Democratic Senators this week, to warrant the assertion that the second conference which has been ordered on the tariff bill will be more successful than the first there is an impression here that it will be, but nobody ventures to predict the precise nature of the agreement.

A rumor, which circumstances gained credence for, has it that President Cleveland's letter, which created such a rumpus, was written as long ago as the 18th of June, and not to Chairman Wilson, but to a democratic editor of a New York paper. The rumor has it that the letter was shown to Secretary Carlisle and that he was opposed to its being sent, and succeeded in persuading Mr. Cleveland to suppress it. A few days later Mr. Cleveland showed the letter to Hon. Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan, who fully approved it and advised that it be made public, suggesting that it be sent to Chairman Wilson instead of the editor to whom it was first addressed. Accordingly the necessary changes were made and July 2nd substituted for the original date. The puzzling thing about the matter is how could Mr. Cleveland have known on the 18th of June, or for that matter on the 2nd of July, that the Senate conference would stand out several weeks later against all persuasion or threats on the part of the House conferees for free coal and iron ore and the sugar schedule.

The bills for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona now only need an opportunity to be voted upon to become laws, as they have been favorably reported to the Senate, and President Cleveland has promised to sign them.

Representative Tucker, of Va., whose resolution for a Constitutional amendment providing for the election of U. S. Senators by the people passed the House the other day, is firm in his belief that the Senate will also pass the resolution. Mr. Tucker may have some inside information as to what the Senate will do, but most other men who are familiar with things Congressional would consider that it would be like finding money to get some fellow to wager that he required two-thirds of the present Senate will ever vote for Mr. Tucker's resolution. The new Senators whose terms will begin March 4, 1895, may or may not strengthen the friends of the proposed Constitutional amendment.

The Hatch anti-option bill, which passed the House recently, is now in the hands of a subcommittee of the Senate committee on Agriculture consisting of Senators Roach, Washburn and Peffer. No decision has been reached, but it is said that Mr. Washburn prefers the bill that was before the Senate at the last session of Congress to the Hatch bill. Whatever the action of the committee may be there is no probability that the matter will get before the Senate until next winter.

Representative Talbot, of S. C., this week introduced in the House a resolution instructing the committee on Coinage to at once bring in a bill for the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, and the committee on Banking and Currency to report to the House some one or all of the bills before it looking to a change in the monetary system. A preamble to the resolution says that inasmuch as the House and Senate will probably consume considerable time in adjusting their tariff differences now is a convenient time to meet the demands of the people for financial legislation. Chairman Bland, of the Coinage committee, wants to report a free coinage bill and would have done so before now only he has been unable to get a quorum of the free coinage members of his committee together and the other members will not assist in ordering the bill reported.

Mr. J. C. ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, in the treatment of diarrhoea in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the diarrhoea very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I knew of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. B. Meyer, Druggist.

If you have not yet procured one of those pretty watch case openers, get one from your jeweler, or send to Philadelphia. They are furnished free by the Keystone Watch Case Company. Besides making a handsome charm for your chain, they save your fingernails and knife-blades. The Keystone Company is the largest of its kind in the world, and makes all kinds of cases, from the low-priced nickel to the most expensive solid gold. Its great specialty is the Jas. Boss filled case. James Boss invented and made the first filled case in 1859, and many of the cases then made and worn since are still intact. Later the Boss patents passed into the hands of the Keystone Watch Case Company, which has the sole right to make these cases. Boss cases are known to all jewelers as the standard, after which all other filled cases are patterned. All Keystone cases, Boss cases included, have the far-famed Non-pull-out bow or ring. It is the only bow that is securely fastened to the case, and can only be had on cases made by this Company. It prevents the loss of the watch by theft and injury by dropping. These cases are handled by all jewelers, as the Company itself does not retail.
