There has been quite an epidemic of hog cholera in the western part of Carpenter township for the past three or four weeks.

Bessie Little, who has been dangerously ill with typhoid fever for several weeks, is at present convalescing.

J. O. B. McDougle, who was severely injured by a kick from his horse some time ago, is now attending to his duties in his store.

William E. Seymour, who went to Iowa with a party of land-seekers last week, has returned home. He says his party was well pleased with the country and that some of them will locate there. He will go again in a few days with another party.

Remington was again blessed with an excellent rain last Sunday night and Monday morning, it having rained about six hours steadily. This rain is calculated to do an immense amount of good.

The Remington schools are now again overcrowded. The town trustees are called upon to furnish another school room. They will probably utilize, for the present, a year or so, at least, the hall owned by the town on Ohio street. It is not an elegant room, but it will probably answer the purpose for a year or two, or until the town can build another good school building.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. N. Littlefield of Rensselaer was buried in the Remington cemetery last Sunday.

C. H. Peck is at present engaged in placing on the shelves a splendid stock of new clothing, boots and shoes and furnishing goods.

Carpenter township schools opened with fair attendance on the 9th inst.

Hon. George Major and family recently returned from an extended visit with relatives and friends at Frankfort, Elwood and Kokomo.

James Lister made a business trip to Benton county last Tuesday.

E. R. Burr, a former resident of this township who moved to Virginia about two years ago, was visiting friends here last week.

Dr. W. W. Swartz of Jay county is visiting his parents and numerous relatives here this week.

William Washburn of Rensselaer was in this vicinity Monday buying hogs.

Work was begun on George Nicholson's new residence the fore part of the week. Mont Dutton has the contract.

PUMPKIN ROLLER.

A Letter From Rossville.

To the Editor of The People's Pilot.

Rossville, Ind., Sept. 12.—Perhaps a few lines from Rossville might be of interest to your readers. This is quite a lively town for the size of it. The roads are graveled, so one may drive to Lafayette, Frankfort and surrounding towns at any time of the year without leaving the gravel.

The country around is nicely drained and the farms are under good state of cultivation as far as my travels have extended. The drouth has affected the wheat, oat and hay crops seriously. The fruit crop is good, all kinds adapted to this locality being plentiful and cheap. The corn promises large returns, as the result of frequent rains which have lately fallen.

There is a lack of that disposition to complain which is so apparent in many places. The people are social and jolly, accept the conditions of life about them with much better grace than is common in such cases.

There are three churches here—a Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian. All are fine looking churches and are well attended. Large attendance also at the Sunday schools of the different denominations.

Rossville is made up mostly of young people. I attended the service at the M. E. church last Sunday evening and the audience, which nearly filled the large building, was composed of the youth of this oncoming generation. The respectful attention paid to the service spoke well for the intelligence of this community.

The preacher, though seeming to interest his hearers, to me was rather on the drowsy order. Perhaps my comprehension was dull. The choir, a large one, made the service attractive by the use of such songs as "The Half Has Never Yet Been Told," from "Finest of Wheat."

Also the rendering by the quartette of gentlemen was fairly done. Monday morning after arranging register and reports for the day finds me on my way to the depot to find who the 8:20 train may bring, having interest in the Commercial House. As I stand looking at this and that one alighting from the coach with great satisfaction, I behold my daughter Sadie, whom I have not seen since that cold, frosty morning along with Messrs. Stoner, Bates and other sympathetic hearts, we laid her on a cot and bore her to the depot and placed her in a bed on a sleeper to be conveyed to the "Home," in Chicago, of which I had scarcely, I might say, any knowledge, and a heart full of anxious interest as to what would be the outcome of such a seemingly rash change.

Sadie was informed of such a "Home" only a few hours before her departure by a lady of Rensselaer, Mrs. Stockton, a daughter of John Maley.

The decision of her physicians was that a perfect rest, and time for nature to work a restoration, was absolutely necessary to recovery. Dr. David of the firm of Ives & David, 126 State street, Chicago, told me her spine was liable to disintegrate at any time, and this after a thorough examination of the patient by himself.

The doctor said the "Home" might relieve some old imaginary cases but never her's. Only a short time had elapsed when I learned that Sadie could go up and down three flights of stairs with ease; that she could bear any pressure on her spine without flinching, and her system was in good condition. I am not making a defense of Dr. Dowey's "Healing Home" or whether there is a God that heals or not. I leave that for doctors-editors-lawyers to settle as best they may.

Sadie says, like the blind man, she "Sees," and to-day I am walking the streets of Rossville attended by her whom I expected to have conveyed to me a form to be laid in Osborne cemetery. This letter already too long, must bear my expressions of thankfulness to the many friends who contributed so much of comfort in so many ways while at her sister's in Rensselaer; also to Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins, with whom she boarded when prostrated; to her physicians, who did all human skill, with human sympathy, was capable.

GRAYON PORTRAIT FREE

To Every Subscriber of The Pilot!

BY arrangement with one of the largest art houses in the United States a really marvelous opportunity is given the readers of this paper to get Crayon Portraits practically without cost, the only requirement being that the subscriber pay for the paper one year in advance, to be sent to any address desired, and pay $2.25 for the choice of six handsome frames, 25x30 inches outside measurement, better frames than are now being sold in Rensselaer for $3.50.

Curious Alaskan Custom.

A fact remarkable to our civilized women is the one that the Alaska

squaws make their ages public.

They wear a piece of wood or bone in the lower lip, the size of the ornament indicating the age of the owner.

When a girl marries her lower lip is pierced and a pea is inserted.

As she grows older this is increased in size until it is almost as wide as her chin and one-fourth of an inch high.

The result is naturally most unsightly.

There is an interesting family at Fort Wrangle, which illustrates perfectly this peculiar custom. It includes four generations.

A young girl may be seen sitting at one side of the one-roomed square frame house, while her mother, grandmother and great-grandmother are squatted on the earthen floor near the door, offering mats and baskets to the ship's passengers who come on shore.

There is no disfiguring ornament on the girl's chin, but there is a big one on the lips of her great-grandmother.
