ALF. W. HOPKINS, Agt.

About as unique and pleasant affair as has taken place this season, was the Hallowe'en party given by the Happy Go Lucky club, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McCoy, Wednesday evening. The guests assembled at 7:30 and chose their partners by means of questions and answers hidden in the intricate recesses of cuccoons. A progressive domino social followed after which the mirth-makers repaired to the second floor, and at the given signal, appeared in the guise of witches and spooks. The solemn procession wended their way down the winding labyrinth to the mystic cave below, where fiery dragons and serpents stared them in the face on all sides, and hissed with their tongues of flame. They followed the unravelling of the mystic web by the spooks who were rewarded in their laborious task by being brought face to face with a spook of the opposite sex, who were considered mates for the festival of Jack O'lanterns which took place immediately after the witches promenade, led by Luella McCoy. The guests all seated the sport began, and many were the pranks which these mischief making beings played upon one another. And then followed the feast, after which the departure of the witches, devils, and aerial people to their caverns and romantic homes.

A Walker for Money.

Considerable interest was manifested yesterday when a gentleman, who arrived on the north bound afternoon train and registered at the McKeever house, stated that he expected Mr. Henry Schmehl, a professional walker, would arrive about 9 p. m., en route from Indianapolis to Chicago. He stated that he was to accomplish the feat in 72 hours, on a wager of $1,000. The hotel office was crowded at the appointed time, but the walker did not arrive until about 1 a. m. He was accompanied by Daniel O'Leary, ex-champion walker of the world. The men retired and slept until 6 a. m., when they continued their journey. There are several side bets, one of $500.

Sheep.

The undersigned has a nice lot of shropshire ewes that he will put out on the shares, or sell and contract the lambs and wool, or sell on time till the money can be made out of them. He also has feeding sheep lambs and wethers which he will sell and contract back when fatted. Parties wishing any of above call on A. McCoy.

Buy your wife one of those fine $2.75 Oak Rockers of Jay W. Williams.
