FROM WASHINGTON.

An Interesting Batch of News From the Capitol.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, Sept. 1, 1894. □

Congress has only been playing at being in session this week, while everybody is impatiently waiting for President Cleveland to settle the tariff uncertainty. It was hoped that Mr. Cleveland would act as soon as he returned to Washington, but the indications now are that no action will be taken by him before Monday, if then. If the bill isn't vetoed before or on Monday it will become a law at midnight on that day. Great pressure is being brought upon the President to sign the bill at once, but pressure doesn't count for much in influencing Mr. Cleveland. While a majority of the people still believe that the bill will become a law, there has been a noticeable increase in the number who expect to be vetoed, since the President's return to the White House.

The advance guard of the Knights of Pythias encampment, to be held next week, are here, and they are all loud in their complaints against the railroads for not making lower rates for those who wished to attend the encampment. It is estimated that the attendance will be only about half of what it would have been with a fair charge for transportation.

The most strongly endorsed resolution for the free coinage of silver ever presented in Congress or elsewhere is that offered by Representative Hartman, of Montana. Among the official endorsements are those of Grand Master Sovereign and Secretary Hayes, of the Knights of Labor; Marion Butler, president of National Farmer's Alliance; Samuel Gompers, president American Federation of Labor; P. M. Arthur, Chief of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; John McBride, president of United Mine Workers; President-Treasurer and Secretary Maguire, of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Grand Master Sergeant and Secretary Arnold, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and C. A. Robinson, president of the Farmer's Mutual Benefit Association. In addition to demanding a return to the free coinage of silver at a 16 to 1 ratio, the resolution condemns increasing the bonded indebtedness of the country in time of peace, and the use of interest-bearing bonds at any time. In an address to the people attached to the resolution, a unique method of showing the depreciation in the price of agricultural products since silver was demonetized is adopted. For instance, the address says: "Before the demonetization of silver 3,500 bushels of wheat or 35,000 pounds of cotton equaled the salary of the President, while today 10,000 bushels of wheat or 100,000 pounds of cotton only equal a Congressman's salary, and 100,000 bushels of wheat or 1,000,000 pounds of cotton that of the President."

In view of the slurs which have been cast upon the legal ability of Senator Hill, the following opinion of Representative Daniels, a republican, who was for more than 28 years a judge of the N. Y. Supreme Court, before his election to Congress, is suggestive and timely: "In all the cases that Mr. Hill tried before me his papers were the evidence of close study and careful preparation. He never stated a point that was not intended to be proven and it was always put in the most effective way. I found that where he made a point he knew his ground and could logically defend it. When he set out to prove anything it usually proved to be so. His papers were as neat and as accurate as any I ever saw and there was never the slightest trace of carelessness or slip-shod work. He is without question a lawyer of the first rank." There are several men in the Senate who believe him also to be a politician of the first rank.

No better example of the difficulty of predicting in advance what will be the action of either branch of Congress upon any given measure can be cited than the anti-anarchist bill, now hung up in the House by the absence of a quorum, and the opposition of two or three men. The bill was prepared by the Superintendent of Immigration, he claims upon information that a large number of dangerous anarchists, who will be compelled by new laws to leave France and Italy, are now preparing to come to this country. It passed the Senate without opposition and was favorably reported upon by the House Judiciary committee. It authorizes the Supt. of Immigration to prevent the landing of alien anarchists and to deport those now in the United States.

It is worthy of note that two out of the three members of the House—Warner, of N. Y. City, and Goldzier, of Chicago—who have expressed opposition to the bill represent constituencies which would naturally be supposed to have the greatest dread of an increase in the number of anarchists, having had a taste of what anarchy means.

The opposition of the third,—Bland, of Missouri—is even more difficult to understand, as he represents an agricultural constituency. They all claim that their opposition is because the bill is not properly drawn and that it gives the Superintendent of Immigration more authority than can safely be put into the hands of any one man. Pressure is being brought to bear on absent members of the House to get enough of them to return to make a quorum.

WHEAT AS ANIMAL FOOD.

Information of Value to Farmers and Stock Raisers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—A bulletin on wheat as animal food has been issued by the Agricultural Department. It was compiled by Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the animal industry bureau of the department, and is in response to inquiries as to the value of wheat for growing and fattening animals, suggested by the important change in the comparative prices of wheat, corn and oats. The bulletin advocates the use of screenings and imperfect wheat as animal food and the placing of only the best wheat on the market. A statistical table shows the near approach chemically of 26.6 pounds of wheat to the German standard ratio for growing cattle from six to twelve months of age, and the fact that 38 1/3 pounds of wheat comes much nearer the feeding standard for fattening cattle than does the same quantity of corn. Equal parts of wheat and corn should, however, prove better for fattening animals than either of these grains alone. For growing animals corn is plainly not so suitable as is wheat. When wheat and corn are the same price, says the bulletin, it is preferable to feed wheat and sell corn. Wheat weighs 7 per cent. heavier per bushel than corn; secondly, because wheat is weight for weight an equally good grain for fattening animals and better for growing animals; and, thirdly, because there is much less value in fertilizing elements removed from the farm in corn than in wheat. Wheat should at first be fed in small quantities, and, when possible, be mixed with some other grain, and care taken to prevent any one animal from getting any more than quantity intended for it. Precautions are especially necessary when wheat is fed to horses. The best form in which to feed wheat is to roll or grind into a coarse meal. From Canadian experiments it appears that wheat excels corn in feeding value, while in South Dakota corn was found to exceed wheat.
