

IS GROVER A TRAITOR?

In Time of War His Secret Conspiracy

Would Be treason.

If our country were in a state of war with Great Britain and President Cleveland were to secretly meet and conspire with the agents of that country he would be arrested, court-martialed, and shot or hanged as a traitor.

The country is in a state of war, not with Great Britain as a nation, but with British capitalists. There is a hand-to-hand, life-and-death struggle going on between the toiling, struggling classes and the capitalist class. Ours is no less a state of war than if it were more tangibly expressed by encamped soldiers, by pointed bayonet and canon. The sick and wounded, dying and dead victims of this deadly struggle in every city, every hamlet, at every mining camp, factory, machine shop and by the road side from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

By way of business investment Great Britain has captured our railways, our stocks, bonds and securities of every sort. By way of legislation at our national capital Great Britain has captured our finances. We have here at the white house as nominal president of the United States the tool, the agent and the hired spy of British capitalism. With awful audacity, and with titanic insolence President Cleveland has within the past fortnight held conference with the enemies of this nation. He has not only acceded to their dictation but with stupendous effrontry has sent his sub-traitor Carlisle into the very citadel of the nation, into the national house of legislation with a treason black copy of the terms of surrender which the British fo exacted. O, American patriots, has ever drop of the red blood of '76 pale and washed out to taint water under the poisonous dripping from the upas tree of partyism? How like fierce wild beasts you would pursue this traitor Cleveland were he a spy from the enemy's soldier camp. But just because the treason is political the people bend the knee and bow the head in ignorant, helpless superstition and let our great republic be delivered soul and body into the possession of the enemy.

What ought to be done with the traitor Cleveland? Why he should be impeached and dismissed forever to expatriation and to the awful doom of disfranchised, excommunicated from the republic. He ought neither to be mobbed, shot or hanged. It never does any good to take life. Besides hanging is too good for Cleveland.—Anna L. Diggs, in Topeka Advocate.

A Condition.

Rockefeller has $175,000,000; Stu Peters has a wife and nine children. Rockefeller and Peters both work hard—one to care for his millions, the other to keep his family from starving. One cursed with too much; the other cursed because he lacks enough. Both industrious; both thrifty; both slaves. A few years both will go away. One to the other to—. Both will leave families. The family of the one nursed in luxury to effeminacy, will gradually yield an existence and go out in silence; the family of the other, the prey of temptation, chased by gaunt want from refuge to refuge, will fly at last for temporary succor of pain and woe, to a life of dishonor. Crime will at last be their only resort. A few escapades; death, prison, the gallows, and the curtain will drop. Two families will have gone out forever. Strong and good blood coursed through the veins of both at the beginning of their career, yet darkness and oblivion will soon claim them all. Why this mockery of human aspirations and human consecration? Aye. That is the question this generation of men and women is called upon to answer. A social system, based upon greed-giving to the shrewdest the monopoly of life's opportunities, by a strange fatality damns those who take advantage of the unjust conditions it decrees. As a consequent of the wreckage of the one class, the other contemporaneously goes out to a certain destruction. Dismal death obliterates every scion of every family. Ruin to all decreed. Ruin to all decreed in the immutable law which curses with its persistent evolutionizing energy the selfish systems of humanity. Greed is transitory; it is error. Ethics is permanent; it is truth. The story of man is the demonstration that selfishness destroys those who grow fat over its gain and indulgences, as well as those who suffer by the consequent injustice. Men go out under the dooms-laden operation of this infinite law. Families vanish; nations struggle and succumb and civilizations perish. All history amplifies, and is a commentary upon the statements herein made—Progressive Age.

In Trouble.

Mr. Taylor, the colored gentleman whom Mr. Cleveland appointed as recorder at Washington, is in trouble charged with being too frisky in the presence of several young ladies in his employ. Two of the young ladies testify that he made improper proposals to them. Of course it is all a mistake. "The king can do no wrong," and why should the king's favorite be adjudged guilty of doing anything wicked? Now, if it had been Coxey or Carl Browne or Christopher Columbus Jones, and they had been crowded over on the grass by the police, then it might reasonably be expected that they would be put in jail, and that without much ceremony. But C. H. J. Taylor, being one of the President's elect, will reign on, and if the girls don't like his kind of behavior they can seek employment elsewhere, that's all.

The rebellion in Cuba has assumed alarming proportions. Fully 6,000 men are already under arms.

CRIME.

Thomas Hayes of Brightwood, Ind., was found dead in a barn, apparently murdered.

Henry Long, who lived near Purvis, Miss., shot his wife and his brother-in-law and blew out his own brains.

In a drunken brawl among Hungarians at Maltby, Pa., Mrs. Anna Tonish was fatally stabbed by George Line. Her husband, Alexander Tonish, received nine knife wounds.

At New York Charles Janda, 20 years old, a Bohemian tailor, shot and instantly killed his sister-in-law, Mrs. Camilla Janda, and then committed suicide.

The postoffice at Montpelier, Ind., was robbed of $200 in cash. The explosion aroused the police, who wounded one of the robbers, but all escaped.

J. F. Maranda, city treasurer of Spring Valley, Ill., pleaded guilty at Princeton to embezzeling $3,000. He had unsuccessfully tried to fix the blame on ex-Mayor Jack.

The parsonage of the German church at La Porte, Ind., was robbed, and the Rev. C. A. Leober of Chicago, who was a guest, lost $100.

Banker M. A. Thayer was placed under bonds for $12,000 at Sparta, Wis., charged with obtaining deposit money unlawfully.

John Brown, colored, was sentenced to two years in prison at Waukegan, Ill., for stealing an overcoat.

Carl Shaw, treasurer of Blaine county, Okla., has been imprisoned for embezzeling $7,000.

G. W. Moffatt, of Bradford, Ill., shot and killed himself because of despondency.

OBITUARY.

James W. Scott, proprietor and publisher of the Chicago Times-Herald, died at New York. Apoplexy was the cause of death, which was peaceful and unexpected.

Prof. James D. Dana of Yale university, probably the greatest scientist in America, died at his home in New Haven, Conn.

The new Hollingsworth building will be ready for occupancy by May 1st. It is to be occupied by B. F. Ferguson as a real estate loan, and insurance office, and by R. Phillips second barber shop.

When you can buy a good top buggy for $46 it is false economy to have an old one repaired. Warner & Son handle just such a buggy, as well as a full line of better carriages of all kinds, and at correspondingly low prices. Cash paid in advance to a manufacturer who needed money to keep from shutting down, secured an unequalled bargain which is more than divided with customers.

Wide Tires Have Come.

For several weeks the Pilot has urged the necessity of wide tires for all traffic wagons to preserve and improve the roads, especially the gravel roads. The enterprising firm of Warner & Son have seconded the effort by the purchase of a large shipment of the very best wagons, with wide tires, which arrived this week, and are now stored in their large ware rooms. This order is one of the largest of its kind ever given by the firm, making a string of wagons quite two blocks long. The receipt of these wagons is opportune, and at the rate they are being taken by purchasers another shipment will soon be needed. They are up to date in every particular, the purchase price is discounted by cash with order, and prices are made correspondingly low to customers. It costs nothing to examine these spendid wagons and convince yourself as to their superior value as compared with other grades and makes.

So MRS. F. E. BAKER,

of Galveston, Tex.,

SAYS OF—

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

"Having used Ayer's Hair Vigor for years, I find that it keeps my scalp clean and the hair in the best condition. My mother, now sixty years of age, has as fine a head of hair as when she was forty, a fact which she attributes to the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. It thickens the growth of the hair and restores gray hair to its original color. I cannot see how this preparation could be improved."—Mrs. F. E. BAKER, Galveston, Texas.
